LEGISLATORS TELL WHY THEY'RE FOR NEW CONSTITUTION

House Members Reply to The Tribune's Inquiry as to Stand on the Curtis Resolution.

CHANGE THE BASIC LAW

WOULD REQUIRE THREE YEARS

With the purpose of getting light on the prospects of action by the present general assembly upon the question of a constitutional convention, THE TRIBUNE undertook yesterday to poll the members of the house of representatives, seeking their views on this proposition.

Replies thus far received indicate that more than two-thirds of them favor the submission of the matter to the voters next year, though replies received up to date total up much fewer than the number necessary.

Thirty-one Reply "Yes."

Thirty-one members of the house thus far have declared in replies to THE TRIBUNE in favor of the resolution; three are non-committal; two favor conditionally.

The state senate last week by its adoption of the Curtis joint resolution gave its approval to the plan.

The Curtis resolution must be acted upon favorably in the house by next Friday to insure the submission of the proposition to the voters for ratification at the general election in 1914. Advocates of the measure hope to get a vote in the lower branch before final adjournment at the end of this week.

Needs a Two-thirds Vote.

Although the resolution, because of the suggested house calendar, might stand a poor chance of consideration at this late day, it may be called up by a two-thirds vote under the rules. This will be attempted. Such leaders as David E. Shanahan of Chicago, Republican spokesman on the floor, and perhaps Speaker William McKinley, are being counted on to bring the question to a vote. Mr. Shanahan has declared his intention of voting for the convention resolution. Speaker McKinley concedes that a general revision of the constitution is needed. The favorable action by the voters would insure a convention organized by the next assembly, meaning a total of three years before final adoption by the people.

"I am in favor of a constitutional convention under proper conditions and restrictions," the speaker yesterday wired THE TRIBUNE. He added that the Curtis resolution adopted by the senate had not yet reached the house and he had not had an opportunity to examine it. Until he has he withholds his opinion of the resolution.

Leaders of the house have been contending since the passage of the Curtis resolution through the senate that like action was certain in the house unless the members from Chicago and Cook county combined in opposition to the measure.

Language of the Inquiry.

In order to learn the sentiment of the house members THE TRIBUNE sent each representative this telegram:

The Curtis joint resolution, making possible revision of the state constitution by a convention, is now pending in the house. It passed the senate last week by the necessary two-thirds vote. Will you vote for it? An affirmative vote means that you are willing to submit the question of calling the convention to the voters at the general election in 1914. If a majority of the voters then approve the convention plan of framing the constitution on more modern lines the legislature of January, 1915, will make the necessary provisions for the gathering. If the house follows the lead of the senate and adopts the resolution now it will take at least three years to assemble the convention. The present constitution will then be forty-five years old. It was drafted before the trolley, the electric light, or the telephone. Do you believe men of today know better than did the men of 1870 the needs of this and coming generations? Please telegraph your answer at our expense.

Wish to Study Resolution.

Replies received show a preponderance of sentiment in favor of the convention plan of rewriting the organic law. Those who declined to commit themselves definitely did not announce absolute opposition to the proposal. A few, like the speaker, expressed a desire to study the Curtis resolution before asserting their position.

Several Chicago members were among those to come out unequivocally for the convention. Others said they were willing to waive whatever personal opinion they might hold in favor of permitting the people, as the Curtis resolution requires, to settle for themselves by vote next year, whether they want constitutional revision by a convention.

E. J. Schnackenberg, a Progressive of the Thirteenth Chicago district, was one of those who said the people should be given the opportunity to express their opinion at the polls.

"All questions of governmental importance," he said, "should, if feasible, be submitted to the people, and legislators should waive personal doubts and submit the convention proposition to the voters for their consideration."

Wants Government by the Living.

Emil Zolla of the Twenty-third Chicago district says "the Illinois constitution makes truly a government of the living by the dead." He insists "it is time for government of the living by the living."

Harry L. Shaver of the Thirty-first Chicago

LOBBY COMMITTEE SEIZES DATA OF SUGAR TRUST MEN

READ INTO SENATE RECORD

TRIED TO INFLUENCE NEWSPAPERS

Washington, D. C., June 17.—The trail of "the lobby," which the senate has been following more than two weeks, led today into the private files of the men in charge of the Washington offices of the United States Beet Sugar Industry, the leading instrument of the campaign against free sugar.

By originals of letters and telegrams and what purported to be copies of others was developed testimony of what appeared to be an attempt at a far reaching campaign to create public sentiment against free sugar through the columns of individual newspapers and the facilities of press associations.

It was a trail so long, so complicated, and so winding that after more than two hours of patient effort the committee had succeeded in reading into its record only a small part of the mass of correspondence, which senators believed had produced the most sensational evidence yet developed.

Get Sugar Man's Correspondence.

By subpoena duces tecum the committee got possession of copies of letters and telegrams of Clarence C. Hamlin, a Colorado Springs newspaper owner and beet sugar man in charge of the Washington offices of the American Beet Sugar association two years ago.

The papers included what purported to be carbon copies of letters, unsigned, but furnished as genuine by Harry A. Austin, a clerk in the offices of Truman G. Palmer, representative of the United States Beet Sugar industry.

The "industry" succeeded the "association" about two years ago and Palmer succeeded Hamlin in charge.

While the committee was after the private papers Palmer, after conference with Senator Clark of Wyoming, Hamlin's uncle, was wiring Hamlin, urging him to get a lawyer to represent his interests.

Committee Outwits Legal Move.

The committee had knowledge of this move, and hurried the letters into the record without regard to sequence. More than seventy had been read when adjournment was taken tonight.

Those read into the record were directed to managers of beet sugar companies, officers of the American Beet Sugar association, and friends of Hamlin, indicating that Hamlin, at the time of their writing, was an active figure in a campaign to organize support for the protection of the beet sugar industry and secure publicity against tariff reduction.

Some told of Hamlin traveling to large cities, giving out interviews; others, written in Washington, indicated that he was trying to circulate matter in defense of a sugar duty through the newspapers, the Associated Press and other channels to offset what he thought misleading statements put out by sugar refiners.

Publicity Not Always Gained.

The text indicated that his attempts at publicity had not always been as successful as he had hoped.

Other letters referred to a plan launched by Hamlin to have the large beet sugar companies take over $35,000 in bonds of the Chicago Inter Ocean. This was under the old management of that paper.

Other letters disclosed attempts to interest big railroad systems in the anti-free sugar campaign and to have professors of agricultural colleges appear before committees of congress with arguments favorable to the beet sugar men.

None of the letters disclosed that the railroads had been interested, or that the great news agencies had been extensively used, or that the Inter Ocean bonds had been bought.

Letters introduced did show that the sugar men had been dissatisfied with their efforts to get "interviews" carried by the Associated Press.

Letters Hurried Into Record.

Austin and a sergeant-at-arms of the senate brought a big box of the telegrams and letters to the committee room this afternoon. The committee suspended the examination of witnesses and Chairman Overman, Senators Reed and Walsh began reading them into the record.

Two telegrams were exchanged between Hamlin, Senator Clark, and Truman G. Palmer. The first of these, given out by Palmer after the committee adjourned tonight, read:

Senate sergeant at arms has required Austin to produce box said to contain your private and business papers. Have talked with your uncle and we suggest you should wire retaining attorney to protect your rights under fourth amendment to the constitution until you arrive.

Hamlin Shows No Worry.

Hamlin's telegram in reply, sent to his uncle, Senator Clark, was given to the committee. It said:

Have wire from Palmer suggesting retain attorney to prevent delivery of my papers to committee. Austin, on whom service is made, may have some of my private correspondence or papers, but so far as I remember there is nothing among them which I would object to being made public.

Hamlin added that he would hire Washing-

TANGLE IN CLOSE OF PRIVATE BANK

ASSETS ARE DOUBTFUL.

When THE TRIBUNE, last November, polled the bankers of Illinois on their attitude toward state supervision of banks, among those who denied and did not answer was the banking firm of Belt Brothers & Co. of Bunker Hill.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Bunker Hill, Ill., June 17.—[Special.]—The chances of the depositors in the defunct private bank of Belt Bros. & Co. getting 100 per cent on their claims seem remote tonight. A receivership will determine this.

The depositors' committee will announce tomorrow the completed statement, fixing the assets at $152,535 and the liabilities at $114,-090. The assets, however, are the estimates of James H. Belt, surviving partner in the firm of Belt Bros. & Co., established in 1884.

Condition Shown by Audit.

The full statement, which was given THE TRIBUNE tonight by Mayor I. E. Sanford, chairman of the audit committee, follows:

ASSETS.

Real estate	48,400
Cash on hand	247
Fixtures, other personal property	1,000
Overdrafts	251
Total	$163,536

LIABILITIES.

Ledger deposits	33,673
Certificates of deposit	41,374
Loans with collateral	29,500
Charges against real estate	7,800
Total	$114,090

It was an ironic touch of fate that within a week after State Senator Steven D. Canaday of Hillsboro and the Thirty-eighth district had assisted in killing the private banks regulation bill that one of those institutions should fall in the heart of his own district, threatening many of his constituents with ruin and causing financial embarrassment of the most pinching character to others.

Senator Canaday Is Optimistic.

When asked at Springfield today about the Belt bank failure Senator Canaday said he had heard the bank would pay dollar for dollar.

"Suppose the failure had taken place before the bill was killed," the senator was asked.

"I don't believe it would have made any difference about the result," he replied.

The failure of the bank is attributed to the prolonged drought in Macoupin county, in the vicinity of Bunker Hill. There has been no rain for seventy-five days and the fields are burning up.

The statement of the depositors' committee is considered an illuminative example of what many private banks would show if they could be examined. Cash on hand was $247, against deposits of $74,000. For instance, the realty assets consist largely of local property, a near-by farm, a holding in East St. Louis, and 100 lots in Spokane, Wash.

Mr. Belt's estimate of the total value is about $48,000, which members of the committee are inclined to doubt.

The overdrafts of $2,000 are practically uncollectable. The value of the notes and bonds, fixed at $100,000, is also expected to show heavy shrinkage.

There is also curiosity to know if any books and papers were taken from the bank about 1 o'clock Monday morning before it was definitely announced that the bank had suspended. Persons were seen in the bank at that time, and it is freely asserted Mr. Belt was among them.

Again taking up Mr. Belt's statement as to liabilities, loans with collateral are put down at nearly $30,000. This, it is explained, is money borrowed by Belt to stand off failure. Some of his assets form the collateral. There is also $7,000 charged against the realty assets, all of which indicates that the assets are intricately played, both ends against the middle, and an expert examination alone can ascertain the percentage recoverable.

Bank Unable to Pay Drafts.

The bank was founded by the present owner's father, James H. Belt Sr., and the latter's brother, Horace, who later sold out. The elder Belt died some seven years ago.

The first active trouble with the bank came a fortnight ago when a Bunker Hill merchant had a draft turned back on him as unpaid. This was settled, but the merchant talked. On Thursday last employés and customers of the St. Louis Dairy company reported they were unable to cash their pay checks drawn on the Belt bank. That also was settled.

The last payments were made Friday night, just before Belt and his cashier, W. N. Budd, left at 8 o'clock. Both men were down at 6 o'clock the next morning, an unusual time for Belt, and left later. In explanation of the failure to open it was said Belt had gone to Litchfield and Budd was sick at home.

Monday morning some eighty depositors met, conferred with Belt, and assumed control through a committee consisting of Mayor Sanford, ex-Mayor James Jencks, W. J. H. Fahrenkrog, a farmer; A. S. Cuthbertson, an attorney, and T. Albert Baker, an insurance agent. The inventory was finished last night.

DIAMOND SPECIAL HELD UP NOT FAR FROM SPRINGFIELD.

Highwaymen Force Engineer to Cut Off Baggage Car and Run Up the Track.

Springfield, Ill., June 18, 1:30 a. m.—The Diamond special on the Illinois Central railroad, due here at 12:46 this morning, was held up at Divernon, near here.

The robbers cut off the baggage car and forced the engineer to run up the road a distance.

Force Delegation of Citizens to Appeal to Suburb's Governing Board to License Theater—or They'll Quit.

A delegation of citizens appealed to the Wilmette board last night to permit a moving picture theater in that suburb. The citizens explained the north shore town was threatened with a general walkout of "hired girls" if nickel thrillers were thrown on nearby screens this summer.

Many instances were cited where servants recently have left families in Wilmette for nearby suburbs for no other reason, it is said, than the lack of kinetoscope romance to divert their minds from household routine. The nearest moving picture house at the present time is at Davis street in Evanston, a mile or two away. Two servant girls have issued to their employers in Wilmette an ultimatum that they will have picture plays near home or quit.

As a few citizens opposed licensing "movies," the board postponed action until next meeting.

ASSESSORS LIST ESTATES IN TRUST

JOHN H. BARKER'S LEADS.

Personal property valued at $26,251,336 is held by trust companies of Chicago as executors of estates or trustees of heirs and beneficiaries. The assessed valuation is $8,750,112, according to the books of the board of assessors.

The largest estate is that of John H. Barker, of which the First Trust and Savings bank is executor. It is valued at $6,195,000 and assessed, as are all the estates and trusteeships, at one-third.

The next largest is the bequest under the seventh clause of the will of Marshall Field, $1,984,600. The joint executors are the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, Chauncey Keep, and Arthur B. Jones.

The estate of Otto Young, under the care of the First Trust and Savings bank, ranks third at $1,660,000.

Other Large Estates.

First Trust and Savings bank, trustee for Samuel Graves et al., $111,900; Daisy B. Eddy, $131,000; Kate Allerton Johnstone, $155,000; executor for estate of Godfrey Weerts, $170,000, and for Samuel H. Graves, $108,000.

Illinois Trust and Savings bank, executor for estate of David J. Bachelder, $259,000; John Mason Jackson, $109,900; agent for Jennie M. Mitchell, $108,000; trustee for estate of Henry S. Pickands, $112,700; trustee for Harriett Pullman Carolan, $244,000, and Florence Pullman Lowden, $241,000, under will of late George M. Pullman; trustee estate of Daniel B. Shipman, $297,000.

Marshall Field Grandchildren.

The Illinois Trust and Savings also is listed as the depositary of the personal property of the Marshall Field grandchildren, of whom Albertine Field Drummond is guardian. Their holdings are given as $94,000 for Marshall Field III., $94,000 for Henry Field, and $104,-900 for Gwendolyn Field, all minors.

Northern Trust company, trustee for Alice B. Howard et al., $158,902; Adeline Wheeler, $282,511; Helen L. Massenat and Stella A. Legare, $1,380,086; Art institute, Ferguson estate, $355,653; Ethel F. Beatty, $206,975; Helen E. James, $108,943; Laura F. Dibblee, $157,747; George L. Bradbury, $137,307; Bertha C. Denegre, $677,501; Nancy A. Sprague, $134,941; Maud A. R. Chance, $127,-824; Marjorie B. Burnes, $110,265; Eugenie H. Matthews, $109,746; George Bullen, amity fund, $99,290.

State bank of Chicago, trustee for Calvin Durand, $100,000; Frances M. Dwight, $100,-000, and Arthur Orr, $226,626.

Most of the estates and trusteeships held by the trust companies are under the $100,000 valuation.

A man believed to be Frank Noston attempted to commit suicide last night by jumping into the river from the South Halsted street bridge. A policeman pulled him out. When taken from the river he said he was a prince and had been spurned by his sweetheart.

CURRENCY BILL PROVIDES FOR WIDE REFORM

DIVISION IN ELECTIVE RIGHT

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., June 17.—[Special.]—THE TRIBUNE presents herewith the provisions of the Owen-Glass-McAdoo banking and currency reform bill.

This bill, which has the approval of President Wilson, may be modified in some minor particulars during its consideration by congress, but in most of its features it will be the law of the land, in all probability, before the adjournment of the present session of congress.

The bill will be introduced in the senate by Senator Owen and in the house by Congressman Glass, respectively chairman of the senate and of the house banking and currency committee, immediately after the president reads on Friday his currency message to the two houses assembled in joint session.

SUMMARY OF PROVISIONS.

Summarized, the bill is as follows:

The secretary of the treasury, the attorney general, and the controller of the currency are formed into an organization committee for the purpose of dividing the United States into not less than twelve districts, each district to contain a federal reserve city.

In each federal reserve city the organization committee will organize a federal reserve bank.

Every national bank within a reserve district must subscribe 20 per cent of its unimpaired capital to the capital stock of the federal reserve bank of that district, the capital stock to be not less than $5,000,000.

LIMIT ON BRANCH HOUSES.

Each federal reserve bank may establish branch offices, the number of which must not exceed one for each $500,000 of the capital stock of such federal reserve bank.

Every federal reserve bank shall be incorporated and shall have succession for a period of twenty years from its organization.

Every federal reserve bank shall be controlled by a board of nine directors holding office for three years, three of whom shall be chosen by the stockholding banks, three representing the general public interests of the reserve district, and three designated by the federal reserve board. Shareholders in a federal reserve bank shall be entitled to an annual dividend of 5 per cent on the paid up capital.

RAISING OF SURPLUS FUND.

One-half of the net earnings shall be paid into the surplus fund until that fund amounts to 20 per cent of the bank's capital, and the remaining half shall be paid to the United States.

When the surplus fund amounts to 20 per cent of the capital and the shareholders have received their 5 per cent dividends, all excess earnings shall be paid to the United States.

Any state bank, banking association, or trust company may subscribe to the stock of a federal reserve bank.

A federal reserve board is created consisting of nine members, the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of agriculture, and the comptroller of the currency, three members chosen by the president of the United States by and with the advice and consent of the senate, for a term of six years, one of whom is to be the governor, another the vice governor, and the third the secretary; and three members chosen by the electors of the federal reserve banks.

POWERS OF FEDERAL BOARD.

The federal reserve board is empowered:

To examine accounts and books of federal reserve banks.

To require or permit a federal reserve bank to rediscount the paper of any of the federal reserve banks.

To establish each week or oftener a rate of discount which shall be mandatory upon each federal reserve bank for each class of paper.

To supervise and regulate the issue of treasury notes to federal reserve banks.

To require the removal of federal reserve bank officers for incompetency, dereliction of duty, fraud or deceit.

To require the writing off of doubtful

Limit on Banks' Business.

A federal reserve bank may receive from any of its stockholders deposits of current funds, national bank notes, federal reserve notes or checks and drafts upon solvent banks.

Upon the endorsement of any member bank it may discount notes and bills of exchange arising out of commercial transactions.

Various restrictions are imposed in reference to the extent of the loaning power of a federal reserve bank.

The federal reserve board may authorize the reserve bank of a district to discount the direct obligations of member banks.

Fiscal Agents of Government.

All moneys now held in the general fund of the treasury will be deposited in federal reserve banks, which shall act as fiscal agents of the government.

All revenues of the government shall be deposited in such banks and disbursements drawn against such deposits.

The federal reserve banks may be required to pay interest on government deposits, but shall not pay interest on any other.

The government and state banks depositing in the federal reserve banks shall be the only depositors in the reserve banks.

An issue of $500,000,000, plus an amount equal to the amount of national bank notes which may be retired, is authorized.

Division of Treasury Notes.

Any federal reserve bank may make application to the federal reserve board for such amount of treasury notes as it may desire, such application to be accompanied with an offer of collateral security to protect the notes, equal in amount to the sum applied for.

Whenever any federal reserve bank shall disburse federal reserve treasury notes, it must hold in its own vaults gold or lawful money equal in amount to 33 1-3 per cent of the treasury notes so paid out by it.

Federal reserve banks may be required to deposit in the treasury a sum in gold of lawful money equal to 5 per cent of whatever amount of federal reserve treasury notes issued to it.

Service as Clearing House.

The federal reserve board may act as a clearing house for federal reserve banks, and may also require each such bank to exercise the functions of a clearing house for its shareholding banks.

Provision is made for the reduction and wiping out of liability by federal reserve banks.

The secretary of the treasury is directed to exchange United States 2 per cent bonds, bearing the circulation privilege of 3 per cent bonds without the circulating privilege. When the outstanding 2 per cents shall be exchanged or refunded the power of national banks to issue circulating notes secured by United States bonds will cease.

Every national bank may receive circulating notes under the conditions prescribed by the bill, but no national banks shall be permitted to issue circulating notes or any substitute therefor. After twenty years national bank notes remaining outstanding shall be recalled.

Demand for Bank Reserves.

Within sixty days after the establishment of a federal reserve bank every national banking association shall establish with the federal reserve bank of its district a credit balance on the books of the latter institution equal to not less than 3 per cent of its own total demand liabilities, exclusive of circulating notes, and at the end of fourteen months this amount shall be increased to 5 per cent.

National banking associations classified as country banks and situated outside of central reserve and reserve cities must maintain a reserve equal to 15 per cent of the aggregate amount of their deposits. National banks in reserve cities must maintain a reserve of 25 per cent of their outstanding deposits for twenty-six months after the passage of the bill and for twelve months thereafter 2½ per cent, and at the end of thirty-eight months permanently a reserve of 20 per cent of their standing deposits.

Every federal reserve bank must at all times have in its vaults in gold or lawful money a sum equal to not less than 33 1-3 per cent of its outstanding demand liabilities.

Drastic Examination Provided.

Each federal reserve bank is authorized to arrange for the examination of member banks within its district.

Any national bank making a loan or gratuity to an examiner is subject to a fine of $1,000 and the officer or officers of the bank authorizing it to an additional fine of $300 Any examiner accepting the loan or gratuity is fined $500 and disqualified from office.

No officer or director of a national bank may be a beneficiary of any transaction made on behalf of his bank. Should he violate this provision he will be punished by a fine of not less than $5,000 or by a penitentiary sentence of three years, or both.

Responsibility on Persons.

The stockholders of every national banking association will be held individually responsible for all obligations of such association.

Any national banking association not situated in a reserve city may make farm loans, equal to 25 per cent of its capital and surplus or 50 per cent of its time deposits.

Any national banking association capitalized at $1,000,000 or more may, through the federal reserve board, establish branches in foreign countries.

Details of Provisions.

The bill describes itself as "a bill to provide for the establishment of federal reserve banks for furnishing an elastic currency, affording means for rediscounting commercial paper and to establish a more effective supervision of banking in the United States, and for other purposes."

It prescribes that the short title of the act shall be the "federal reserve act." The second section which relates to "federal reserve districts" requires that within sixty days after passage of the bill the secretary of the treasury, the attorney general, and the controller of the currency, acting as a reserve bank organization committee, shall designate from among the reserve the cities now authorized by law a number of such cities, not less than twelve, to be known as federal reserve cities, and shall divide the continental United States into districts, each district to contain one of such federal reserve cities.

Seek Aid to Convenience.

The districts are to be apportioned with due regard to the convenience and business of the community and will not necessarily coincide with the area of the states. The districts created may be readjusted and new districts created by the federal reserve board, acting upon a joint application of not less than ten national banks situated within one of the existing districts.

The organization committee, in accordance with regulations to be established by itself, will organize in each of the reserve cities a federal reserve bank.

Such bank shall include in its title the name of the city in which it is situated, as "Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago."

Capital Must Be $5,000,000.

No federal reserve bank shall be organized with a paid up and unimpaired capital at the time of beginning business less in amount than $5,000,000. To make up this capital every national bank located within a given district shall be required to subscribe to the capital stock of the federal reserve bank of that district a sum equal to 20 per cent of its unimpaired capital. An appropriation of $50,000 is hamed to pay all expenses in connection with the organization of federal reserve banks.

Section 36 prescribes that the capital stock of each federal reserve bank shall be divided into shares of $100. The capital stock will be increased as subscribing banks increase their capital, or its additional banks become subscribers, and decreased as subscribing banks reduce their capital or leave the organization.

Federal reserve banks may establish branches, the total number of which shall not exceed one for each $500,000 of the capital stock of said federal reserve bank.

Nine Directors Control.

Section 4 requires federal reserve banks to become bodies corporate and provides they shall have succession for a period of twenty years from thir organization.

Every federal reserve bank shall be controlled by a board of nine directors holding office for three years. Three of these members will be chosen by and be representative of the stockholding banks, three shall be "fairly representative of the commercial, agricultural, or industrial interests of their respective districts," and three members shall be designated by the federal reserve board.

The stockholding banks will be classified in each federal reserve district into three general groups, each containing one-third of the aggregate banking capital of the banks holding stock in the federal reserve bank of the district, and consisting of banks of similar capitalization.

Method of Elections.

Each national bank, at a regularly called directors' meeting, will elect one of its own members as a district reserve elector. From the list of these electors shall be elected by the electors a federal reserve director, the majority being the vote required.

In the same fashion will be chosen the representatives of commercial, agricultural, or industrial interests, with the condition that they shall in no case be connected with any bank or banking association. If it should appear at any time that a director does not fairly represent the commercial, agricultural, or industrial interests of his district he may be removed by the federal reserve board.

One of the three directors chosen directly by the federal reserve board shall be designated as "federal reserve agent." It will be his duty to make regular reports to the board and to act as its official representative.

Forbids Transfer of Stock.

Section 5 forbids the transfer or hypothecation of the capital stock of federal reserve banks.

Section 6 prescribes that if any shareholder of a federal reserve bank shall become insolvent and a receiver be appointed the stock held by it in said federal reserve bank shall be canceled and the balance of its value, after paying all debts due by such insolvent bank to said federal reserve bank, shall be paid to the receiver of the insolvent bank.

Disposal of Earnings.

Under section 7 the earnings of each federal reserve bank shall be disposed of as follows:

"After the payment of all expenses and taxes the shareholders shall be entitled to receive an annual dividend of 5 per centum on the paid in capital, which dividend shall be cumulative. One-half the net earnings shall be paid into the surplus fund until said fund shall amount to 20 per centum of the paid in capital of such bank, and the remaining one-half shall be paid to the United States; and whenever and so long as the surplus fund of such federal reserve bank amounts to 20 per centum of the paid in capital and the shareholders shall have received the dividends at the rate of 5 per centum per annum herein provided for, all excess earnings shall be paid to the United States.

"Every federal reserve bank incorporated under the terms of this act shall be exempt from federal, state, and local taxation, except in respect to taxes upon real estate.

Other Associations Admitted.

Section 8 provides that any national banking association heretofore organized may, within one year from the passage of the act and with the approval of the controller of the currency, be granted all the rights and be subject to all the liabilities of national banking associations organized subsequent to the passage of the act. Any national banking association failing to comply with any of the provisions of the act will be dissolved.

Under section 9 any bank or banking association incorporated by any state and having an unimpaired capital sufficient to entitle it to become a national banking association under the provisions of the act may become a national banking association.

Section 10 prescribes that any bank or banking association or trust company of state incorporation or organization may, with the approval of the federal reserve board, become a stockholder in the federal reserve bank of the district in which it is located. In such case the state bank will be subject to the rules and regulations provided for national banks. Failure of the state institution to comply with the provisions of the act will lead to a demand by the federal reserve board for the surrender of its stock in the federal reserve bank and the cancellation and retirement of its shares.

Selection of Federal Board.

Section 11 creates a federal reserve board consisting of nine members, including the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of agriculture, and the controller of the currency, who shall be members ex officio; three members chosen by the president, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, for a term of six years each, one such member to be designated as governor, one as vice governor, and one as secretary of the federal reserve board ,and three members chosen by electors of the federal reserve banks.

The directors of each federal reserve bank shall choose one such elector at a meeting to be called for that purpose. The electors shall, upon call of the secretary of the treasury, choose by ballot the three members of the federal reserve board aforesaid, no two of such members to be residents of the same federal reserve district.

Terms of Board Members.

Of the members first chosen one shall be elected for a term of two years, one for four years, and one for six years. Thereafter each such member shall be chosen for a term of six years.

The governor of the federal reserve board, subject to the supervision of the secretary of the treasury and of the board, shall be the active managing officer of the federal reserve board. He shall be subject to removal by the president upon a statement of reasons for such removal.

The first meeting of the federal reserve board shall be held in Washington immediately after the organization of federal reserve banks. No member of the board shall have any banking connections. The office of controller of the currency is continued.

Details of Board's Power.

Section 12 empowers the federal reserve board—

"[A]—To examine at its discretion the accounts and books of each federal reserve bank and to require such statements and reports as it deems necessary.

"[B]—To require of an application to permit a federal reserve bank to rediscount the paper of any other federal reserve bank.

"[C]—To establish each week, or as much oftener as required, a rate of discount, which shall be mandatory upon each federal reserve bank and for each class of paper; provided, that the said rate of discount need not be uniform for all federal reserve banks, but shall be made with a view to accommodating the commerce of the country and promoting a stable price level.

"[D]—To suspend for a period not exceeding thirty days, and to renew such suspensions for periods not to exceed fifteen days, any and every reserve requirement specified in this act.

"[E]—To supervise and regulate the issue of treasury notes to federal reserve banks.

"[F]—To add to the number of cities classified as reserve and central reserve cities under existing law, in which national banking associations are subject to the reserve requirements set forth in section 21 of this act; or to reclassify existing reserve and central reserve cities and to designate the bank therein situated as country banks, at its discretion.

"[G]—To require the removal of officials of federal reserve banks for incompetency, dereliction of duty, fraud, or deceit.

"[H]—To require the writing off of doubtful or worthless assets upon the books and balance sheets of federal reserve banks.

"[I]—To suspend the further operations of any federal reserve bank and to appoint a receiver therefor.

Limits on Deposits.

Section 13 permits any federal reserve bank to receive from any of its stockholders deposits of current funds in lawful money, national bank notes, federal reserve notes, or checks, and drafts upon solvent banks, domestic or foreign. It says:

"Upon the indorsement of any member bank any federal reserve bank may discount notes and bills of exchange arising out of commercial transactions; that is, notes and bills of exchange issued or drawn for agricultural, industrial, or commercial purposes, the federal reserve board to have the right to determine or define the character of the paper thus eligible for discount within the meaning of this act; but such definition shall not include notes or bills issued or drawn for the purpose of carrying or trading in stocks, bonds, or other investment securities, except notes or bills having a maturity of not exceeding four months, secured by United States bonds or bonds issued by any state, county, or municipality of the United States.

"Notes and bills admitted to discount under the terms of this paragraph must have a maturity of not more than twenty-five days.

Limit on Outside Notes.

"Upon the indorsement of any member bank any federal reserve bank may discount the paper of the classes hereinbefore described having a maturity of more than forty-five and not more than 120 days when its own cash reserve exceeds 33 1-3 per cent of its total outstanding demand liabilities, but not more than 50 per cent of the total paper so discounted for any depositing bank shall have a maturity of more than sixty days.

"Upon the indorsement of any bank having a deposit with it any federal reserve bank may discount acceptances of depositing banks which are based on the importation or exportation of goods or on travelers' credit, and which mature in not more than ninety days and bear the signature of at least one member bank in addition to that of the acceptor. The amount so discounted shall at no time exceed one-half the capital of the bank, for which the rediscounts are made. The aggregate of such notes and bill bearing the signature or indorsement of any one person, company, firm, or corporation rediscounted for any one bank shall at no time exceed 10 percentum of the unimpaired capital and surplus of said bank.

"Any national bank may, at its discretion, accept drafts or bills of exchange drawn upon it having not more than four months to run, and growing out of the transactions involving the importation or exportation of goods, or the issue of travelers' letters of credit; but no bank shall accept such bills to an amount in the aggregate to more than one-half the face value of its paid up and unimpaired capital."

May Discount for Members.

Under section 14 the federal reserve board, on the application of not less than ten national banks in one district, may authorize the reserve bank of the district to discount the direct obligations of member banks, secured by the pledge and deposit of satisfactory securities; but in no case shall the amount so loaned exceed three-fourths of the actual value of the securities so pledged or one-half the amount of the paid up capital of the member bank.

Under section 15 any federal reserve bank may, under regulations prescribed by the federal reserve board, purchase in the open market bankers' bills and bills of exchange of the kinds and maturities made eligible for rediscount.

Every federal reserve bank shall have power to deal in gold coin and bullion, to make loans thereon, and to contract for loans of gold coin or bullion, giving therefor when necessary acceptable security, including United States bonds; to invest in United States bonds and short time obligations of the United States or its dependencies, or of any state or foreign government; to purchase from member banks and to sell checks or bills of exchange arising out of commercial transactions payable in foreign countries, and, with the consent of the federal reserve board, to open and maintain banking accounts with foreign countries and establish agencies in such countries for the purpose of purchasing, selling, and collecting foreign bills of exchange, and to buy and sell checks or prime foreign bills of exchange arising out of commercial transactions which have not exceeding ninety days to run and which bear the signatures of two or more responsible parties.

Deposits of Treasury Money.

Under section 16 all moneys in the general fund of the treasury shall be deposited in federal reserve banks, which shall act as fiscal agents of the United States, and thereafter the revenues of the government shall regularly be deposited in such banks and disbursements shall be made by checks drawn against such deposit.

The secretary of the treasury may charge interest on the deposits, but no federal reserve banks shall pay interest on any deposits except those of the United States. The government and the banks shall be the only depositors in reserve banks.

Section 17 authorizes an issue of federal reserve treasury notes not to exceed $500,000,000 plus an amount equal to the amount of national bank notes which may from time to time be retired under the provisions of the act. The notes shall purport on their faces to be the obligations of the United States and shall be issued at the discretion of the federal reserve board and solely for the purpose of making advances to federal reserve banks.

Apply Through Reserve Agent.

"Any federal reserve bank," the bill continues, "upon vote of its directors, may make application to the federal reserve board through the local federal reserve agent for such amount of the treasury notes as it may deem best. Such application shall be accompanied with a tender to the local reserve agent of collateral security to protect the notes for which application is made equal in amount to the sum of the notes thus applied for.

"The collateral security thus offered shall be notes and bills accepted for rediscount and the federal reserve board shall be authorized at any time to call upon a federal reserve bank for additional deposits of security.

"Whenever any federal reserve bank shall disburse federal reserve treasury notes, it shall hold in its own vaults gold or lawful money equal in amount to 33 1-3 per centum of the treasury notes so paid out by it. The federal reserve board may require federal reserve banks to deposit in the government treasury a sum in gold or lawful money equal to 5 per cent of whatever amounts of federal reserve notes may be issued to them. The federal reserve board may grant in whole or in part or reject entirely the application of any federal reserve bank for federal reserve notes.

Notes Become First Lien.

"The notes issued to any bank shall become a first and paramount lien on all the assets of such bank.

"Any federal reserve bank may at any time reduce its liabilities for outstanding federal reserve notes by the deposit of federal reserve notes whether issued to such bank or to some other member bank, or other lawful money of the United States or gold bullion, and such reduction shall be accompanied by a corresponding reduction in reserve fund of lawful money set apart for the redemption of said notes and by the release of a corresponding amount of the collateral security deposited with the local federal reserve agent."

Provision is made for an exchange of collateral of equal value of that deposited originally for the protection of federal reserve notes.

Covers Handling of Checks.

"It shall be the duty of every federal reserve bank, the bill continues," to receive on deposit at par and without charge for exchange or collection checks and drafts drawn by any of its depositors upon any other depositor and checks and drafts drawn by any depositor in any other federal reserve bank upon funds to the credit of said depositor in said reserve bank last mentioned.

"The federal reserve board shall promulgate regulations governing the transfer of funds at par among federal reserve banks, and may exercise the functions of a clearing house for such federal reserve banks, and may also require each such bank to exercise the functions of a clearing house for its shareholding banks."

Limit on Issue of Notes.

Section 18 provides that no national banking association shall receive or issue circulating notes in excess of the total amount of such notes which such bank may have outstanding at the time of passage of this act, and no national banking association which may reduce its outstanding circulating notes shall issue circulating notes in excess of the sum to which its outstanding notes shall have been reduced by such withdrawal.

Section 19 provides for the repeal of the law requiring national banking associations before commencing banking business to deliver to the treasurer of the United States certain amounts of United States registered bonds.

Section 20 provides for the exchange of the 2 per cent bonds of the United States bearing the circulation privilege for 3 per cent bonds of the United States without the circulation privilege.

At the expiration of twenty years every 2 per cent bond then outstanding shall be exchanged for 3 per cent bonds without the circulation privilege and all national bank notes then outstanding shall be recalled and redeemed.

Details of Reserve Provisions.

Under section 21 every national banking association shall establish with the federal reserve bank in its district a credit balance on the books of the latter institution equal to not less than 3 per cent of its own total demand liability, exclusive of circulating notes, and at the end of fourteen months this amount must be increased to not less than 5 per cent.

After a date fixed by the secretary of the treasury national banking association banks now classified as country banks and situated outside of central reserve cities must maintain a reserve equal to 15 per cent of the aggregate amount of their deposits.

After the date fixed by the secretary of the treasury for the incorporation of federal reserve banks, national banks in such reserve cities shall maintain for a period of twenty-six months a reserve of 25 per cent of their outstanding deposits, and for twelve months thereafter a reserve of 22½ per cent and permanently at the end of thirty-eight months a reserve of 20 per cent of their outstanding funds.

Repeals One Present Law.

Section 22 repeals the law providing that the fund deposited by international banking associations for the redemption of its notes shall be counted as part of its lawful reserve.

Section 23 requires every federal reserve bank at all times to have on hand in gold or lawful money not less than 33⅓ per cent of its outstanding demand liabilities, which at the same time shall not be less than 33⅓ per cent of its outstanding federal reserve notes.

Section 24 requires an examination of every national banking association at least twice in each calendar year, and as much oftener as the federal reserve board shall consider necessary. Directors must state under oath to the examiner the character and circumstances of its loans and discount. In addition to the examination made by the controller of the currency every federal reserve bank may arrange for examination of the member banks within its district. Every federal reserve bank shall be bound to furnish to the federal reserve board information concerning the condition of any national banking association. National banking associations in reserve cities shall be examined not less than four times each year.

UNION MEN MUST GO TO WORK OR FACE BUILDERS' LOCKOUT.

Employers Issue Ultimatum to Stone Masons and Marble Workers Who Quit Jobs on Bank Structure.

Unless 150 stone masons and marble workers return to their jobs on the Continental and Commercial Bank building tomorrow a lockout of all the building trades unions will be declared by the Building Construction Employers' association. More than 20,000 men would be involved in the lockout, it is asserted.

The ultimatum was issued yesterday by the Building Construction Employers' association to the Building Trades council after a conference continuing all day in the Chamber of Commerce building. The threatened lockout, coming as it does in the busiest season of the year, practically will tie up work in all the buildings under construction in the loop.

The trouble is the outcome of a strike, which began several months ago, of the marble workers employed by the Thompson-Starrett company. The marble workers objected to the employment of stone cutters who do not belong to the American Federation of Labor for preparation of marble for the new Field museum.

BASE INCOME TAX ON FAMILY'S SIZE

MAY MAKE $3,000 LIMIT.

Would Give More Revenue Without Hardship; Democratic Caucus Due Tomorrow.

Washington, D. C., June 17.—An additional exemption of $500 for each child of a family in the income tax section of the tariff revision bill was determined upon tonight by the senate finance subcommittee of which Senator Williams is chairman. The change will be recommended to the majority members of the committee tomorrow.

The subcommittee is seriously considering recommending changing the $4,000 exemption in the Underwood bill to $3,000. This, it is argued, would greatly increase the revenue, and, with the additional exemptions proposed for children, would not impose hardship upon the heads of families.

Caucus to Be Called Tomorrow.

Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, said tonight that the Democratic caucus of the senate would be called for Thursday, whether the finance committee majority had concluded with the schedules or not, and that the caucus could go over schedules already approved while the committee is finishing its work.

Tomorrow the full committee will take up the income tax and administrative features of the bill, having concluded the sundries schedule late tonight. A recommendation of the subcommittee to decrease the 20 per cent duty on cut diamonds was not accepted by the majority.

James Fights for Free Meat.

Senator Ollie James of Kentucky, who made the sugar tariff speech in the senate defending the stand of President Wilson, today took a vigorous position against the imposition of a countervailing duty on meat and cattle. He announced today that he would carry the fight to the Democratic senatorial caucus if he failed to swing the committee into line.

Senator Simmons announced that the matter was settled for presentation to the caucus in so far as wheat and flour were concerned.

The majority members of the committee were in session until late tonight to hasten work on the tariff bill and practically completed the sundries schedule. Remaining for consideration are the income tax and administrative features of the bill, which the committee will try to conclude by Thursday night.

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, whose amendment to the tariff bill levying a graduated tax on tobacco output was rejected by his colleagues on the finance committee, gave notice in the senate that he would carry that amendment to the caucus and make a fight for its incorporation in the bill.

HIRES TUG TO CHASE STEAMER.

Louis Berger of Chicago Reaches the Dock Too Late, but Catches Liner Leaving Boston.

Boston, Mass., June 17.—[Special.]—Louis Berger, a Chicago business man, finding that the steamship Cymric, on which he had engaged passage to England, had sailed when he reached the dock this morning, chartered a tug and was placed aboard the liner in midstream.

WOMEN LAWYERS AT BAR MEETING

Chicago Association Acknowledges Fellowship Won by Vote Victory.

ONE TELLS "MAN" STORY.

State's Attorney Hoyne Asks Body to Take Hand in Vote Recount Tangle.

Eight women lawyers were present last night at the annual meeting of the Chicago Bar association. In making his installation remarks, Silas H. Strawn, the new president of the organization, said:

"Gentlemen—I mean ladies and gentlemen—that is to say—fellow citizens——"

Amid the applause of 150 men, the eight women lawyers, seated at one table, bowed acknowledgment of the recognition of recently granted franchise. They were Miss Nelle Carlin, public guardian; Miss Phyllis Kelly, secretary to Judge C. S. Cutting; Miss Albertina Hatheway, Mrs. Catherine Clark, Miss Josephine M. Casavaw, Miss Mary E. Sellers, Miss Mary M. Bartelme, and Miss Susie Brown.

Equipped for Bar Uplift.

"The new administration will be cooperative," said President Strawn. "It will be the effort of the officers to exert the organization as a potent influence. We have the material in this association for a great uplift of the bar."

"It is the great necessity of the times that the bar be purified," said S. S. Page, who was the first speaker. "It should be constantly borne in mind by every member of this association that he has a personal duty in this regard, a duty which he should not hesitate to perform on proper occasions because of any personal unwillingness to make complaint against other members of the bar, through fear of giving offense.

"It is one of the objects of this organization to secure judges by means of nonpartisan judicial elections, wholly separate from political elections, hoping thereby that many of the best class of lawyers will be willing to take the positions, and will be, as far as possible, unhampered by party or political obligations and feel free to follow the dictates of their judgment."

State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne, in a brief outline of the "pleasures" that he encountered in his work, painted his office as abject and poverty stricken.

"There is a great deal of talk about my office," said Mr. Hoyne, "and I don't know whether to talk seriously or humorously about it. Our office brings in $200,000 a year to Cook county and we have an appropriation of $240,000, yet we have no petty cash account. Cook county owes one of my assistants $1,500 that he has advanced for the expenses of the office. We had to send an investigator out some time ago to borrow $30 from a saloonkeeper in order to go out of town to get a prisoner.

"Whenever we have to use a taxicab, buy a postage stamp, or pay for an appeal the assistant assigned to the particular work has to go out first and find the money. I don't know where they find it. We have appealed to the county board and the county controller, but never get the money. Maybe the Bar association could find out something about it.

Discusses Vote Recount.

"I am not going into my present differences and bother the members of this association with them. But I want members to understand that the so-called recount of votes was started with my consent. There never has been a desire on my part to stop an investigation into the election so long as I was certain of the integrity of the investigation. I would be willing and would like to have this body, or the president of it, enter into the negotiations in some way or other, if possible, and try to bring order out of the tangle.

"I won't intrude my troubles further. But here's a story. The state's attorney's office has a confessed firebug and a certain clairvoyant under guard in a hotel. The firebug has admitted being 45 years old, and also confessed to a long list of other crimes. The clairvoyant is young and declares his innocence. The two got together for three hours last week.

"At the end of the three hours the clairvoyant had the firebug's watch and $5. The firebug threatened to repudiate his confession unless I got his watch and $5 back."

Miss Bartelme spoke for a change in the law of public guardianship. She also told a story:

"At Northwestern university I overheard a student ask another why I had not married. The other student replied: 'Why, she doesn't like men.' I took him to task and told him that I did like men, all of them generally. I told Judge Cutting about it afterward, and he said that was just the trouble. 'You'll have to learn to concentrate,' he said."

Denounces Case Chasers.

Henry R. Baldwin, a member of the committee on the solicitation of business, denounced the methods of some lawyers in this respect as a pernicious vice. He added the solicitation of business by large trust organizations would bear investigation.

Judge Cutting spoke in behalf of the fostering of a class spirit or pride among members of the association. Judge Michael L. McKinley pleaded for longer terms for judges when they were assigned to special courts. Judge Kickham Scanlan said that the present widespread criticism of judges was not justified or logical.

TORRID WAVE COMING BACK, BUREAU FORECASTER SAYS.

Fresh Lake Breeze Keeps Chicago Cool, but Is Due to Vanish, According to Weather Man.

With the torrid temperature of Monday only twenty-four hours gone the weather bureau last night began predicting a recurrence of the hot weather tomorrow afternoon, but offering hope that it will not be as severe. All day yesterday a fresh lake breeze, which Monday night lowered the temperature from the high point of 98.4 degrees, continued across the city and kept the mercury below 78.

During the day there were two more deaths resulting from heat prostrations Monday. Both were in South Chicago. Thomas Molinski, 8237 Perry avenue, overcome in the Illinois Steel company mills, and Robert Skelkos, 8730 Green Bay avenue, who had been working on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks. Dussoca Fritz, 9340 Ridgeland avenue, died of heart trouble, but owed his weakened condition to the heat.

A few prostrations were reported from the west side, where the lake breeze was not so potent. All of these cases were due more to exhaustion from Sunday or Monday than to the temperature of yesterday.

Chicago Clubwomen Inspecting Basement Bakery.

WOMEN SEE CELLAR BAKERIES

FIRST VISIT SANITARY OVEN.

Find Dough About Unclean Shops in Sticky Vessels.

Chicago club women went down yesterday into the basement bakeries.

The descent was dangerous. Sewer gas and other foul smells assailed their nostrils. Tortuous stairways, dropping steep from the street levels, landed the club women inspectors in clammy dungeons of grease and dust. With searchlights they poked into out of way corners in darksome caves built under the sidewalks and street. The hot air from ovens made the low ceiling chambers stifling. The women watched the work of bakers who toiled in their undershirts in the lights of feeble gas jets. They climbed up to the street again with shoes sticky from the unclean floors and with faces and clothing dabbed with white and gray dust.

"Horrible!" was the unanimous verdict.

Inspector Leads Tour.

Inspector J. H. Wilson, supervisor of sanitary inspection in the health department, led the tour. Among the women were Miss Winifred Collins, member of the committee on pure food of the Chicago Woman's City club and superintendent of the department of domestic science at Chicago Commons; Mrs. W. D. Richardson of the Chicago Woman's club, Mrs. Charles Kennedy of the Kenwood Woman's club, and Miss Mildred Veitch and Miss Flora Schutz of Chicago Commons.

The inspection tour first led to the bakery of John Chambers, clean and airy, on the second floor of the rear building at 1838 Grand avenue. It was pointed out by Inspector Wilson as a representative sanitary bakery, so the women might be able to judge what was to follow. The proprietor showed the women the workings of an oven with a revolving interior, a dough mixing machine, a loaf cutter, and a cake mixer, all operated by electricity.

Smell "Rot" in Cellar.

The first underground bakery inspected was that of O. Gleichner at 1701 West Erie street. An odor of "rot" was perceptible in the cellar. In the front chamber on an empty box, beside some unwashed milk bottles and lard pails, were two bowls of frosting, one white and one chocolate colored. Round about on the floor the inspector scraped away layers of dirt tramped down in the grease. The ovens, which opened in one wall of the cellar, extended under the sidewalk. Mr. and Mrs. Gleichner said they were looking for a new location above ground.

In the cellar bake shop of Jacob Grimm at 1423 West Erie street the women found a large vessel of dough placed directly under a window which opened flush with the sidewalk and permitted the entrance of street dirt. The absence of ventilation was noticeable and the condition of several chambers under the sidewalk was unprintable. The club women threaded their way through the dusty barrels and boxes and watched the preparation of "Hoffman house rolls."

Floor Scaly with Growth.

In the dark cellar bakery of Joseph Kubisiak at 1120 West Erie street the inspectors deplored the unclean condition of a sink and poor lighting. Entrance was gained by stairs running down from the sidewalk. The concrete floor was scaly with a trodden growth.

Mrs. Nick Nitti threw her apron over her shoulder and yelled for her husband when the inspectors plunged down into the dark cellar beneath her bakery store at 614 North Halsted street. Nick Nitti plunged down after the inspector and attempted explanations in a mixture of Italian and English.

"Polska Piekarina" was the sign on the store at 945 West Chicago avenue run by L. Sypniewski. In a coal bin under the pavement the inspectors found a barrel of loaves of bread. Rye bread was "rising" in round wooden troughs. A dusty shelf containing bottles of "extracts" proved of interest to the women who gingerly picked them up and smelled the contents.

"My, what kind of eggs do they use here?" asked Mrs. Kenned, as she placed a handkerchief to her face in the cellar bake shop of Szezepkowski at 846 North Carpenter street.

Miss Collins made notes and said she would make a full report to the Woman's City club, which is opposing bill 283, the legislative jokers which if passed will prevent the city from stopping the preparation of food in basement bakeries.

JUDGE CURBS "JACK" JOHNSON.

Halts Pugilist When Trying to Show How He Punched Bag Into Audience.

Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, attempted to rise from the witness chair in Judge McNutt's courtroom yesterday and give a demonstration of how he was punching the bag in the Plaza theater a year ago, when it flew into the audience and bumped Miss Ruth Mehl of 1645 Melrose street in the nose. She says it hurt her $25,000 worth. Johnson was not allowed to give the demonstration and was ordered to sit down.

SWEAR TO SEARS' SOBRIETY

Witnesses Refute Wife's Charges at Divorce Trial.

NURSE SAYS WOMAN DRANK.

Tells of Spree and Singing of Flirtatious Songs.

Evidence in the divorce suit against John Barry Sears has taken a decided change. His friends appeared in numbers yesterday and said they never had seen him under the influence of liquor, as his wife charges. On the other hand her former nurse, and others, said they had seen Mrs. Sears in advanced stages of intoxication.

Agnes Pillsbury, a nurse at the North Shore sanitarium when Mrs. Sears was sent there, recounted an instance when Mrs. Sears, under the influence of liquor, sang "flirtatious and sentimental songs in the presence of Dr. William Forkin of the North Shore sanitarium and otherwise carrying on in a foolish and hilarious way."

Walked with Difficulty.

"At another time," testified Miss Pillsbury, "I saw her walking with difficulty up and down the platform of the Kenilworth station. She was walking with difficulty and her eyes rolled. Once I called at the Sears home and found Mrs. Sears so under the influence of liquor that she was unable to move about the room without grasping the furniture."

Miss Loretta Holler, another nurse at the sanitarium, testified that Mrs. Sears once told her she had formed the drinking habit and couldn't overcome it.

Bankers Testify for Sears.

John D. Hibbard of 4931 Lake avenue, former president of the North American Securities company; Howard Edmonds, vice president of the Northern Trust company; W. R. Woodward of the National Tile company, and George F. Brown Jr. of Winnetka, all testified they had never seen Sears under the influence of liquor or drink excessively.

rence filed divorce proceedings in the Circuit court against her husband, George M. Lawrence, formerly a well known Chicago photographer.

Stating that he was forced to leave the country and give up a government position in Prussia because of the cruel and inhuman treatment of his wife, Paul Kaczmarek filed suit for divorce in the Superior court. Kaczmarek says his wife tried several times to kill him with poison.

WOMAN RUN DOWN BY AUTO DIES IN HOSPITAL OF HURTS.

Chicago Police Go to Indiana in Search of Chauffeur Who Fled After Fatally Injuring Man.

Mrs. Junia Wojcek, 24 years old, died at St. Anthony's hospital yesterday afternoon as a result of injuries incurred two hours before when she was struck by an automobile at Paulina and Thirty-seventh streets. Police rushed her to the hospital, but she died without regaining consciousness. Mrs. Wojcek lived at 3830 South Paulina street. The automobile was driven by Edwin A. Williams, 1639 Bine Island avenue.

Detectives yesterday were sent to Ohio for Gordon Reed, chauffeur, whose machine two weeks ago fatally injured Hary Smith, 14 East Thirteenth street. Reed fled the city after the killing. The inquest was continued ten days.

Joseph Shearer, 1813 La Salle avenue, was fined $20 and costs by Municipal Judge Fry for "joy riding" at break neck speed in a stolen machine. Shearer said he had been drinking.

R. S. Stafford of 4006 Elston avenue, a city street sweeper, was severely injured when struck by a motorcycle at Milwaukee avenue and Montrose boulevard while at work. The motorcyclist sped away.

George W. Meiser, 7153 Vernon avenue, was seriously injured when he was struck at Wilson and Evanston avenues by an automobile owned and operated by Dr. B. M. Linnell, 906 Belden avenue. He incurred a compound fracture of the right leg.

RANDALL TAKEN INTO CUSTODY.

Box Manufacturer Accused by Former Wife of Marrying Within a Year After Divorce.

Louis E. Randall of 625 Buckingham place, a box manufacturer with offices at 100 North Fifth avenue, was yesterday taken into custody on a warrant secured by his former wife, Mrs. Hannah Le Bold Randall, of 3100 Groveland avenue, whom he divorced in 1909. He is alleged to have married within one year from the date of his divorce. He was released on bonds.

Family Beaten with Bar May Live.

Mrs. Otto Sinnich of 2125 Clybourn avenue, who with her three children was beaten by her husband, a structural iron worker, with a four foot steel bar on Monday night, was reported yesterday to be on the road to recovery at the county hospital. The three children beaten with the bar are expected to recover.

DECLARE LAKE BOATS SAFE

U. S. Inspectors Say Park Trippers Are Not Overloaded.

"BOOTLEGGERS" LET ALONE.

Police Refuse to Take Action Against Beer Dealers.

Complaints that launches and excursion boats ply between Randolph street pier and Lincoln park on Sunday loaded beyond their capacity were declared without basis yesterday by government agents. The complaints were made to THE TRIBUNE.

The check against overloading is in charge of the government customs department. Watchers are kept at the loading places continually, it is said. The reports of the inspectors indicate there is no overloading.

"Since last Sunday," a deputy customs inspector said, "we have had men at all the loading places to keep check on the boats. Not one of them has been loaded to more than 90 per cent of the rated capacity given the boats of the lake boat inspection department.

"The men count every passenger with an automatic counter and there is little probability of mistakes. One of the smallest of the Lincoln park boats is permitted to carry 225 passengers.

"We won't permit the boats to be overloaded. If an accident should occur on an overloaded boat our department would be to blame."

Let "Bootleggers" Sell Beer.

The police apparently do not care to interfere with the profitable business of the "bootleggers" on the piers at Indiana street and Randolph street.

The fact that beer was being sold on Saturday on the pier and in boats at Indiana street was reported to Chief McWeeny. Immediately the chief ordered the arrest of Pat Ryne's and all other beer boats. The order was sent to Sergt. Paul and his crew on the police boat.

A report from the police boat received by Chief McWeeny said the patrolmen could get no evidence against any of the "bootleggers." The chief has ordered an investigation which may result in a new crew for the police boat.

Reporter Buys Beer.

A reporter for THE TRIBUNE went to the Indiana street pier on Sunday afternoon. A boy was peddling bottled beer on the pier. He sold beer to the reporter. The reporter boarded Pat Ryne's boat and bought several bottles of beer. The police boat passed close to Ryne's boat and several persons were drinking beer in the boat in view of the patrol.

Ryne has not been arrested. At the government pier, which also is under the supervision of the city police, a man was peddling beer. The police boat was near the pier while the sales were made.

The complaints said Ryne made as much as $300 from his Sunday beer sales. No city license is issued to the boats for the sale of beer. The contention of the boat men is that they have a right to sell beer while their boat is in motion.

DANIES TO TESTIFY TODAY FOR STATE IN ARSON CASE.

"Captain," Who Confessed Setting Fires, Will Appear Against Clothing Merchants in Judge Burke's Court.

John Danies, alias "The Captain," who has confessed having started more than 100 incendiary fires in Chicago, is expected to take the witness stand in Judge Burke's court today against Paul and Edward Covits and Joseph Clarke, charged with arson. Danies after his capture in New York made a full confession to First Assistant State's Attorney Frank Johnston.

During the day a number of firemen testified to having smelled gasoline fumes while they were fighting fire in the clothing store of the Covits Bros. at 18-20 South Fifth avenue.

A. A. Bach, state deputy fire marshal, and his stenographer, Miss Della Elmer, testified that at the hearing before them the day after the fire the Covits brothers had admitted the presence of wooden boxes in the basement of the building.

ACCUSED OF CHEATING WOMAN.

Man Arrested on Charge of Swindling Widow of Artist Out of $1,500.

Anton Doran of 2636 Orchard street was arrested last night on two charges of operating a confidence game at the cost of Mrs. Augusta von Zukotynski, 651 Barry avenue, widow of a Russian artist. She says he persuaded her to invest $1,500 in a nickel show from which she has realized only $17, and $500 more in a real estate deed, the title of which was erased. Doran refused to discuss the case.

RECEIVER CHOSEN FOR PRIVATE BANK

SMALL INVESTORS LOSE.

Promoter Enlists Realty Man, Who Interests Well to Do Negroes at $1,000 Per.

A receiver was appointed yesterday for the "Home Security Savings bank," a private "banking" institution started two months ago at 3101 South State street. The receiver now is busy searching for assets. Thus far he has been unsuccessful, as even the fixtures were carted out of the place three days ago.

But the receiver, Edwin C. Day, has been much more successful in finding liabilities. These are in the form of notes given by well to do negroes on the north and south sides of Chicago for starting the business. So far as can be learned there will not be heavy loss in deposits because the place had not been in business long enough.

Suit by Signers of Notes.

The suit was filed by William T. Mason and Robert Milner, through Attorney Frank McCulloch. Mason and Milner say they gave their notes for $1,000 to William D. Neighbors, cashier of the bank. Subsequently they inquired how business was, and got evasive answers.

"How much deposits have we?" asked the hopeful Mason.

"None of your business," replied Neighbors. "I'm running this bank."

Then Mason saw his attorney. He says feelingly he is and always will be hereafter heartily in favor of state supervision of banks.

Started as Branch of Big Body.

The "Home Security Savings bank" was started as a branch of what the owner, John Worthington, now under indictments for operating a confidence game, called the "American Banking association," seizing by virtue of the Illinois law's neglect the title of the big national body with which are affiliated most of the large financiers of the country. There was a conference late in the day with Worthington, but he could not be reached to tell his side of the story.

"They came to me and tried to get me to buy stock," said Tenan Jones, of 3020 South State street. "They got a lot of the other men along here who can't afford to lose money. They didn't get me."

Calls Promoter Ex-Convict.

In the information filed against Worthington only a week ago he was declared to be a graduate from Sing Sing, where he completed a four years' course.

It occurred to Worthington that a bank for negroes should be a fairly profitable institution, but as publicity about his operations ordinarily might not inspire confidence in investors and depositors, he turned the "Home Security Savings bank" over to an associate, Neighbors.

Neighbors is listed in the city directory as a real estate dealer. He has operated a private "bank" since about the first of the year. In April he enlisted three well to do negroes in his "bank." Information about the progress of the institution is difficult to obtain.

Bank's Operations.

Attorney Frank McCulloch for the negroes tried to learn something of the "bank's" operations. He couldn't. Then came the application and appointment of the receiver by Judge Dever of the Superior court.

"The plan of the bank, it was explained," Mr. McCulloch said, "was to get the deposits of hard working negroes on the south side. They enlisted two well to do Evanston negroes in the institution, hoping in that way to give it a standing among the negroes of the south side.

"It was to be a limited partnership, according to Neighbors, each stockholder being liable only for the amount of the investment. That was impossible, they learned after the bank had been started a week or two, and incidentally after Mason and Milner had given their notes for $1,000 each.

Find Notes Pledged.

"Then Mason and Milner tried to withdraw their notes, but found they had been pledged for the private debts of Neighbors. An injunction was issued against the bank operating further, and we tried to locate the notes. Finally they were found in the possession of D. E. Rosenthal, who denied several times he had them. He said Worthington had the notes. Worthington denied that, but when the service on the injunction was obtained Rosenthal admitted possession. The stockholders tried to find out what the deposits were, but it was impossible."

PHONE MESSAGES TO WEALTHY CAUSE THE ARREST OF WOMAN.

Mabel Keanor Violates Parole from Joliet Penitentiary and Starts Collection Plan Over Wires.

A long series of mysterious telephone messages to Chicago women of wealth was ended yesterday by the arrest of Mabel Keanor, alias Marguerita Henderson, alias Margaret Wilson. She told the police her father was a wealthy Joliet man.

It was under the name of Wilson that she was paroled from the Joliet penitentiary a year ago. She had been sent there from Chicago in 1911 after she was convicted of operating a confidence game. This consisted of soliciting funds on the representation that she was a nurse at a hospital with which she had no connection.

She violated her parole in April by coming to Chicago, and the series of mysterious telephone calls was said to have been for the purpose of interesting women in some collection plan she had under way. She will be returned to Joliet today.

APPEARS IN COURT SHOELESS.

Theft Victim Robbed of Footgear While He Slept—Two He Accused Fined $100.

It was not disregard for the conventions that made Eli Smith, who lives "around Thirty-seventh and Halsted streets," appear in Judge Mahoney's courtroom yesterday in stocking feet. It was necessity. He was chief witness against James Nolan of 812 South State street and John H. Rueger of 1128 West Adams street, whom he charged with stealing his shoes while he was asleep. The men were fined $100 and costs.

Roy Washington and Joseph Jones, negroes, were held in $5,000 bonds to the grand jury, charged with robbing Otto Boads of 2328 High street of $10.

Boads yelled and Detectives Flannery and Bussell started in pursuit. The fugitives fired on them and there was a lively exchange of shots until the negroes' ammunition was exhausted.

PARLEY ON VOTE JURY FAILS

Judge Cooper to Insist on Fraud Inquiry as He Ordered.

IGNORES BALDWIN'S PLAN.

Has Held His Prior Rights Forbid Compromise with Law.

Investigation of the November election frauds by the special grand jury impaneled by Judge William Fenimore Cooper will continue irrespective of any decision today by Chief Justice Baldwin of the Circuit court. This was learned yesterday following confirmation of a report that an attempt to compromise the fraud inquiry tangle had failed.

Repeated conferences have been held by Judges Baldwin, Cooper, and Kersten in an effort to agree on a jurisdictional understanding. Judge Cooper is said to have maintained from the start that his prior right to conduct the vote inquiry forced him into a position where he could not compromise with the law.

Lawyers Interested in Moves.

Lawyers were interested in the attempts of the judges to reach a settlement of the muddle, which has disturbed court circles for more than a month. Several asserted Judge Cooper had no other alternative than to insist on the withdrawal of Judge Kersten's special grand jury and special state's attorney, so the Cooper jury and Special State's Attorney John E. Northup might conduct the inquiry undisturbed.

For like reasons it was forecast he would protest against the suggestion that Judge Baldwin might call a third jury to supersede the two existing special bodies.

Judge Baldwin is expected this morning to rule on State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne's quo warranto petition to oust Northup from power. If he should grant permission to Hoyne to institute the ouster suit, another complication would be added, lawyers say, to the already troublesome situation.

Might Contest Baldwin.

Counsel for Northup in all probability, it is asserted, would then contest Judge Baldwin's right to interfere with the special officer of another court of equal or concurrent jurisdiction. It is questionable, according to legal authorities, whether or not Judge Cooper would recognize Judge Baldwin's ruling. He might protest, it is said, on the basis that Judge Baldwin has no appellate power.

Lawyers also discussed the impounding of the November ballots and election records by Judge Baldwin. Some contended he had this right because the state's attorney contest is pending before him. Others referred to a section of the ballot law requiring the board of election commissioners to maintain possession of the ballots.

Despite the failure of Judges Baldwin, Cooper, and Kersten to agree on a mutually satisfactory settlement of the legal conflict the opinion was expressed during the day in court circles that the complexities involved in the clash of authority would be eliminated before the end of the week. Supporters of Judge Cooper predict that only by upholding his position can the tangle be unraveled.

Judge Baldwin said his efforts had been directed to an adjustment of the controversy.

LAKE BOAT CAUSES ANXIETY.

Steamer City of Benton Harbor Fails to Arrive on Time—Did Not Leave.

Failure of the steamer City of Benton Harbor to arrive in port last evening excited a number of people waiting at the wharf and there was a rush for the steamship office. There E. A. Hopperstead, assistant general passenger agent, said the boat had sent by wireless a message it had not left the wharf at Benton Harbor in the afternoon. According to persons at the wharf, it got away late at night and should arrive before dawn.

Every Vacant Flat Could Be Rented

Many more sales could be made

A place may look run-down which has never been wound-up. And there's nothing like flowers, shrubs and a lawn to decide a sale or make a lease.

Wherever you see "To Rent" signs you'll usually see a building without even a porch box of vines and blooming plants.

Most likely the rent of one flat for a month—a flat that stands vacant—would pay the cost of beautifying the whole place.

Maybe a pair of bay trees or boxwoods at the entrance is all that is needed—perhaps the grounds should be sodded and graded.

CHANCE FOR NEW STATE BASIC LAW

HOUSE MAY INDORSE IT.

Senate Already Has Adopted Resolution Putting It Up to the Voters.

"Objection is made," he said, "that the wave of radicalism and other 'isms' makes constitutional revision dangerous. On the contrary, it is apparent the crest of this wave has passed and that now is the time to write a new constitution before the pendulum swings too far the other way."

Downstate members heard from, like the Chicagoans, assert generally that the present restriction to more than one amendment to the constitution and the consequent failure of rival advocates to agree on any one needed change would be obviated if the various problems that have come with progress and growth of population were submitted to a representative gathering for solution.

THESE FAVOR RESOLUTION.

The following members of the house, thus far heard from, favor the submission to the people of the question of a constitutional convention:

Frank J. Saltz, Second—I am for a constitutional convention.

F. E. J. Lloyd, Third—I am in favor of constitutional convention, and would vote for it.

Robson Barron, Eleventh—The constitution of 1870, in my opinion, has long since served its usefulness in many important respects. Therefore I favor a constitutional convention.

E. J. Schnackenberg, Thirteenth—All questions of governmental importance should, if feasible, be submitted to the people for decision. Therefore, whatever may be my personal doubts as to the expediency of holding a convention to revise the state constitution, I should be glad to waive these doubts and submit the question to the voters of the state for their consideration. This is consistent with my attitude on the initiative and referendum and other legislation. I will, therefore, vote for such a resolution.

Henry A. Foster, Sixteenth—I am in favor of the Curtis joint resolution. I believe a constitutional convention would enable us to cure a multitude of legal ills under which we suffer and enable us to modernize the constitution and laws of Illinois as no other method would permit.

George Fitch, Eighteenth—Because of the pressing necessity in this state for the initiative and referendum, tax revision, general woman's suffrage, judicial reform, consolidation of the several governments in Cook county, the abolition of the cumulative voting system, and many other constitutional amendments, only one of which can be considered at present during any two years, I favor a constitutional convention and shall vote for the resolution.

R. E. Sherman, Nineteenth—A warm advocate of the initiative and referendum and other kindred legislation, the principles of which are to enable the people to express their views of governmental questions, I shall certainly support the Curtis resolution, inasmuch as it submits the calling of the proposed convention to the people.

Edwin T. Farrar, Twenty-first—I am in favor of the Curtis joint resolution making it possible to revise our state constitution, and will vote for same in the house.

John Grunau, Twenty-first—The state has outgrown its forty-five year old constitution and needs a new one, adopted to new conditions and new problems.

George A. Miller, Twenty-third—I am in favor of constitutional convention.

Christian M. Madsen, Twenty-third—The state of Illinois has long since outgrown its present constitution, and I am in favor of giving the people an opportunity to frame a constitution conforming to the needs of our day.

Emil M. Zolla, Twenty-third—As a Progressive having an abiding faith in the people's rule, I heartily favor the resolution that will permit the people to determine for themselves whether or not they want a constitutional convention. The present Illinois constitution makes truly a government of the living by the dead. It's time for government of the living by the living.

W. F. Burres, Twenty-fourth—I favor a constitutional convention. Think the voters want it and would like to have the matter submitted to them.

F. E. Williamson, Twenty-fourth—I will vote for the Curtis joint resolution, making possible revision of the state constitution by a convention.

Medill McCormick, Twenty-ninth—I am for a constitutional convention. The state needs a new constitution.

Harry L. Shaver, Thirty-first—Yes, I will vote for the Curtis joint resolution. In my opinion we have outgrown our present constitution in many particulars. The continual and numerous attempts to amend the constitution eloquently indicate this. Objection is made that because of the wave of radicalism and other "isms" which have been sweeping over the nation and the world the past few years it would be dangerous to undertake a revision of our organic law at this time. On the contrary, it is apparent that the crest of that wave has passed and that now is the time to write a new constitution before the pendulum shall have swung too far the other way.

John Huston, Thirty-second—I am absolutely in favor of constitutional convention.

J. H. Jayne, Thirty-second—I will vote for a revision of the constitution.

Thomas Campbell, Thirty-third—Yes, I am for a constitutional convention. Have advocated the same the past six years.

William Hartquist, Thirty-third—Times and conditions have changed since our constitution was adopted. For the sake of better government and better business we need a new one.

William T. Hollenbeck, Thirty-fourth—I most heartily favor the resolution opening the way to a constitutional convention.

C. C. Pervier, Thirty-seventh—I am in favor of the proposition for a constitutional convention.

William A. Hubbard, Thirty-eighth—I am strongly in favor of a constitutional convention, and shall vote for and support the Curtis resolution now pending in the house.

S. Elmer Simpson, Thirty-eighth—I will support the Curtis joint resolution.

R. S. Jones, Forty-second—I favor constitutional convention. Passage of joint resolution depends on Cook county members.

Ezra E. Miller, Forty-first—I am strongly in favor of a constitutional convention, and will vote for the resolution. The limitation of amendments prescribed by the present constitution blocks progress, and besides the old document is out of date and not suited to modern conditions.

W. B. Elliott, Forty-third—Am for the convention. Believe that the constitution needs many changes in the interest of the people, and this is the quickest and surest way to get them. I think we can trust the people.

R. J. Kasserman, Forty-sixth—I favor the senate joint resolution for a constitutional convention. On Feb. 27, 1913, I introduced house joint resolution No. 11, which provides for a constitutional convention.

Norman G. Flagg, Forty-seventh—Most assuredly I am for the calling of a constitutional convention. The fate of the Curtis resolution, however, depends on the attitude of the Cook county members.

James A. Watson, Forty-eighth—Will vote for Curtis resolution.

CONDITIONALLY IN FAVOR.

Speaker William McKinley, Thirty-first—Senate joint resolution, known as Curtis resolution, has not yet reached the house of representatives. I have not had an opportunity to examine it, and, therefore, have no opinion as to this particular resolution. I am, however, in favor of a constitutional convention under proper conditions and restrictions.

W. H. Hoffman, Thirty-sixth—I am inclined to favor the Curtis joint resolution making possible a constitutional convention, but am not prepared to say how I will vote until the measure comes up for debate and action before the house.

NONCOMMITTAL.

James H. Farrell, Twenty-ninth—The constitution needs considerable construction to comply with the progressiveness pertaining to advanced affairs of today.

Edward J. King, Forty-third—Mind open to conviction. Please point out specific sections of present constitution to which you object.

The Day in Springfield.

Gov. Dunne is using all his power in an effort to have the senate pass the bill abolishing the state board of equalization. It has passed the house.

The public utilities bill was advanced to second reading in the senate.

The bill providing for an increase in salary of members of the legislature was halted in the house. It lacked seven votes of passage.

Senator Ettelson called up his motion to reconsider the vote by which his nonpartisan elections bill was defeated last week. The motion was lost.

The good roads bill was advanced to third reading in the senate.

The senate park consolidation bill was sent to third reading in the house amended in accordance with the agreement reached last week in the committee on parks and boulevards.

The Barr bill authorizing the establishment of vocational schools was advanced to third reading in the senate.

BILLS PASSED IN SENATE.

Amending the ten hour labor law for industries during the canning season, provided that no woman in this industry shall be employed more than seventy hours a week or more than five and one-half consecutive hours without a recess of at least thirty minutes.

The workmen's compensation act, with an appropriation of $4,000 a year salary for each of the three members of the commission.

BILLS PASSED IN HOUSE.

The following are among the bills passed in the house:

Bill revising the law in relation to weights and measures by adding between forty and fifty new seeds. Gives city sealers power to confiscate any scales or measures found to be under standard. Bill recommended by Chicago council.

Bill providing a four year term instead of two for aldermen in the city of Chicago.

Insurance brokers' bill provides that insurance brokers and agents shall be required to pay a license fee of $10 a year to the state. The bill is aimed at justices of the peace and others in the city of Chicago who do a brokerage business in placing insurance.

The senate bill appropriating $300,000 for the proper representation of Illinois at the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco.

Bill providing for a fifty-four hour week for women. The bill is identical with the one which was killed practically in the senate.

The administration bill permitting municipal ownership or operation of public utilities. It is a house bill and travels hand in hand with the public utilities bill.

HOYNE PROTESTS TO GOVERNOR.

Objects to Utilities Bill, Asserting Traction Merger Here Could Be Sanctioned Against City.

State's Attorney Hoyne wrote an open letter to Gov. Dunne yesterday protesting against the passage of the utilities bill. He opened with an argument that the proposed law would permit a commission of five men to sanction a merger of all the Chicago traction companies at a valuation now contested by the city.

He then pictured a greater danger of the same sort.

"A single corporation might emerge from a series of consolidations," he said, "supplying Chicago with light, gas, and heat, telephone, street railway—surface, subway, and elevated—and messenger service, dictating the cost of these commodities and the price of these services and controlling the cost of materials and the wages of labor.

"With its thousands of employes it could and might attempt to direct the governmental policies of the municipality and the selection of its officers. No one could be free, powerful, or rich enough to defy its orders."

Mr. Hoyne described the bill as "the most pernicious and vicious ever before the general assembly of Illinois."

LAST STAND MADE FOR TAX MEASURE

GOVERNOR HAS INNING.

Legislative Day Favors Administration, Despite Utilities Setback.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., June 17.—[Special.]—Gov. Dunne is making his last stand for the bill abolishing the state board of equalization with personal appeals to Democrats, Republicans, and to the two Progressives in the senate.

Pending tomorrow morning is a resolution offered by Senator Walter Clyde Jones taking the tax bill from the committee on elections, to which it was referred this morning.

The governor sent for the Republican senators tonight to drop over to the executive mansion. Matters under consideration were the tax bill and the state patronage yet undistributed.

Some Democrats will not vote for the tax bill. They object because it would legislate out of office a dozen Democrats. The Progressives would lose another dozen and the Republicans stand to lose the solitary member of their party who was reelected in the November landslide—the member from the "Uncle Joe" Cannon district.

Fate of Bill in Doubt.

It is doubtful if the bill can be passed, even should it be forced from the committee; and it is understood the committee would have reported it willingly tomorrow morning had not the "puller" resolution been offered by Senator Jones.

The senators without doubt will insist upon the insertion of amendments which will necessitate another roll call in the house.

The Kleeman Calumet bill has been vetoed since the tax bill was declared passed, and the old heads on the house side are confident the best which could now be secured for the bill in that body would be to send it to conference.

Aside from the tax bill, the governor's wishes were pretty well cared for today on either side. The Chicago bills backed by the municipal administration also traveled along smoothly.

Utilities Bill Is Advanced.

So far as the governor's personally recommended measures are concerned, the day's record stands up about as follows:

The public utilities bill was kept from committee in the senate, despite the strong opposition of Chicago senators, and was advanced to second reading, where it may be called up and amended at any time.

The amendments to the direct primary bill made in the house are included in the bill passed by the house. If the bill does not go to the committee in the senate it has a chance of enactment.

The tax commission bill, after a hard fight, was referred to the senate committee on elections.

The Tice good roads bill was advanced to third reading in the senate without amendment, and awaits only a favorable vote of twenty-six senators to be enacted.

No administration bill was killed outright during the parliamentary tactics necessary today to advance technically the senate or house bills on the calendar which had to get by today in order to get through. In this respect the administration won notably.

Chicago Measures Do Well.

The city of Chicago bills also had a good day during the turmoil incident to the outright slaughter of 800 matters which were pending upon second or third reading on the two calendars.

The forest preserve district bill was pushed to third reading with a friendly amendment requiring another vote in the senate.

The parks consolidation bill was awaiting advancement on second reading.

The senate bill reenacting the Mueller law because of alleged unconstitutional defects was sent to third reading in the house unamended, as it came from the senate.

The senate anti-fortune teller bill was sent to third reading without change.

The bills regulating telephone rates were yet pending on second reading in the house, and the gas and electric light rates bills were awaiting report from the house committee on municipal corporations.

The vagrancy bill and the pickpocket bill, advised by the city law department, were dead.

Option Still in Senate.

Aside from these matters the situation as to other important measures was about like this:

The residential district option bill, still on third reading in the senate, with another house vote necessary to agree to senate amendments if the bill is passed.

The bill which would permit the secretary of the board of local improvements to have a vote in the board, passed by the senate, is on second reading in the house.

The senate killed the nonpartisan election of judges bill, by refusing to reconsider the vote by which the bill was lost last week. The house admigistered the same treatment to the nonpartisan municipal elections bill, refusing by a vote of 52 to 59 to permit the bill to come up for reconsideration on a motion made by Representative Medill McCormick. He made a hard fight for the proposition but lost by a narrow margin.

For Constitutional Convention.

Other matters which did not come to a test vote centered around the Curtis resolution, already passed by the senate, providing the preliminary steps for the calling of a constitutional convention. It is likely to be called up tomorrow. The feeling seems to prevail in the house that the proper and reasonable method of dealing with the mass of pending propositions which are intertwined with the calling of a constitutional convention could be disposed of satisfactorily by adopting the Curtis resolution.

Representative Rothschild of Hyde Park served notice that he purposes tomorrow to attempt to recall the revenue amendment resolution from the revenue committee and try to have a vote taken. The senate already has the identical resolution on its calendar.

Short Work on Utilities.

The senate made short work of the utilities bill. Senator Glackin wanted it referred to his committee, but the senate declined and sent it to second reading. Committee reference in the present state of the session would have killed it.

The primary bill will be on second reading tomorrow. It changes the primary date to September from April, makes the election direct of delegates to national conventions, provides for the rotation of names on the primary ballots, and causes the election direct of the ward committeemen in Chicago and the abolition of election of precinct committeemen. It provides also for the participation of women in primaries for the nomination of officers for which they may vote at the election.

All of the omnibus bills introduced in the house were passed by the senate, properly amended, so that they will now have to go to conference. This was to permit the necessary changes to be made to care for new boards and commissions, which may be created by the last day's legislation.

As they stand, entering conference committees, they total appropriations of $38,000,000, which is $2,000,000 greater than the earlier estimate. This total is likely to be reduced in conference to the $36,000,000 figure, and may be chopped eventually by the governor.

Armories for the Militia.

Included in the bills passed were all of the national guard and armory bills. The house passed its own bill making a four year term for mayor, city clerk, city treasurer, and aldermen in Chicago. The bill has to run the full gamut of the senate.

All senate bills in committee or on second reading were killed by formal resolution, excepting a few advanced. The latter include the Municipal court and sanitary district civil service bills. All bills originating in either house not passed tonight by the original body are dead unless an extraordinary case arises tomorrow.

The senate refused to strike out the enacting clause of the Pitlock bill forbidding blasting within city limits.

The house workmen's compensation bill, specifying particularly a scale of damages which must be paid and creating a state commission to supervise the law, was passed by the senate.

The women's eight hour law, passed by the house, will come up for action in the senate tomorrow.

PROTESTS UPON GORMAN BILL.

Telegrams Sent to Springfield by Officers of Christian Endeavor Union and Chicago Church Council.

Telegrams protesting against the Gorman saloon license bill were sent to Springfield yesterday by officers of the Illinois Christian Endeavor union and the Chicago Church Federation council.

"Recent jackpot investigation indicated liquor interests in past sessions contributed liberally for funds to carry through their legislation," said a message to Speaker McKinley, signed by Walter R. Mee and E. P. Gates for the former organization.

W. B. Millard of the church federation addressed telegrams to the speaker and to Gov. Dunne, urging them to "use all honorable means" to defeat the measure.

HOYNE GRAFT CHARGE FAILS.

Detective Accused by State's Attorney Is Reinstated by McWeeny at Prosecutor's Request.

Charges of graft made by State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne against five detectives which caused their suspension a month ago have not yet resulted in any trials. At the suggestion of the state's attorney Chief McWeeny yesterday reinstated Michael Neary, whose name was linked with an alleged blackmail plot against a bartender at the Wellington hotel. The other four men were said to be connected with a clairvoyant investigation the state's attorney was said to be making. They have not been reinstated.

EVANSTON TO AID HOME RULE.

Council of Suburb Authorizes Mayor to Appoint Committee to Lobby for Clause at Springfield.

The Evanston council last night on motion of Ald. F. B. Dyche authorized Mayor Smart to appoint a committee to go to Springfield and lobby for a home rule clause in the public utilities bill. A committee of aldermen and citizens was appointed to beautify the lake front of the suburb, which has been kept in disorder by efforts to make filled in land. A. F. Bull was appointed city collector.

GRAND JURY HUNTS PARK RIDGE GRAFT

Indictment of Former Collector Expected to Involve Other Ex-Officials.

ACCUSED MAN VANISHES.

Believed to Have Been Furnished with Funds to Flee from the Country.

Graft charges against former city officials of Park Ridge, Ill., are promised as the result of an indictment returned yesterday against Chester McNally, former city collector. McNally is charged with misappropriating almost $5,000 of Park Ridge funds while in office. He has disappeared.

Until three weeks ago McNally was city collector. He was defeated in the recent election, when a nonpartisan ticket was elected. When his books were audited it was found that almost $5,000 was missing. He was summoned to appear before the council, but left the city. A committee headed by Mayor Bruce Durham and City Attorney E. C. Mapledoram went before the Cook county grand jury yesterday.

Reported to Be in Panama.

It was intimated that several of the former officials of Park Ridge will be summoned to appear. It is alleged that McNally was given money by several officials to leave the state. He is reported to have gone to Panama.

McNally is 33 years old. He is known in Park Ridge as a "sport." During the recent election he and several colleagues formed a pool to bet on the result. It is said McNally lost $1,000 on the election. He is said to have played the races and was a patron of several handbooks.

Former Police Magistrate.

He was well known in Park Ridge and the discovery of his shortage caused a sensation. McNally was a former police magistrate and two years ago was mentioned in charges of graft made against the alleged "paving trust." He was succeeded as city collector by William Dewey.

The committee of aldermen who testified before the grand jury was composed of L. C. Dole, Martin Kimbell, and Robert L. Baird.

"Agreement for Latter's Passage Likely Will See Former Successful," Is Administration Promise.

Springfield, Ill., June 17.—[Special.]—The house bill increasing the salary of members of the general assembly from $2,000 to $4,000 for the two year period was halted in the house this afternoon. It lacked seven votes of passage. Consideration was postponed and there is still a chance for it to become a law. It travels hand in hand with the anti-pass bill, according to the statement of Representative Lee O'Neil Browne, made on the floor of the house.

Representative Browne assured the members prior to the roll call that Gov. Dunne has passed the word that he will not sign the salary bill unless the anti-pass bill comes to him simultaneously.

It is understood enough votes from the Progressives alone are ready to vote for the salary raise bill if the anti-pass bill is properly amended and passed before the salary raiser is placed again upon its passage.

SAYS I. W. W.'S INCITED MURDER.

Ipswich, Mass., Judge, Blaming Two Strike Leaders for Girl's Death, Holds Them for Jury.

Ipswich, Mass., June 17.—Declared by the court to be morally responsible for the death of the woman shot during the strike riot at the Ipswich hosiery mill last week, Carroll L. Pingree and Nathaniel Hermann, leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World, were held in $1,200 bail each for the grand jury on a charge of rioting by Judge Sayward today. Mrs. Pingree was freed on the same charge. Eleven other defendants were held for the grand jury on the charge of rioting, while five were discharged.

Man Shot During Quarrel.

A quarrel between two negroes and Patsy Grundy resulted yesterday in the shooting of one of the negroes, Charles Williams, in a rooming house at 866 South State street. Grundy was ejected by Williams. He returned with a revolver and shot the negro through the back. The other negro, Allen Thompson, and Grundy were arrested.

WOMEN ORGANIZE CAMPAIGN SCHOOL

OWENS PLANS ONE, TOO.

New Special Branch of Board Will Teach Them All About Elections.

The first preparations for active campaigning by the new women voters were made yesterday afternoon. A school for campaign speaking was opened by the Woman's Party of Cook County. The first class was held at the Hotel La Salle.

A dozen women politicians of the future practiced "stumping" behind closed doors. The topics under discussion were the various planks of the Woman's party platform.

There was a lot of timidity shown yesterday by the women who are going to fight the bitter political campaigns of the future. Consternation prevailed when a reporter dropped in upon the embryo political speakers.

Mrs. Anna Wallace Hunt was upholding the single tax theory which holds a prominent place in the organization's platform. She ceased abruptly.

"Go on," urged the chairman.

The speaker pointed toward the reporter.

"I think," said Mrs. Charlotte Rhodus, president of the organization, "that we'd better have a vote to see if we want reporters here."

"Oughtn't we to get used to speaking in a mixed audience before we attempt to go before the public?" asked one "student." Her support was so meager that no vote was necessary for the expulsion of the reporter and out he went.

Among the women who took part in the first lesson were Mrs. W. H. Stuart, Mrs. Marion Biel, Mrs. Dora Earl, Mrs. A. H. Beaver, Mrs. S. Harnstrom, Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. Rhodus.

Will Continue Woman's Party.

It was announced that the organization would continue as a woman's political party and that while it won't put a ticket of its own in the field it will work for a definite platform and support the candidates who upholds the party's planks.

Another school for women voters will be established in connection with the election board, according to Judge John E. Owens. The new branch of the board will be entirely in charge of women. It will dispense information to all women seeking knowledge of election matters. It will be modeled after the system now in use for the instruction of male voters.

"The new law will make it necessary for us to provide proper facilities for instructing women voters," said Judge Owens. "The new department, which will be in charge of women exclusively, will be strictly nonpartisan, and it is my intention to allow all political parties representation in the school."

Votes for Women Cost $2,200.

Securing the right to vote from the Illinois state legislature cost the suffrage leaders approximately $2,200. All of the bills have not come in to Miss Jennie F. W. Johnson, state treasurer, but she believes that the cost will not exceed that figure.

This amount does not indicate all that was spent in the legislative campaign. It is what the Illinois Equal Suffrage association alone has had to pay out since the legislature opened last winter.

There were, however, numerous individuals and women's organizations which spent various sums for postage, telephoning, telegrams, and railroad fare. The general interest shown throughout the state, according to Miss Johnson, saved the state organization a large amount of money and helped immeasurably in the passage of the suffrage bill.

The money was divided about as follows: Telegraphing, $60; railroad fares, $250; postage and printing, $500; hotel and other Springfield expenses, $1,400.

In Capital Six Months.

Mrs. Sherman Booth, chairman of the legislative committee, was in Springfield for approximately six months. Mrs. George W. Trout, president of the state organization, was about four months there and made many trips between Chicago and Springfield. It is figured that thousands of letters and telegrams were sent to legislators in addition to those sent by the state organization. At critical times all the suffrage organizations in the state were asked to send communications to their representatives.

Mrs. Trout has raised most of the money for the work through subscription. She has turned several hundred dollars into the treasury from money paid her for speaking engagements. Se is paid $50 to $75 for an address and all of this money goes to the state treasury. The work at Springfield forced her to cancel many mpre speaking engagements.

Since the bill was passed Mrs. Trout has received one subscription of $100, another of $50, and numerous smaller ones. Miss Johnson yesterday put $400 in the bank, all of which has been received since the passage of the bill.

QUITS CELL TO PREVENT WIFE FROM GETTING DECREE.

Peter Van Vlissingen Comes to Chicago from Joliet—Says if Wife Remarries It Would Be Crime.

Peter Van Vlissingen, the real estate man convicted of forgery in November, 1908, and a prisoner at Joliet, arrived in Chicago yesterday to fight the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Jessie R. Van Vlissingen. He said he did not believe in divorce, and declared if the married again it would be worse than anything he had ever done.

Van Vlissingen does not look as though prison life had hurt him physically. He is rugged and bright eyed, and, the parole agent says, so cheerful in his work on the prison farm that he plans living in the country when he gets out. He was eligible for parole three years ago, but asked the parole board not to consider his case until he applied. This was to avoid litigation.

A decree was granted his wife some time ago on her explanation that he was a convict, but the case was sent back by the Appellate court on his declaration that his wife knew of his forgery before the marriage.

PROGRESSIVES ASK CONVENTION

Chicago Club Declares in Favor of Proposed Constitutional Move Pending in Capital.

The Chicago Progressive club yesterday declared in favor of the proposed constitutional convention, now under consideration in the Illinois house.

In a letter to Secretary Shelby M. Singleton of the Citizens' association, President Thomas D. Knight of the Progressive club indorsed the Curtis resolution.

"The club hopes that every Progressive member of the legislature will do everything in his power to bring about such a result," said Mr. Knight.

Park Ridge "Actresses" to Give Show.

Mrs. John Paulding

A few weeks ago some of the members of the Park Ridge Country club gave a vaudeville at the clubhouse. As a result the Irving Park club has invited the Park Ridge actors and actresses to give their vaudeville at the clubhouse, Forty-third avenue and Dearborn Park boulevard. The Park Ridge people have accepted and will appear on Friday evening. The second act of the play is a sketch in which Mr. and Mrs. John Paulding, Miss Dorothy Knowles, Miss Julie Mayer, Al Verity, and Jack Caldwell will take the parts. The third is a cabaret in which Miss Beatrice Kennedy and Harry Stebbins take the leading parts, with Sam Davis, Artie Townsend, Will Slouson, and Lester Brady as waiters, in black face. Mrs. Jack Caldwell, Mrs. A. J. Buchheit, Mrs. E. E. Emmerich, Mrs. Harry Jones, Mrs. W. W. Smythe Jr., Mrs. Artie Townsend, Ross Brooks, Arthur Irwin, George Druehl, Harry Jones, Edward Emmerich, and Ralph Espy also take part. Jack Caldwell is chairman.

DUNNE GETS SUFFRAGE BILL

MAY BE SIGNED TODAY.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., June 17.—[Special.]—The limited woman's suffrage bill was laid before Gov. Dunne this afternoon. Under the constitution the governor has ten days to act on the measure or to permit it to become a law without his signature.

The bill was transmitted immediately to the attorney general's office for the customary opinion as to its form. If this is the only question which has been asked by the governor of his legal adviser an opinion may be expected tomorrow. If the governor has requested a formal opinion as to the scope, effect, and constitutionality of the bill it is possible the full ten days' period will be used.

Mrs. Trout Guards Progress.

Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, president of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association, watched carefully the steps which the bill took as it advanced to the executive office.

The formalities requiring the signatures of Lieut. Gov. O'Hara and Speaker McKinley were complied with today, and the bill was presented to the governor and a receipt obtained from his secretary, William L. Sullivan.

Women Keep Close Watch.

Mrs. Trout, Mrs. Elizabeth K. Booth, and Mrs. Medill McCormick, representing the women, are on the job at every turn. It is their purpose to be present when the governor affixes his signature to the bill, which they believe will be accomplished tomorrow.

They expect that all that is required from the attorney general is an opinion as to the proper form and passage of the bill.

URGE MRS. CATT TO REMAIN.

BUDAPEST, June 17.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt of New York, president of the International Woman Suffrage alliance, was presented today with an address signed by the delegates of all the countries represented at the congress, assuring her of their love and esteem and begging her to reconsider her intention to resign the presidency. The whole meeting rose and remained standing while the address was read.

Mrs. Catt warmly thanked the delegates. She said she would announce her decision later, but believed that the president should serve only one term.

Jane Addams of Chicago and Dr. Anna H. Shaw were the principal speakers at a mass-meeting tonight.

REINBERG SAYS HE MAY STAY IF MAYOR INSISTS UPON IT.

Peter Reinberg, president of the board of education, was indignant over a published report yesterday that he had resigned from the board of education.

"I have not resigned," he said. "My term expires July 1 and I have requested the mayor not to reappoint me."

"Would you accept another term if the mayor urged you to do it?" he was asked.

"I will serve another term if he insists on it," replied Mr. Reinberg. "I should prefer not to, however. My business takes all of my time. I wish to leave purely voluntarily.

I am in perfect harmony with every member of the board and with Mrs. Young. There is nothing 'back' of my desire to escape a reappointment except my business.

"I was surprised to see the statements that I had resigned. They are not true."

Other members of the board whose terms expire at the same time are William A. Vincent, Alfred R. Urion, D. R. Cameron, Dr. J. B. McFatrich, Dr. Otto F. Warning, and Michael J. Collins. The last two were appointed recently to fill vacancies on the board through the death of board members.

SIX SUFFRAGETS DRAW JAIL TERMS

English Militants Score Judge, Then Announce a Hunger Strike.

HOLDS ACTS JUSTIFIED.

Miss Annie Kenney Would Emulate Miss Davison; Man Also Sentenced.

LONDON, June 17.—Six of the most prominent leaders of the militant suffragets' organization and one of their male supporters were today found guilty at the central criminal court of conspiracy to commit malicious damage to property. The trial had lasted several days.

The women were officials of the Women's Social and Political union. They were Miss Harriet Kerr, Miss Agnes Lake, Miss Rachel Barrett, Mrs. Beatrice Saunders, Miss Annie Kenney, and Miss Laura Lennox, while the man was Edwy Clayton, an analytical chemist.

The jury handed in a recommendation for mercy in the cases of Miss Lake, Miss Lennox, and Miss Barrett.

Gives Militants Jail Terms.

Miss Kenney, eighteen months; Mrs. Saunders, fifteen months; Miss Kerr, twelve months; Miss Barrett, nine months; Miss Lake and Miss Lennox, six months each; Mr. Clayton, twenty-one months.

All the prisoners were committed to the third division, which entails hard labor.

Each defendant was ordered to pay one-seventh of the costs of the prosecution and was bound over to keep the peace for a year after the period of imprisonment.

With the exception of Mrs. Saunders all the women loudly proclaimed their intention of going on a "hunger strike."

Judge Admits Sincerity.

Prior to passing sentence the judge said that doubtless the prisoners sincerely believed that by their lawless conduct they were forwarding a good cause.

"Some of you must be religious," he continued. "If you are not atheists you must believe in a moral government of the universe. I commend to you the statement of a modern writer—a woman, I believe—who characterizes the belief that the end justifies the means as 'treason against the Almighty.'"

Whatever the motives of the prisoners, Judge Phillimore said, he must treat them as persons who had done a serious injury to public peace and must be restrained from doing further mischief and made to some extent an example to others.

After passing sentence he said:

"One of the counsel has suggested that the time for leniency has passed, and I do not think that you will meet with quite the same treatment as have the others.

Advises Life Sentences.

"I am bound to add that if the home secretary consults me, as he often consults a judge, I shall take upon myself the responsibility of saying to him that the ringleaders among you, at any rate, should not be let out of prison under any circumstances."

"Then we shall die together," exclaimed Miss Kenney.

THE JUDGE—If you, in the words of our great poet, violate the great canon the everlasting has fixed against self-slaughter, you will have to reconcile such action with your conscience.

MISS KENNEY—They have got to let me out or kill me. I think your summing up [addressing Judge Phillimore] was most biased and unfair. You ought to be ashamed of yourself to receive £6,000 a year for hounding women.

It is said that Mrs. Pankhurst, who was released from Holloway jail last night on license, is in a critical condition.

MEATS PUT UNDER FOOD ACT

Misbranded or Adulterated Shipments May Be Seized.

MARKS A RADICAL CHANGE.

Exemption Nullified and Strict Obeyance of Law Will Be Required.

Washington, D. C., June 17.—Probably the most radical and farreaching extension of the food and drugs act since its enactment was made today when Secretaries Houston, McAdoo, and Redfield, charged with enforcing this statute, ruled that meat and meat products in interstate or foreign commerce, which hitherto have been exempted from the provisions of the pure food law, may be seized if misbranded or adulterated.

Beginning at once, manufacturers of meat foods will be required to comply strictly with the food and drugs act as well as with the meat inspection law.

The action was taken on the strength of an opinion by Attorney General McReynolds. The three secretaries revoked a regulation adopted in October, 1906, only four months after the passage of the pure food law, which had prevented the department of agriculture, according to a statement today by Secretary Houston, "from prosecuting against manufacturers of meat foods under the pure food law, or ordering seizures or prosecution for misbranding or adulteration of domestic meats."

Gets Power to Seize Meats.

Secretary Houston said he could not understand why meat and meat products were not food in the sense of the food and drugs act, or why his department could not seize bad, adulterated, or misbranded meat once it had entered interstate commerce. Therefore he had sought the advice of the Attorney general.

"Under the meat inspection law," said Secretary oHuston, "meat inspectors have absolutely no power to seize meat or meat food products that have become bad or have been adulterated after they have left a federally inspected establishment. The only remedy possible under the meat act is to proceed criminally against any one selling bad meat, but even in this event bad meat cannot be seized nor its sale prevented.

Gives Control of Meat Supply.

With the regulation of 1906 revoked, the department can seize and prevent the sale of bad and adulterated meat, once it has crossed the state line and remains in interstate commerce. In case spoiled meat again reaches a federally inspected establishment it comes, of course, under the jurisdiction of the meat inspection law, and can be destroyed as heretofore has been done.

Under the new decision the government can control meat foods from the hoof to the retailer, subject only to the limitations of the power of the federal government in interstate commerce. The department is empowered to require all manufactured meat products to conform fully to its labeling regulation, and can enforce its penalties, prosecutions, and seizures for misbranding and adulteration."

NEW YORK ALDERMEN REJECT CURRAN COMMITTEE'S REPORT

Summary of Vice Inquiry, with Police Recommendations, Refused Because Waldo's Removal Was Sought.

New York, June 17.—[Special.]—The board of aldermen rejected the entire report of the Curran committee today by a vote of 45 to 29.

The defeat of the report, including not only the recommendation to Mayor Gaynor for the removal of Police Commissioner Waldo, but also about fifty-one constructive recommendations, was accomplished only after a fight which lasted three and a half hours.

The recommendations in the report had been intended to increase the efficiency of the police department and to reduce the evils revealed since the murder of Herman Rosenthal last July.

The report was wrecked on its recommendation for Waldo's removal.

BABIES' FRIENDS RESPOND TO CALL

CHILDREN POOL SAVINGS.

Save the Babies.

In weather such as Chicago has been having milk for babies must be kept cool. Bacteria multiply in milk not kept cool. Babies who drink this milk die—sometimes as many as twenty in one day. Contributions to THE TRIBUNE ice fund will save lives. Address Tribune Ice Fund, Tribune Building, Chicago.

A total of $91.60 was received yesterday for the opening of THE TRIBUNE free ice and hospital fund. An even dozen of kind hearted friends of the babies contributed sums varying from $1 to $40, Mrs. Georgiana S. Upton contributing the latter amount.

The letters which bore the benefactions bespoke a deep interest in the work of saving the babies of the poor. One sympathizer sent $10 and gave no name except "A poor friend of the poor." Three children had saved up $1.10 in their toy banks, and upon hearing their mother tell of the sufferings of the babies in the tenement districts, pooled their savings and asked her to send the money to THE TRIBUNE fund.

Fund Opening Opportune.

The opening of the fund was opportune. Urgent calls for ice were received all day at the offices of the United Charities, 168 North Michigan avenue. Six nurseries, Bethesda Day, North Avenue Day, Matheon Day, Mary Crane, St. Mary of Agnes Day, and Workers' Day, reported early that they were filled with children and hampered by a lack of ice. Fifteen families in the stockyards district were reported suffering from lack of ice. Three requests for ice were reported at the lower north station of the United Charities.

TRIBUNE readers last year, through their benefactions, benefited 6,000 babies. Had it not been for the generous contributors hundreds would have died. THE TRIBUNE turns over the contributions to the general office of the United Charities, after having acknowledged them in its columns, and the charity directors in turn give out coupon books to the needy and send investigators to report on urgent cases.

Co-operating Charities.

Other charitable organizations coöperating with the work are the Infant Welfare association, Presbyterian and Memorial hospitals, Jewish Aid society, the Maxwell Street settlement, the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, the University of Chicago settlement, the West Side dispensary, and the Jackson Park sanitarium. The Visiting Nurse association and the city health department also are striving to save the lives of the babies.

The contributions received yesterday were:

Mrs. Georgiana S. Upton	$40.00	From Carl and Bertha	10.00
A. W. Taft	10.00	A Friend	1.00
Joseph J. Fischgrund	2.00	C. L. Caliman	2.50
C. C. G.	1.00	The Farmers' Review	5.00
Two Friends	7.00	From three little children	1.10
Chas. T. Johnstone	2.00
A Poor Friend of the Poor	10.00	Total	$91.60

All contributions received will be acknowledged in the columns of THE TRIBUNE.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 18, 1913.

THE LESSON AT HOME.

Senator Stephen D. Canaday, Democrat, of Hillsboro, Thirty-eighth district, may devote the summer to tedious days and long evenings of explanation to his constituents.

The Hon. Mr. Canaday did what was in his power, and it proved to be considerable, to prevent action in the senate on the bill for the state regulation of institutions using the word "bank."

To every one except recalcitrant private bankers and obstinate legislators the thing has seemed to be in the A B Cs of common sense and simple justice.

Mr. Canaday thought otherwise—and acted otherwise.

Saturday morning a private bank in Mr. Canaday's district closed its doors. Accountants—after the fact—are now endeavoring to ascertain what was in the bank and what its officials did.

Mr. Canaday worked to prevent any publicity before the fact. He is welcome to such as comes after it.

THE CHANCE TO MAKE GOOD.

If a vigorous pace is set the Forty-Eighth General Assembly will be able to close its first session with credit to itself and benefit to the state. But so few days remain that the leadership must be effective and the responsible membership willing to forget party and personal tactics and work together for the sake of the constructive measures now ready for enactment and against the vicious measures still threatening.

The Chicago park consolidation bill is one of several important measures to which fair objection cannot now be raised unless politics weighs more than public good in this assembly. Its enactment will decrease the unnecessary overhead charges of our great park system and relieve the citizen of a part of the cost of the upkeep of what is not only a local but a state wide resource. This measure also is a move toward the simplification of the administrative and fiscal machinery of the city, and should have the unquestioned support of all representatives who do not wish to commit themselves publicly as friends of spoils politics rather than friends of practical progress in public efficiency and economy.

The bill to take the judiciary out of politics, the bill to organize the Circuit and Superior courts of Cook county to avoid the confusion occurring under the present organization, are likewise measures of special interest to Chicago because of local conditions, but which deserve the approval of downstate legislators as well as the unanimous support of the Cook county delegation. The efficiency of the judiciary of any district of the state is of concern to the whole state, and these reform bills should pass without fail.

The legislature ought also to give relief from the burden of partisanship in municipal affairs by passing the bill which will eliminate the national parties at least from aldermanic elections.

But there are measures of direct importance to the state which have yet to be acted upon and which the assembly cannot afford to neglect or postpone.

One of the chief of these is the bill abolishing the archaic board of equalization and establishing a tax commission instead. This bill is founded on the investigation and recommendations of a tax commission, and, while it differs in some details, is founded upon well considered conclusions. As a step toward the solution of our incredible system of taxation, one of the worst in the United States, this bill is of importance and should not wait for the next session.

The bills to make our pure food and drug law more effective for the elimination of fakes and the protection of the public, and to prevent the dissemination through the press of dope cures and other dangerous advertisements, are measures for the conservation of life which need no defense in this day and should no more fail of prompt enactment than would a law declaring murder and theft crimes if they were not already in the statutes.

The Hurburgh anti-pass bill should go through and the registered nurse bill be passed by the house.

But there are measures that deserve death as well as the foregoing deserve life. The utilities bill with the home rule provision stricken out loses its virtue and becomes a reactionary measure which will set back reform in Chicago and perhaps obstruct independent local action in other cities of the state.

The amended bill 283 to permit underground bakeries is one of the most outrageous attempts to defeat a provision for health and humanity that has been made in the history of the state, and the Gorman bill creating a monopoly in saloon licenses threatens perhaps the most dangerous innovation of recent years. The Gorman bill is not a "personal liberty" measure. It is a personal slavery measure creating a big business privilege which will work evil in our politics until it is destroyed.

The members of the Forty-eighth General Assembly should return to the people with a record of public spirited achievement to compensate the state and renew a confidence that has been too much shaken of recent years. Records are now being made which the people are able to interpret more intelligently than ever before. There has seldom or never been a time when public opinion has been more awake or better informed.

THE BIG THING.

With the legislature in the last few days of its session it is possible even yet to obtain for the state the largest measure of relief which an Illinois legislature can grant.

There is every indication that the assembly is not indifferent and few indications that it is hostile.

It can, if it will be guided by its own observation and its own knowledge of conditions, give to the people of the state the opportunity to say for themselves whether they desire the assembling of a constitutional convention.

THE TRIBUNE has asked the members of the house of representatives, with whom now rests the decision, to say whether or not they will vote affirmatively on the resolution submitting this question. The replies thus far received are encouraging.

The senate has adopted the resolution. The determination of the question is with the house.

The telegram of inquiry presented the facts briefly, thus:

"The Curtis joint resolution making possible revision of the state constitution by a convention is now pending in the house. It passed the senate last week by the necessary two-thirds vote. Will you vote for it? An affirmative vote means that you are willing to submit the question of calling the convention to the voters at the general election in 1914. If a majority of the voters then approve the convention plan of framing the constitution on more modern lines the legislature in January, 1915, will make the necessary provisions for the gathering. If the house follows the lead of the senate and adopts the resolution now it will take at least three years to assemble the convention. The present constitution will then be forty-five years old. It was drafted before the trolley, the electric light, or the telephone. Do you believe the men of today know better than did the men of 1870 the needs of this and coming generations? Please telegraph your answer at our expense."

The replies give encouragement that, although the session is almost at its end, it still has time and inclination to do this great thing.

The people of Illinois lived under their first constitution thirty years and under their second twenty-two years. They have lived under their third nearly forty-three years.

The third period has been one of political development quite as rapid and quite as evident in its demands as any marked during the other periods. Ideas of government have expanded; political intelligence has increased; democracy is deeper and truer.

This expansion of political principles has been cramped by a state document which restricts without recognizing them. It cannot prevent, but it can cramp. The development in ideas has been evident and that development asks for means of expression.

For ten years or more the sessions of the legislature have given evidence of this. Three sessions have been concerned, in much bitterness and in acrid controversy, with the opposing demands of advocates of various amendments, and because of the opposition have been unable to act affirmatively.

If we were amending the constitution gradually to meet new conditions the opponents of a constitutional convention might argue now that changes were being effected in the safest way, by conservative, thoughtful amendment, article by article, as required. Such an argument cannot be offered because session after session gives no change in the organic law.

If more than one article to the constitution might be subject to proposal of amendment the piece by piece alteration might satisfy the needs for a number of years, but with the limited opportunity granted under present limitations and with the legislature tied by opposing elements in politics and citizenship, the situation forces a demand for a constitutional convention.

What the legislature is asked to do is to present to the people the question: "Is a new constitution needed?" If there are any popular rights in a democracy, one must be the right to answer this question.

If after a lapse of nearly fifty years so marked by development it be not a reasonable and proper course for the legislature to submit the question of change in basic law to the people then our idea of democracy is not genuine.

The Illinois senate has recognized the reasonableness of it and has passed the resolution for the submission of the question. The house ought to recognize the wisdom of the senate and concur in its action. This is the big thing it can do for the state.

A PUBLIC SPIRITED ACT.

The governor's veto of the Kleeman harbor bill will be heartily appreciated by the taxpayers of the sanitary district. In his message accompanying, the veto is explained on the broadest grounds of sane public policy, the objections applying to any project the eventual cost and legal consequences of which are as uncertain as those of the Kleeman proposal. As THE TRIBUNE repeatedly pointed out, the plan was a reclamation speculation which the weight of expert opinion opposed and the governor's own engineer fortified this opinion.

But Gov. Dunne has not only saved the sanitary district as a whole from a heavy burden, he has served the whole Calumet region, whether its people realize it now or not.

The interest of this region and its public is in the coherent, logical and maximum development of its harbor facilities. This should be furthered in good faith after disinterested and expert consideration of the whole situation, and if any of the men who have been pushing the Kleeman project are disinterestedly concerned for the welfare of the whole district, they will direct their energies to this end.

The right kind of harbor development is needed by the Calumet district, and the governor's veto has brought it nearer, not retarded it. For this he deserves and eventually, we believe, will receive the thanks of the people.

GROWING PAINS.

A WHILE ago, while I was in a drug store in Rochelle, killing time between trains, a woman came in. She had two children tagging along. She called for a 50 cent bottle of rheumatism cure. She said she had found it fine for growing pains. Her children were accustomed to much dragging and looked the part. They were typical, spindling, pale medicine takers. It was not necessary to listen to the woman or to see the purchase to know that.

The mother paid her half dollar and went on her way with her bottle of sure cure for growing pains. Had she gone into her yard and thrown a half dollar at a post she would have missed the post and lost her half dollar. That is just what she did in the drug store. What she had got had not cost the producer a tenth of a dollar and it was worse than useless to the child who took it—so she lost her half dollar. She also missed the post, and that is what counts most.

She had been relying upon medicine to cure rheumatism in her children. They did not have rheumatism. Growing pains are not growing pains. The woman had learned that much. She had taken one step. Neither are growing pains rheumatism. They are infectious. The infection finds entrance through the mouth. The mother had not taken that step. She had heard enough to get by the growing pain stage, but she had stopped there.

Nature had partly cured her children. The mother was satisfied with the cure and told the druggist so. She did not tell the druggist that such curing as was done had been accomplished by nature. She had not found that out. She had not even learned that cure of rheumatic pains in children is a poor makeshift; that children properly cared for would be prevented from having pains. She had wasted her 50 cents, but, far worse than that, she had missed the post.

Those children should have had their tonsils and adenoids put in order. They should have been living the laws of hygiene. She was not thinking much about right living for her youngsters, because her limited experience told her that 50 cents' worth of medicine would ease the growing pains. Filling their stomachs with medicine, she was bringing up a pair of pasty, flabby youngsters trained to run to the medicine cabinet.

We have well developed, active, and efficient departments of public hygiene. Thinking people know these to be the best agencies used by government for the promotion of social efficiency. There is no organized agency for the promotion of personal hygiene. Such effort as there is is individual and sporadic. In consequence, the yellow wrapper and the lurid picture still hold the field. In consequence, mothers are still throwing half dollars at posts and children are growing up pasty, spindle shanked, and perpetually dope hungry.

POOR LIGHTING IN HOTELS.

Mrs. W. J. G. writes: "1. Are there laws in Illinois governing the amount of light to be furnished guests in rooming houses and hotels? A man not long ago complained of his head aching and eyes feeling strained on account of the poor light in his room while reading (studying) evenings. The lights in the parlor and office, he said, were better, but these places were too noisy for one to read or study in. 2. Is it not a fact that such conditions need to be remedied?"

REPLY.

1. There are no such laws. The laws of competition do not even cover the case. One of the prominent monthly magazines had an article on this subject a few months ago. It was written from the standpoint of the traveling man. One of the complaints was of the universally poor lighting of hotel rooms. The lights, he said, are never where they are needed.

2. Yes.

CUT DOWN THE FOOD.

A. L. W. writes: "It runs in my family to become stout between the ages of 30 and 40. Is there no sure way for me to escape this? I am a woman of 30, 5 feet 3 inches in height, and weigh 120 pounds. I have taken on twelve pounds in the last year. My mother and her five sisters are all too stout, weighing from 175 to 200 pounds, and they all tell me they began to take on flesh at my age. I am employed in an office, and walk a mile and a half every morning and evening, and about a mile at noon. I help with the housework, and am reasonably active outside the office. I am one of those solidly built, closely knit people who do not seem to yield to exercise, so I have given up this method of reduction. I eat about as much butter, cream, eggs, and other fat producing foods as most people. I do not relish acid things. I am in perfect health. I feel that I am as heavy now as I ought to be for my height, and any more flesh would be burdensome. Will you give me some suggestions?"

REPLY.

There is but one policy for you to pursue. Reduce the amount of food eaten. Keep reducing a little each day, until you lose some weight; then increase your ration until you are just holding your weight. Exercise helps, unless you increase your food enough to offset it. It is for this reason that exercise generally fails to reduce flesh.

DRINK MORE WATER.

A. J. writes: "I am troubled with weak kidneys and slight pain in the small of the back. My urine amounts to twenty-six ounces each twenty-four hours. If I take much exercise or do hard work it is less than twenty-six ounces. I have used Doan's kidney pills, but they do no good. I use no intoxicants. Is there any cure for it? I have been troubled for one year. I am a man of 36 years."

REPLY.

I judge by weak kidneys you mean that you do not void enough urine. Twenty-six ounces are just about half enough. The reason you pass less when you exercise is because more water passes off by sweating, and that leaves less for the kidneys to get rid of.

Of course Doan's kidney pills did you no good. You had no reason to expect they would.

All you need to do is to drink more water. Drink three times as much water as you are now drinking.

Neither a pain in the back nor a small amount of urine means kidney trouble. Quit taking medicine. About the worst possible habit is rushing to the medicine chest for every ailment.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1913: By the Brentwood Company.]

HARRY LAUDER, whose son has just graduated at Cambridge university, and who has now become, thanks to the large sums of money which he has earned on this side of the Atlantic, a large land owner and a Laird in Scotland, has developed legislative ambitions, and has announced his intention of standing for parliament at the next general election, or earlier, if any suitable vacancy occurs in the house of commons.

In this he is following the example of Marcel Menard, the well known Parisian comedian, who offered himself a few years ago as a candidate for the French chamber of deputies. He made the mistake of standing for a provincial constituency, where he was relatively unknown, instead of seeking the votes of one of the divisions of the metropolis, where he is a popular favorite.

Harry Lauder, however, is certain to win, no matter what constituency he stands for. For his vogue extends throughout the United Kingdom, and people will flock to his campaign speeches as they would to his performances. For, amusing as he is when he sets out to be funny, he is ten times more comic when in sober earnest. No candidate opposing him would have the ghost of a show.

Once he has taken his seat in the house of commons parliamentary life will undergo a distinct change for the better, and the atmosphere of intense dreariness by which it is now pervaded will be dispelled. Gloom will disappear when Harry Lauder, as member, say for Linlithgow, proceeds to urge in his own characteristic fashion the claims of "the girl in the postoffice at Killiecrankie" to higher wages; and what speaker possessed of any sense of humor and love of laughter, such as, for instance, William Lowther, would refrain from according every opportunity to the inimitable Harry to "catch his eye," for the sake of a Lauder performance, then and there?

Of course, if Harry Lauder makes a name for himself in parliament there is no reason why other music hall and vaudeville artists should not aspire to legislative honors, and George Grossmith, for instance, would be a distinct acquisition to the house of commons. His "Yip-i-addy-i-ay!" after some heavy, dreary speech by the stupid secretary of the home department, who seems so utterly incapable of handling the suffraget situation, would freshen up jaded members and make them turn to business with renewed zest. The prospect is so fascinating that one may look for the adoption of something of the kind on this side of the ocean.

Almost every calling has been represented in old world parliaments, including prize fighters, such as the father of the late Speaker Gully, who died as Viscount Selby. There have even been jailbirds. But thus far, to the best of my knowledge, there has never been a professional vaudeville artist, or even an actor.

The recent marriage of Jean Gerard of Paris with Henriette Foache, the divorced wife of the Comte de Marcé, and their arrival in the United States, serves to recall the somewhat sensational lawsuit in which they were involved last fall.

Among the admirers of the ex-countess, who is a handsome woman of some 36 to 38 years old, was the young "Comte" de Bort. He became blindly infatuated with her, and with a view of proving his affection insured his life in her favor in the great Parisian life insurance concern, La France, for a sum of 800,000 francs. The policy bore the date of March 16, 1911. The lady had promised to marry the young count as soon as her divorce from the Comte de Marcé was complete, and the wedding was to have taken place last December.

In the early part of November De Bort undertook a motor tour in the Pyrenees with a friend, Jean Gérard, whose acquaintance he had made through the ex-countess. On reaching the most dangerous part of the Col d'Aspin something went wrong with the motor and Gérard, who had been driving, got out to see what was the matter, leaving De Bort on the seat. Suddenly the car, which had stopped, unaccountably started off again, and before De Bort could seize the steering gear it had precipitated itself over the precipice, carrying him with it to his death. Gérard barely saved himself from being bowled over by jumping aside.

A fortnight later the ex-countess applied to the La France Insurance company of Paris for the amount of the policy in her favor. The company demurred, pending an investigation, and then declined to pay on the ground that it stipulated in its policies that if the insured person loses his life by the deed of a person who is a gainer thereby the policy becomes void. The company asserted that Jean Gérard was responsible for young De Borth's death and produced evidence to show that the ex-countess had been living with Gérard both prior and subsequent to the tragedy.

The court, however, decided that although the evidence of the relations between the woman and Gérard was conclusive, there were no direct proofs of the responsibility of the latter for the death of De Bort and that consequently the company must pay the amount of the policy to the lady, who has now become Mme. Jean Gérard. It is presumably because the couple have found themselves subjected to a good deal of odium in France that they have come to America and may perhaps settle here.

Young De Bort was the son of the late Senator de Teisserenc, "Vicomte" de Bort, and a grandson of that cabinet minister Teisserenc who was for a few years French ambassador at Vienna. The old fellow had no title whatsoever, and no social savoir faire. His solecisms and those of his wife, while he was minister of commerce in Paris during the great international exhibition of 1878, and afterwards while envoy at Vienna, were of the most extraordinary and entertaining character.

When he was sent to Vienna he caused his son Edmond to be appointed as secretary to his mission. While there Edmond became so impressed with the aristocratic nature of his environment that he coolly assumed the title of Vicomte Teisserenc de Bort, Bort being the name of the large villa and country place which his father and mother had purchased as their out of town residence. It naturally followed that Edmond's son in turn styled himself the Comte de Bort, dropping altogether his somewhat plebeian patronymic of Teisserenc.

Basil Zaharoff, a multi-millionaire Greek, who makes his home in Paris, has just given an evidence of patriotism which may be commended to the plutocrats of the United States, for he had lately purchased in London, Berlin, St. Petersburg, Vienna, Rome, and Madrid, in Constantinople, Bucharest, Belgrade, Sofia, and Cettinje, as well as in the French metropolis, stately mansions, and has presented them to the Hellenic crown for use as the legations of Greece abroad.

He received his education in England, at Rugby, and at Trinity college, Cambridge, speaks English without the slightest trace of an accent, is renowned as one of the most skillful fencers in Paris, and owns there the daily illustrated newspaper, the Excelsior—a paper that has an enormous circulation—which attracted a great deal of attention two or three years ago in connection with the successful effort of one of its representatives to make a trip around the world in record time.

Greece has no more powerful or energetic champion of her best interests abroad than Basil Zaharoff, and his two sisters, who live with him at his great house in the Avenue Hoche in Paris, where he is exceedingly liked and where he has recently increased the good will in which he is held by a gift of $500,000 to the cause of aviation in France.

The Call of the Lake.

You may go and tote your duffle down your "miles of unfished stream."
Take your rod*, slim, long, and limber; sling your creel athwart your neck;
Stuff your pockets full of plunder, fly dope, skeeter-skare and such;
Climb and creep and slosh and blunder; toil and sweat to beat the Dutch.
Yours the trout; you joy to woo it. Bass—the big black bass—for mine!

O, a doughty warrior is he; eager, swift, a knight of note;
Keeping any rodman busy till he's safely brought to boat.
Strikes and leaps and frills dramatic; sudden sulks and craft and strength!
First and last what thrills ecstatic! What a stock of yarns at length!
Some day soon I'll be a caster where the bass make life worth while. ARIEL.

"WHY," inquires the Evening Post, "do bandmasters always consider that it is time to strike up and play their loudest when the parade is passing a hospital?" Presumably because they are traversing what is known as a Zone of Quiet, which is a most ingenious paradox.

TODAY'S mail brings us a letter from an inmate of St. Luke's, who asks: "If our beloved mayor were ill and in peril of his life would 'casual' noises, such as brass bands, be permitted? If any one knows where a real Zone of Quiet is to be found, I'd like to make acquaintance of it."

OUR experience with hospitals has been slight, but those we have known, in New York and Chicago, were entirely surrounded by noise. A street band is an affliction under any circumstances; when it is permitted to perform under hospital windows it is an outrage.

EXCEEDED TRANSFER RULE.

Chicago, June 12.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Today it cost me 10 cents to ride on street cars from West Thirty-first street and Fortieth avenue to Fifty-first street and Indiana avenue, because conductor No. 2844 on the Indiana avenue line would not honor transfer from Twenty-second street line.

My trouble was that I was at Thirty-first street and Fortieth avenue and could not go further south nor east because Fortieth avenue line don't run south of Thirty-first, neither does the Thirty-first line run west to Fortieth avenue.

I got on the Fortieth avenue car at Thirty-first street and Fortieth avenue and paid the conductor 5 cents, asked him what course to take to get to Fifty-first and Indiana avenue on transfer. He said to ride north with him to Twenty-second street, transfer east to Wabash avenue, and there take an Indiana avenue car to Fifty-first.

I asked him if the conductor on Indiana avenue car would honor the transfer going south when it was punched north, and he said, "Yes, in this case."

I gave the Fortieth avenue transfer to the conductor on Twenty-second street car, explaining to him that I wanted to get to Fifty-first street and Indiana avenue, and that I could not reach it from my starting point except by first going north on Fortieth avenue car to cross line in order to get south and east.

However, he refused me a transfer except one punched north, so that I could not go south on it when I reached Indiana car line.

QUESTIONS OF NATURALIZATION.

Chicago, June 16.—[To the Friend of the People.]—In 1900 I came to Chicago from Canada. In 1902 I took out my first papers. In the fall of 1902 I moved to Indiana, where I voted on my first papers for nine years. Now having returned to Chicago I cannot vote. Seven years have passed since I took out my first papers.

1. What is my procedure to become naturalized?

2. Can I go over to my former home in Indiana and take my second papers with less trouble?

3. Why should it be as difficult for an English speaking person to be naturalized as these foreigners who can't speak English and whose tendencies are foreign to ours?

4. Is my wife naturalized with me?

A. J. JOHNSON.

1. Appear before the clerk of the Circuit court, Superior court, or United States District court, this city, with two witnesses, citizens of the United States, who have known you intimately during your residence in the state of Illinois, provided it has been for more than one year. The clerk of the court will prepare a petition and advise you with reference to proving the balance of the five years in the United States.

2. Petitions for naturalization must be filed in the judicial district in which the alien resides.

3. The naturalization laws provide for a "uniform rule for the naturalization of aliens."

4. Section 1994, United States revised statutes, reads as follows:

"Any woman who is now or may hereafter be married to a citizen of the United States, and who might herself be lawfully naturalized, shall be deemed a citizen."

LIGHTING DEPENDS ON CONTRACT.

Chicago, June 14.—[To the Friend of the People.]—There are no specific plans to light Irving Park boulevard west of Forty-eighth avenue. Any extension of the present lighting system depends upon the consummation of a contract with the sanitary district to install the equipment. Such a contract is now under consideration, but until it becomes operative this department can install only such lights as are provided for under a previous contract.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

"THE TRIBUNE" AND THE BALKAN DISPUTE.

Chicago, June 14.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—There is a large colony of Greeks in Chicago, many of them being naturalized Americans. If there is one thing a Greek loves, it is the spirit of fair play. I, speaking for a small group of naturalized Americans, yet sons of Hellas, want to thank the World's Greatest Newspaper for its uniformly impartial reports from the seat of war. In fact, I may go further and declare that we have learned to trust THE TRIBUNE'S foreign news, whereas there is one afternoon paper which has been conspicuously derelict in its duty to truth.

Your correspondents have a sense of proportion and an understanding that is, indeed, creditable.

It is manifestly unfair for a paper to publish the personal views of a partisan as the authoritatively prevailing views of a reporter, and it verges on the ludicrous to find in one issue not less than three columns of this "inspired correspondence from a professor at the University of Sofia and several more columns from an out and out pan-Slavist in this conspicuously unfair afternoon paper.

The Greeks, of course, are not deceived, for we are learning to rely on the news from home as it is printed in THE TRIBUNE, but there may be some Americans misled by the false reports disseminated, it would seem with an ulterior purpose, by the afternoon paper in question. I trust all lovers of Hellas will suspend judgment until THE TRIBUNE either verifies or contradicts in substance the false news spread by the propaganda committee of the pan-Slav party and printed in a certain afternoon paper as legitimate news. The controversy now raging between the Hellenics and the Slavs is one which has two sides to it, yes, and perhaps more than two, and no one not prompted by judicial fairness is fit to report the happenings.

In conclusion may I indulge in the hope that the World's Greatest Newspaper will continue along the same high plane, regardless of what other Chicago papers may do "to stoop to conquer" a few pan-Slav shekels. I am, sir,

G. G. MANGOS, 619 North Clark street.

THE JAPANESE SITUATION.

Evanston, Ill., June 16.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I usually read and indorse your editorials, but am disappointed by yours of this date on "A Condition, Not a Theory." I cannot sympathize with your fear, which I believe groundless, of the "possibility"—which seems to me so remote as to be negligible—that "the growing strength of the war party in Tokio" will create "popular opinion" that may force the Japanese government into war with the United States.

You intimate that something other—you do not say what—than a pacific policy should be immediately adopted by our government. What would you have? Defiance and more battleships? Having done all they could to prevent the action of the California legislature that provoked the jingoism in Tokio, what wiser course can you suggest for the president and Mr. Bryan than one of conciliation toward the Japanese government and people?

C. H. ZIMMERMAN,

JACKSON PARK HARBOR.

Chicago, June 16.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Replying to the letter from "A. Reader" I wish to say that he evidently is laboring under a wrong impression in thinking that a portion of a public playground is being monopolized by a private club. This is not true. To enjoy the privileges of the Jackson park yacht harbors it is not necessary to belong to any club. Increased public interest in yachting has made necessary the enlargement of harbor space. The commissioners are very liberal in all allotments made by permit to the various public sports, and golfers, tennis players, baseball players, rowers, and yachtmen are all appreciative of their splendid public service. We believe that "A Reader's" claim of unfairness must be founded on misunderstanding, and are glad to supply the facts.

YACHTMAN.

THE DAVISON MEMORIAL.

Chicago, June 11.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Mr. Joseph Medill Patterson's appeal for funds to decorate the grave of Emily Wilding Davison, who virtually committed suicide on the racecourse at Epsom, seems to me to be maudlin sentimentality. Everybody naturally deplores the tragic death of that young woman in her misguided zeal for the enfranchisement of her sex. But the cause she espoused with such regrettable consequences is weakened rather than strengthened by mock heroics like hers; by arson, by window smashing, and by personal attacks on public men.

What would Mr. Patterson think, say, or do if, in any popular agitation in this city to which THE TRIBUNE happened to be opposed in its opinion, some one were to place a bomb in the vestibule of its building, with disastrous results to life and property, in order that the newspaper should give its adhesion to the agitation? Yet Mr. Patterson's letter would lead one to infer that he fully sympathizes with the present methods which the English suffragists are adopting to secure for themselves a doubtful privilege, that many of the most enlightened women, both there and here, not only do not desire to possess, but openly deprecate as inexpedient, unnecessary, and fraught with the gravest possibilities. Without entering into a discussion of this many sided problem, however, it may be safely affirmed that fathers, brothers, and husbands everywhere will not long permit the existence of any serious injustice to their female kindred in the eye of the law when it is presented to them in sober and convincing argument.

A. H. CHISHOLM.

ANOTHER CHAPTER OF GENESIS.

Chicago, June 16.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In a characteristic letter, Mr. Bertrand Shadwell finds time to jeer at the militant suffraget and credits, in some unusual language, Satan with her origin.

It is too much to expect an Englishman of money and leisure to want the time honored custom of bullying and oppressing women done away with.

So when these women, mistaken maybe, in desperation and despair at breaking the wall of selfishness arrayed against them, a position we know little about in this country, follow the example set by men when oppressed in like circumstances and use violence, those who understand most acknowledge least.

If Satan made them, I wish to credit, in Mr. Shadwell's own style, two more products to his workshop.

Then he took a fool and a mule and an ape and made a man and let him escape. And then he mused: "I can do worse yet." So he modeled an anti-suffraget.

D. PATRICK.

SAVE THE BEACH.

Chicago, June 9.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I see that a correspondent tells how the south parks have allowed Jackson park to become surrounded by property upon which expensive houses are built or are being constructed. This is true at the north, the west, and south sides of the park. Time was when the tracts at the north and south could be had at a comparatively small figure. This is no longer the case. Extension to the south is blocked by the country club, with its half mile of precious beach, and by land now occupied by costly villas.

There is only one bit of beach left to which the public has any access, and that will not remain so very long. I refer to the mile from Seventy-first to Seventy-ninth street. This strip, bounded on the west by Bond avenue, is about 500 feet wide. As Bond avenue is to be boulevarded, this parcel of land should be reserved for the people.

Ex-Ald. Jones once tried to induce the commissioners to take it over. They said they had not the funds. It is worth more now, but it should be bought either by the park commissioners or the city. When once Lake avenue is built up the beach will be gone.

NEAR FIST FIGHT IN MINE INQUIRY

Coal Operator's Invitation to Have a Few Drinks Roils Senator Martine.

OTHERS SEPARATE THEM.

Clash Comes as Hearing Adjourns; Kenyon to Do Questioning in Future.

Charleston, W. Va., June 17.—At a stormy session of the senate mine strike investigating committee, during which a fist fight between Senator Martine of New Jersey and Quinn Morton, manager of the Paint Creek Operators' association, was narrowly averted, the coal operators of Paint and Cabin Creeks today presented their side of the controversy.

Mr. Morton, as the principal witness for the operators, presented their account of the negotiations which preceded the strike and detailed his activities during the troubles. His discussion of his participation in the attack on the strikers' camp at Holly Grove from an armored train predipitated the clash with Senator Martine, who was questioning him.

Convivial Remark Roils Martine.

Senator Martine wanted to know whether Mr. Morton had expressed satisfaction at the effect of the firing on Holly Grove, but before he had developed his line of questioning, Senator Swanson, scenting trouble, adjourned the committee.

Mr. Morton leaned back in the witness seat as Senator Martine, his hat and heavy walking stick in his hand, stood behind the press table still asking questions.

"Well," remarked Mr. Morton, "we'll all go down and take a few drinks and then we'll feel better."

The crowd had already begun to crowd toward the door of the room when it was arrested by a shout of Senator Martine.

"What was that you said, sir?" he demanded, leaning toward Mr. Morton.

"I said we'll all go down and have a few drinks and we'll feel better," repeated the mine operator.

Martine and Operator Clash.

Pushing his way through the little throng about the stenographers' table, Senator Martine shouted:

"You are a blackguard of the worst character to address such a remark to me."

"Did you not take three drinks with me in thirty minutes?"

With a bound Senator Martine covered the short distance that separated the two men.

"You have forfeited all right to consideration as a decent white man," he shouted.

"You are an excited old man," interposed Attorney Vinson, as both men pressed toward each other. Vinson protested against his client being "insulted."

Senator Swanson hurried around the committee table and seized Senator Martine. Aided by Sergeant at Arms Higgins he hurried him from the room. Mr. Morton and Mr. Vinson protesting in vigorous language against the proceedings.

Row Creates a Disturbance.

This closed the incident, but the excited throng from the committee room filed out to the hotel lobby, and a general disturbance accompanied the discussion of the affair.

This afternoon Senators Swanson and Kenyon conferred as to whether the committee should continue its hearings or should halt the proceedings abruptly and return to Washington. Later Sergeant at Arms Higgins summoned Senator Martine to the conference, and an agreement was reached by which Senator Kenyon was to do all the questioning for the committee. It was then decided to continue the hearings here, at least until tomorrow evening.

A number of mine superintendents, miners, firemen, and company doctors were called by the operators to testify as to conditions in the strike zone. All defended the position of the operators in the strike.

Dr. J. C. Andrews said that armed miners had been causing trouble in Paint creek before the Baldwin-Feltz guards came into the district. He said the guards behaved well and were not brutal or overbearing.

REA COMING FOR DEPOT FIGHT.

President of Pennsylvania Lines Accepts Invitation to Discuss Project Before City Council Committee.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 17.—[Special.]—President Rea of the Pennsylvania railroad company today received the invitation of the Chicago city council's terminal committee to appear before that body in support of the plan for a union station in that city. Railroad officials here are confident the plan will be indorsed by other Chicago organizations, and President Rea said today that the undertaking was only in keeping with the policy the company had mapped out some time ago to have union terminals in all the larger cities of the country. Mr. Rea will leave here next week and will probably be in Chicago on or about June 25 and remain there to work for the project.

Chicago Divorcee Found Dead in London.

Mrs. Viola M. Hudson.

MRS. HUDSON HELD A SUICIDE

London Coroner's Jury Says Chicago Woman Killed Herself.

RELATIVES SPURN THEORY.

Father-In-Law Declares She Was Well Off and Had No Reason to Die.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 17.—The coroner's jury which investigated the death of Mrs. Viola McKenna Hudson of Chicago, who was found dead in her rooms in an apartment house in Westminster yesterday, returned a verdict of suicide by gas poisoning while temporarily insane.

Michael G. Herbert, an Oxford undergraduate to whom Mrs. Hudson bequeathed 1,000 "lbs." ($5,000) in a scrawled will, testified he had known her for two and a half years. He saw her on June 14 and she then was in good health. Mrs. Hudson, he said, sometimes declared that she was tired of life because she was lonely.

The directions left by Mrs. Hudson were to the effect that all her bills should be settled by the Northern Trust company of Chicago. After these and the bequests named have been settled the remainder of her estates is to go "to my beloved daughter, Viola Margaret Hudson of 4129 Prairie avenue, Chicago."

SCOUTS SUICIDE THEORY.

"We do not believe that Mrs. Hudson committed suicide," said Edward Hudson, father-in-law of the woman whose body was found in her apartments in London Sunday. "Of course, it is possible, but it doesn't look just right. Surely she wasn't in financial distress, for she always had considerable money and I understand she had an income of perhaps $6,000 a year.

"Another thing to be considered is that she knew she couldn't do anything with the will left by her father; couldn't change it in any way. As a matter of fact, none of us believe that she ever wrote that will found in her room. Mrs. Hudson was a well educated woman, and it is inconceivable she would use 'lbs.' instead of the correct denomination for pounds sterling. She may have had a few acquaintances, but I doubt that any of her London friends were very close to her."

ATTORNEY FOR "L" DECLARES HOYNE QUO WARRANTO A JOKE.

Asserts Action Will Not Interfere with Negotiations in Council for Through Routing of Trains.

Representatives of the elevated roads said yesterday that State's Attorney Hoyne's latest quo warranto proceedings, directed against them, will not interfere with plans for through routing trains.

Gilbert E. Porter, attorney for the Chicago elevated railways, said the suit will have no effect on the negotiations with the local transportation committee of the city council. He said these would go ahead as rapidly as the committee will push them.

"The suit is little more than a joke," said Mr. Porter. "Should the courts hold the roads' charters void it would make no difference either to the companies or the public. It would mean merely that the franchises and other property of the companies would be turned over to a new corporation organized for the purpose."

A meeting of the local transportation committee set for today has been postponed because several of the members are in Springfield.

State's Attorney Hoyne issued a statement saying the suit would be pushed and announcing the appointment of Glenn E. Plumb to act as special state's attorney.

KAISER'S JUBILEE REACHES CLIMAX

HUGE PARADE PLEASES.

William and Empress Smile at Students' Enthusiasm; Emperor Praised.

BERLIN, June 17.—Emperor William's silver jubilee, which has filled the Berlin streets with the greatest, gayest crowds of celebrants ever seen in the capital, reached its climax today with visits from the allied sovereigns and closed with a gala dinner this evening, followed by a picturesque torchlight procession of students.

The dinner guests incinded Andrew Carnegie. The empress, although somewhat taxed by the continuous festivities, beginning with Princess Victoria Luise's marriage, was nevertheless present. The king of Saxony proposed a toast to the emperor, who replied with grateful acknowledgment of the aid that has always been granted him by his brother sovereigns.

Torchlight Parade Long.

The torchlight procession started at 9:45 o'clock and occupied an hour and a quarter in passing. The students mounted, in vehicles, and afoot, wearing the vari-colored caps, and ribbands, and the picturesque insignia of their corps, marched past the castle, on the balcony of which were seated the emperor and empress and other sovereigns. The cheering was unending, and the emperor bowed smilingly and saluted continuously.

Most of the royalties arrived in Berlin last night or this morning and gave the sons of the emperor a busy session in receiving them at the various stations. Tonight they will be present at a state banquet presided over by the emperor.

Praises William's Policies.

The prince regent of Bavaria acted as spokesman at the noon meeting of royalties. He said the emperor as director of the foreign policy of the German empire had shown himself to be an upholder of peace and at the same time an upbuilder of the empire's might.

The prince regent spoke of the economic progress made during the twenty-five years' reign of the emperor, and praised his majesty as the "patron of every moral, noble, and beautiful impulse in the empire."

The emperor was then presented a table centerpiece in the shape of a ship, in massive silver, as an emblem of the unity of the German rulers.

Empress Leaves Theater.

The Empress Augusta Victoria was forced to leave the imperial box at the opera in the middle of last evening's performance. The crown princess will represent her majesty at tonight's state dinner.

Today's celebration was again favored by excellent weather. It opened with a parade organized by the trade unions.

The streets appeared to be even more crowded today than yesterday, the spectators taking great interest in the workmen's parade, the state processions of the German rulers to the castle, and tonight's torchlight procession.

DOCTORS OPEN BIG MEETING

TELLS THE ILLS OF ALIENS.

Dr. Blanchard Says They Furnish Most Patients Here.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 17.—The American Medical association met for the opening session of its sixty-fourth annual convention at the Auditorium this morning.

Dr. Abraham Jacobi of New York, the outgoing president, called the meeting to order, after which the new head of the association, Dr. John Witherspoon of Nashville, Tenn., was installed, took charge of the program, and delivered the annual address.

Dr. Witherspoon advoated a national board of health and committed the association to the plan for such an organization. He argued for centralized power with the government back of it to prevent epidemics and stamp out infectious diseases that are common among the people.

"They call this association a medical trust," he said, "and we are accused of selfish motives. This in the face of the fact that the accomplishment of the great demand we are making for national recognition, not of ourselves but of the principles of preventive medicine that we advocate, would at once lessen the income of every physician in the practice of medicine."

Tells Diseases Among Aliens.

Dr. Wallace Blanchard of Chicago in his address declared that the susceptibility of different nationalities to different deformities is remarkable.

"In 1911 the highest immigration point was reached with one and a quarter millions. The majority of these people flock to our large cities. Their sick and injured fill our free hospitals."

The speaker said that in the free hospitals of Chicago half the tubercular joint cases, two-thirds of the spinal curvature cases, and a large proportion of deformities due to rickets affect new immigrants.

Huddling in small houses and rooms and early labor of women in factories were among the causes, he said. Severe rachitic deformities are almost peculiar to children of immigrants coming from a warm to a cold climate.

Hospitals in Small Places.

The lack of modern facilities afforded by hospitals in the smaller communities and the possibilities of fitting up dwelling houses into private hospitals was discussed by Dr. John A. Hornsby of Chicago.

"There are many physicians, surgeons, and specialists in small communities quite as competent to do good work as their brothers in the large centers," he said, "but as a rule the hospitals in their communities are lacking in modern facilities, hence these men are finding it necessary to equip small hospitals of their own by remodeling abandoned dwelling houses whose occupants have been driven away by the encroachments of the business section.

"The remodeling of such houses is not difficult and need not be expensive, and yet excellent work may be done here."

BOMB KILLS ONE, WOUNDS ONE.

Infernal Machine, Sent by Mail, Fells Two Women at Sherbrooke, Quebec, When Opened.

SHERBROOKE, Que., June 17.—An infernal machine sent by mail killed one woman and mortally wounded another when opened here today.

Colonel Henry Watterson, the famous editor, writes: "I feel I owe it to truth to state that I have made a thorough trial of Sanatogen, and that I have found it most efficacious and beneficent. I do not think I could have recovered my vitality, as I have done, without this Sanatogen operating equally upon the digestive organs and nerve centers."

John Burroughs, the distinguished naturalist and author, writes: "I am sure I have been greatly benefited by Sanatogen. My sleep is fifty per cent. better than it was a year ago, and my mind and strength are much improved."

And Sanatogen will do the same for your Health

IT is literally true that Sanatogen has brought grateful help and a new enjoyment of life to multitudes. Wherever people suffer from nervous starvation, feeling "run-down" and exhausted, Sanatogen daily imparts new strength and vitality.

And Sanatogen will go on doing this so long as the strife and stress of modern life sap our innermost strength. You, who are nervous may well remember that thousands praise Sanatogen for its grateful tonic and sustaining effects, restoring nerve health and vigor—the will and the power to do. You who need building up should remember that as an upbuilder of blood and tissue, Sanatogen is used daily in the best hospitals and sanitariums. And you who may be skeptical, remember that over 18,000 practising physicians, over their own signatures, have recited the remarkable results which they have seen Sanatogen produce in their patients.

Therefore, may we not say: Sanatogen will do the same for your health.

SEIZES DATA OF SUGAR TRUST MEN

READ INTO THE RECORD.

The correspondence covered much of 1911 and the early part of 1912, when the Underwood free sugar bill was introduced in the house. The letters produced indicated that Hamlin had made contracts with "news plate" concerns that furnish matter to smaller papers and had urged beet sugar men in different parts of the country to attempt to secure publicity in their own localities and through news agencies.

Tells Calls on Newspapers.

Included in the mass of correspondence were letters from Aaron Gove, which showed that he had made an extensive tour for the same purpose.

One letter from the Hamlin file, written from Washington on Dec. 2, 1911, to Charles B. Warren, president of the Michigan Sugar company and Republican national committeeman from Michigan, said in part:

Visited one big town each day of my trip and invariably succeeded in getting our story in at least one of the leading papers. Of course, some handled it more satisfactorily than others, but generally speaking they all did well.

The writer enumerated nearly a dozen large papers in the middle west in which he said he had succeeded in getting "our story" printed.

The value of publicity was emphasized further in another letter written at Fargo, N. D., by Gove to Hamlin in Washington. It referred to an interview that had gone out which was designated as the "Arbuckle interview," and Gove urged the use of "patent inside" to reach the country readers.

Urges Reaching the Farmers.

"Many farmers read those patent insides," he said. "When I looked it up I found that a stick of stuff every week was not exorbitant in price and it sure enough does get before the voters little by little and eats in."

Another of the Gove letters, signed and dated August 4, 1911, gave some light on the efforts of the beet sugar forces, while the Hardwick committee of the house was investigating the so-called "sugar trust." Mr. Gove said it would require some skill to itemize his expense account so it could be checked up by an auditing board.

"We have had an interesting time," the letter continued. "Palmer is before the committee on his third day today. He is doing well. H. T. entertained them in New York with, I learn, good effect. The Hardwick committee report will reach over to December and will be less harmful than I hoped."

Members of the committee asked who "H. T." was.

"I suppose it was Mr. Oxnard," said Senator Reed. Mr. Oxnard's initials are "H. T."

Comments on Bristow Stand

The letter added:

"Bristow insists that he will yet get in his sugar amendment. Of course, it would likely end with the veto of the executive, but I don't forget that it's only four months to the session when something will be doing in earnest. I have had some very encouraging interviews as to next winter, but the issue promises to be warmly contested. Senators like Borah insist that they want to be shown. He used those words to me this morning."

A letter to Hamlin from H. A. Douglas of the Minnesota Sugar company of Chaska, Minn., dated at Detroit, April 6, 1912, said:

We think it would be the wise plan to have Mr. C. T. Fenton, manager of the Minnesota Sugar company, who is now in Washington, meet the Iowa senators and advise them of the possibility of the Minnesota Sugar company extending its interests in northern Iowa in case of a satisfactory sugar tariff settlement.

A copy of a letter purporting to have been written by Hamlin to J. Ross Clark of Los Angeles and dated Washington, Jan. 18, 1912, said in part:

"Mr. Case had another conference with Senator Works yesterday and is satisfied that he will do all he can for us."

Replying to that letter Clark wrote Jan. 26, 1912, to Mr. Hamlin:

"I am glad Mr. Case had a talk with Senator Works. I feel quite sure that he will have to keep in line."

Data for Two Speeches.

A letter to Mr. Warren, dated Feb. 1, 1912, and apparently from Hamlin, said:

Mr. Pickett from Iowa, who is classed as an insurgent, will make one of the principal speeches in opposition to any sugar measure that may be brought in. Mr. Palmer is now at work on the necessary data. He will take the question up from the standpoint of its being a refiner's propaganda and also from the agricultural end.

Mr. Mondell of Wyoming also wishes to enter into the fight on the floor, and to be equipped with the necessary information. It is for him that I want Mr. Hathaway to prepare a brief.

Have two purposes in this, the principal one being that in furnishing information for two persons it is well to have the question approached from two different viewpoints, as it is difficult for one man to prepare a brief for two persons without their running along the same lines. This is very important, and the sooner it is done the better.

It might be well if Mr. Hathaway would come here and do the work on the ground. If he does, I will arrange matters so he can get into immediate touch with Mondell and know exactly what he wants.

It seems to me wise to have this question presented, as far as possible, by members whose districts or states are not largely interested in the industry.

Efforts to Use Press Association.

The efforts of Hamlin to get publicity through the Associated Press and leading newspapers was touched on in a number of letters. In what appeared to be a copy of a Hamlin letter to Gove at Fargo Nov. 9 1911, the writer declared that the so-called "Arbuckle interview" has "gone into practically every paper in the United States."

"After taking up the matter with Mr Morey," the letter added, "and after securing an agreement with the Associated Press to handle 650 words I gave out the inclosed, and while it was well handled locally the eastern papers took only about a dozen lines. As a matter of fact, I would have preferred that they had ignored it entirely. I have taken the matter up with Melville Stone of the Associated Press, demanding that in the future the beet sugar industry receive at least the same treatment as the eastern refiners."

Complains to Manager Stone.

In another letter to Warren at Detroit, with the initials "C. O. H." as a dictation mark, the writer said he had taken up the matter of the failure to get publicity through the Associated Press with Mr. Stone.

"Herewith copy of letter received from Mr. Stone in response to mine," said the letter, and it added: "If this matter is followed up we will be able to get our stuff handled by the Associated Press in a satisfactory manner. I will be in New York some time next week and will take it up in person."

Warren wrote to Hamlin Nov. 18, 1911:

I do not think well of your idea of writing all the papers that did not carry your Associated Press story. We have found that whenever a paper that is unfriendly to the tariff generally, or to the sugar tariff, is approached the result is an unfriendly article. You will probably have to rely upon getting out what you can, and not find fault when everybody does not carry out an interview.

Would Help Out Hinman.

The first letter read to the committee was from Hamlin to Warren. The letter follows:

"Washington, D. C., March 20, 1912—C. B. Warren, Union Trust building, Detroit—Dear Mr. Warren:

"Since writing you on Saturday I have had two conferences with Mr. Hinman, who controls the Chicago Inter Ocean. It seems to me that the matters discussed deserve our serious consideration. Mr. Fordney may have spoken to you something about the matter. It seems that Mr. Hinman has purchased or arranged to purchase $200,000 of the bonds of the Inter Ocean, formerly held by the Yerkes estate, but as I gather it he is not in shape to handle the proposition personally and desires to place these bonds.

"The total bond issue against the paper is $600,000, including the above, and bear interest at 5 per cent and mature in 1926. Of the $600,000 mentioned, $163,000 has already been placed, and Mr. Hinman desires assistance in handling the remaining $35,000.

"In placing the bonds already sold Mr. Hinman has had the assistance of the vice president and ex-Speaker Cannon, both of whom are interested in seeing him carry through this transaction. His proposal is that we assist him in taking care of the remainder of these bonds, $50,000 of the proceeds to go to working capital.

"The Inter Ocean has had its vicissitudes and is now operating at some loss, but Mr. Hinman assures me it is on the upgrade. He tells me that they are practically free from floating indebtedness, and have never defaulted in their interest payment.

"The Inter Ocean is one of the three papers which holds Associated Press franchises in the city of Chicago, and the only Chicago daily which publishes a weekly edition. This weekly edition has a circulation of nearly 100,000, almost exclusively among the farmers in sections which it is most desirable for us to reach.

"I think no paper published in that section of the country is so generally quoted by the agricultural and country press as is the Inter Ocean. The paper has always been friendly to our interests and should we aid Mr. Hinman a specialty will be made of the sugar tariff and our business will receive particular attention all along the line.

"The daily circulation of the paper is about 80,000. Mr. Hinman tells me that he has a standing offer of $1,000,000 for the paper, and while these securities are not such as to be disposed of readily, it seems to me that they are perfectly safe, as a paper with the circulation, franchise, and standing such as the Inter Ocean surely ought always to be worth $800,000.

"It certainly seems to me it would be good business for our people to make this investment and thereby establish an organ in the middle west which will give our industry the attention it deserves. So far as my own company is concerned I feel safe in saying that we will pay our share.

"If these bonds or a considerable portion of them were taken over and then distributed among the larger concerns, the amount invested by any one would not be large, neither would the money be given in the way of a contribution.

"I gather from my talk with Mr. Hinman that the matter is somewhat urgent so far as time is concerned. Mr. Hinman personally owns about three-fourths of the stock of the company. Mr. Oxnard seems to think that his people will look with favor upon helping. I am writing only to yourself and Mr. Morey. If two or three of the stronger concerns could underwrite the remainder of these bonds or a substantial portion of them I believe we would have no difficulty in distributing them among the various interests affected.

"You had better communicate with me by wire on receipt of this, giving your general impressions of same.

"Very truly yours, C. C. HAMLIN."

Would Get Paper's Influence.

To W. H. Hanna, secretary of the Spreckels Sugar company, San Francisco, Hamlin wrote the following month:

"It seems to me this is a matter of considerable importance, and the amount involved is not large when divided among all the interests. . . .

"In addition to this the influence of the paper, as well as Mr. Hinman's personal influence, and it is large in Washington, would be of great value to us. . . .

"There is nothing particularly new in the situation here. I am very hopeful that we will be able to keep the Republican members of the senate, both regular and insurgent, in line on the measure. The political situation is becoming so involved and uncertain, however, that one cannot but view the future with apprehension."

Another letter, dated April 27, 1912, and addressed to Mr. Hinman, publisher of the Inter Ocean, said that C. S. Morey, president of the Great Western Sugar company, Denver, was ready to take $5,000 of the bonds and added:

I tried several times to reach Fordney and went to the capitol for that purpose, but was unable to get in touch with him. Will see him immediately upon his return to Washington and follow up that line.

A letter from Mr. Hinman to Mr. Hamlin, dated at Chicago, April 29, acknowledged Mr. Hamlin's letter and expressed the hope "that your members will respond 'yes' or 'no' at an early date."

Sought Aid of Railroad Heads.

Letters concerning the aids of the railroads in defense of the sugar tariff began with one written from New York Feb. 6, 1912, by President Kelley of the Holly Sugar company and addressed to President C. S. Morey of the Great Western Sugar company at Denver. Mr. Kelley wrote:

While in Chicago Monday I saw Mr. G. T. Nicholson, vice president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railroad company about enlisting his aid in defeating the attack upon the beet sugar interests through the tariff. He expressed a willingness to do everything possible to help us and asked if you could name specific men that they could talk to, it would be advisable, as it was useless to waste efforts in trying to convince men who were already convinced. Messrs. Britton and Grey are their attorneys at Washington and Mr. Nicholson said that he would advise them to call on Mr. Hamlin or Mr. Palmer.

I also saw Mr. Darius Miller, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad company. He has promised to do anything he could if we would advise him in what specific direction he could be useful.

If you or Mr. Hamlin will advise me in this particular I will take the matter up again with Mr. Miller. Meantime I have no doubt he will, if the occasion offers, speak a good word, but I think it would be better to ask him to do some specific thing if he can.

I have an engagement with Mr. Nichols, vice president of the Great Northern railroad, for tomorrow morning, and will, I'm quite sure, enlist his support.

I am sending a copy of this letter to Mr. Hamlin at Washington, asking him to act as pilot in my endeavors.

Factories Banded for Campaign.

A letter, apparently from Hamlin to J. Ross Clark, Los Angeles, dated Nov. 17, 1911, said that sixty sugar factories had organized a "concrete and militant organization."

"I was continued as chairman of the executive committee at a salary of $15,000 a year," it added, "and this, with salary of $10,000 a year paid to Mr. Palmer, constitutes the salary list of the organization."

The fixed charges of the Washington office, the letter added, would be about $30,000.

"Whatever is spent in excess of this will be for publicity," the letter continued, "the general feeling being that a large share of our energy should be expended along that line. When result can be obtained the feeling is that we ought to be pretty liberal in this respect."

Letters and telegrams bearing on the organized campaign early in 1912 to secure petitions and protests against free sugar from various states were numerous. A telegram from Washington, March 21, 1912, by Hamlin to Fred C. Holmes, manager of the Western Sugar and Land company, Grand Junction, Colo., said:

"Have resolutions passed in Garfield and Montrose counties. Stir them up all along the line."

Holmes wired to Hamlin, "Working on petition and resolutions and believe will have a big bunch by April 1."

Reading of the correspondence will be resumed when the committee meets tomorrow.

Man Shoots Another Dead.

Samuel Coleman was shot and almost instantly killed last night by Charles Woodson of 2800 South La Salle street, in front of the latter's home. Woodson surrendered to Detectives Collins and Langan. He refused to give any reason for the shooting.

ATTACKS MADE ON FRIEDMANN 'CURE'

Berlin Medical Society Discredits Alleged Remedy for Tuberculosis.

REPORTS MADE ON CASE.

Some Patients Reported to Be Worse After Treatment for the Disease.

BERLIN, June 17.—The last meeting of the Berlin Medical society showed the drift of opinion of Berlin physicians was strongly against Dr. F. Friedmann, who claims he has discovered a cure for tuberculosis.

Prof. Max Westenhoefer of the University of Berlin reported that a post-mortem examination of one of Dr Friedmann's patients, who had been young and strong, showed a marked acceleration of the tubercular process after treatment. Although Dr. Friedmann had assured a cure, tuberculosis showed plainly at the point of injection.

Prof. Westenhoefer censured Dr. Friedmann for failing to give scientific data and for going abroad to exploit his remedy.

Frau Rabinowitsch, professor of bacteriology, said the Friedmann cultures apparently were made in cold blood, which, experience had shown, does not give a harmless product.

Prof. Max Wolff of the University of Berlin, who had examined patients treated by Dr. Friedmann, reported he had found no improvement.

Prof. Ludwig Schleich, who has represented Dr. Friedmann during the latter's absence, was alone in defending him. He declared undoubted cures had been accomplished, and announced on behalf of Dr. Friedmann that the vaccine would be placed at the disposal of physicians after the doctor's return.

One member asked the society to pass a vote of want of confidence in Dr. Friedmann, but no vote was taken.

FRIEDMANN LEAVES AMERICA.

New York, June 17.—Dr. Frederick Friedmann, who came to America several months ago to further his cure for tuberculosis, today sailed for Berlin. He would not say whether he will return or not.

BANG!

Another Gasolene Explosion!

Somebody was drawing gasolene from an above-ground "tin-faucet" tank. The escaping vapor communicated itself to a carelessly-thrown match. $20,000 gone up in smoke. Garage a total loss.

Fill in the details yourself. They are familiar enough, for hardly a week passes that you don't read of such a catastrophe.

There's only one safe way of storing gasolene—underground. Bury this highly explosive fuel in a Bowser Safe Storage System, and gasolene becomes as safe to handle as spring water. For with a Bowser System, no gasolene ever comes in contact with the air. No gas, no fluid can escape to work destruction.

You can keep 65 to 300 gallons or more on tap. You enjoy greatest convenience, utmost safety. And your gasolene is full-strength always. The gas you can see and smell escaping from any above-ground can, tank or container is the life, the "kick" of your gasolene. Without it you might as well be using low-grade naphtha. A Bowser System saves the loss. In many cases it has increased the fuel-efficiency at the rate of 15 to 20 per cent a week.

Bowser Outfits in All Prices and Sizes

You can get Bowser Storage Systems to suit any need, from a yard outfit to complete garage equipment, with long distance tank, self-measuring pump, meter, gauge, etc.

Tank capacities one barrel and up. We also make lubricating oil storage equipment for private and public garages.

Alpha Delta Phi Holds First Convention in North.

THE national convention of the Alpha Delta Phi sorority will open this morning at the Auditorium hotel. There will be representatives from nineteen chapters from the same number of states. The sorority was founded in Wesleyan college, Macon, Ga., in 1851. This is the first convention in the north.

It is expected some action will be taken to eliminate chapters of the sorority in secondary schools. The committee which has charge of arrangements is: Miss Abigail Davis, Miss Mary Monahan, Mrs. Mary Chase, and Miss Clara Weldon. The convention will last three days.

Among the entertainment features will be a stunt party given by the chapter of the University of Illinois, a dance at the Congress hotel, and a banquet at the Auditorium hotel.

The Birchwood Country club will have a thimble party this afternoon. The hostesses will be Mrs. Otto E. Freund, Mrs. Harry C. Vernon, and Mrs. Albert A. Barrett.

The annual luncheon and entertainment of the Sarah lodge, Sisters of Humanity, will be held this afternoon at the roof garden of the Hotel La Salle. Mrs. A. Unger is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The Northern Illinois State Normal school at DeKalb, Ill., will graduate 126 prospective teachers tomorrow. David R. Forgan, president of the National City bank, will address the class.

The Illinois chapter, National Society of Daughters, Founders, and Patriots in America, held its eighth annual reception and luncheon in the Hotel La Salle yesterday.

Advocates Home Amusements.

More home amusements to offset the dangers of certain evils surrounding public amusements were urged by C. H. De Groot, general secretary of the Playground Association of Chicago, in a talk before members of the Iroquois club yesterday.

"Foreign children usually are contented to remain at home and do the things their fathers, grandfathers, and great-grandfathers did. They play home games instead of seeking entertainment at nickel shows or cheap dance halls.

"If art galleries and social centers with gymnasiums and swimming pools were established in small towns and cities the farm would not lose its young people as it now does. The reason for the coming of young men and women to the city is the fact that they crave amusement. If they had those things at home they would stay there."

Children's Day in Park June 26.

Children's day, entitled to that name by a proclamation issued by Mayor Harrison yesterday, will be celebrated in Washington park June 26. The celebration will be the annual free picnic given newsboys and other children by the Volunteers of America. Mayor Harrison appointed Maj. Gen. Edward Fielding as director general of the day. Each child will be given a box of food in addition to a supply of ice cream and lemonade, and a special feature will be made of the games, in which prizes will be given the winning contestants.

Chicago Teutons Form New German Society.

THREE HUNDRED men sang in chorus last night at the first Gemüthlichkeit dinner of the German club of Chicago in the Hotel La Salle. Attendance at the banquet exceeded expectations, inasmuch as the club has been organized only a few weeks.

A toast, "Hoch der President of the United States," and "Hoch der Kaiser,' opened the festivities. German and American songs alternated; "America," "Alt Heidelberg," "Illinois," and "Die Wacut am Rhein" being sung previous to the speaking program.

"The object of the club," said President Oscar A. Kropf during his address, "is to unite the citizens of Chicago who are of German origin into bonds of good fellowship. It will be the ideal of the club to contribute to the developing of the best possibilities of the city and its inhabitants. I feel that the complete American has not yet arrived, and when he does come we want him together with the traits of all nationalities to possess the traits peculiar to the Germans—those of industry, perseverance, sympathy with all things that extend to woe and trouble, and love of noble truth.

"We do not feel that the Germans are superior, nor do we hold ourselves aloof from the descendants of other nationalities. We intend to cooperate with all representatives of other nationalities who work toward the accomplishment of the best things for the United States.

"Our ideals shall be those that have been fostered by the clubs of citizens of other nationalities, such as the Irish Fellowship society. The prerequisites for membership are that a candidate be of German origin and a citizen of the United States. We intend to make the club one for social and educational betterment."

Henry P. Runkel, one of the officers of the new club, who is now in Hamburg, Germany, sent a cablegram of greeting which was read at the banquet.

Reviews Mothers' Pension Law.

The Children's Day association held its annual June tea yesterday afternoon in the Congress hotel. Mrs. L. L. Funk, president of the association, presided and gave a short address. Mrs. John F. Thompson, secretary of the organization, made a detailed report of the work performed during the year.

The work of the mothers' pension law was reviewed by Judge Merritt W. Pinckney of the Juvenile court. Mrs. Frederick A. Dow, president of the State Federation of Women's clubs, told of the interest in the pension law down state. Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, superintendent of the Juvenile Protective association, urged greater interest in the care of young girls.

The value of the family unit was brought out by Graham Taylor. He defended the United Charities against recent attacks upon it and said that it should be better supported by the community.

Adult Probation Officer Busy.

More adults on probation than ever before is shown by the report of Chief Adult Probation Officer John W. Houston for the month of May, made public yesterday. There are 290 more cases under his care than at any time since the law went into effect in June, 1911, and 498 more cases were under his care during the month of May than any other month on record. The great increase is attributed to the great number of cases assigned to him by Judge Uhlir of the Court of Domestic Relations and Judge Hopkins of the Morals court.

How to Earn Money at Home

Do You Wish to Help Along?

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

The purpose of this department is to find profitable employment for women in occupations which they can carry on at home without interfering with their domestic duties. To stimulate suggestions The Tribune will award $1 each for every help published.
Address—Sally Joy Brown, care The Tribune, Chicago.
The exhibit room in The Tribune building is open from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. except on Saturday, when it closes at 1 o'clock.

I WONDER if there is a square mile in Chicago or a township in the country that doesn't shelter dozens of women who are longing to do something to "help along"?

I am sure that there isn't.

It's such fun to be doing the things that you like to do and to be earning money at the same time, isn't it?

I wish that all of you who want to do anything would let me help you.

Won't you let me tell you something that's very practical and sensible, though at first it won't seem lots of fun?

People want plain, homey things.

I know that it's much more fascinating to embroider little fluffy tea aprons than it is to make big gingham cover-alls, but there are many housewives who have time to pick up some dainty embroidery in the afternoon. And there aren't many who have time to make gingham aprons—or who want to.

It's the same way about baby dresses. Almost any mother will spend hours upon the embroidering of wee things of beauty. But she may not be able to make the less entrancing things for every day wear.

And luncheon sets—such lovely ones come in to me, and I long to own them myself. But they are such luxuries. And luncheon and breakfast sets should not be luxuries. They save so much valuable time in washing and ironing that they are necessities for the busy housewife. Can't some of you make some inexpensive ones of crash with a little crocheted edge of carpet warp, or cool looking Japanese toweling sets? They can be made with a very small capital outlay, and they will sell much more quickly than the handsome ones which are really too beautiful for every day use.

All of the lovely things are so much more in demand at Christmas time than they are now that it would be a really good investment for those of you who can do beautiful little dainty things to make plain, every day home things during the summer, and then set aside some of the money you make now toward the materials for your Christmas work.

There is no end of things you can do now.

Why not sit down and think of the things you would like to do to make your own house cooler and more comfy during the summer and make those things for the Home Workers' Exhibit?

You don't know how hard it is to try to persuade you all to make just the every day things.

But I really feel that those are the things that will have the most ready sale during the warm days.

This is the harvest time for the good cooks. If you like to make luscious salads and cakes that melt in your mouth and bread like mother used to make you can have more orders than you can fill, for this is the time that housewives long for some one to do their baking and much of their cooking.

That's the secret of making money—knowing when people want things, and giving them to them right then.

Does this sound like a preachy chat?

It isn't at all.

It's just an honest heart to heart talk.

I do want to help you so much to make the very most possible success of your work.

Just listen to this letter:

"Last week I had my pocket picked in a moving picture show. It was in the afternoon, and that morning my husband had given me my week's allowance. It was only $6, but it meant our living for that week. I was nearly beside myself. I hated to let my husband know that I was so careless, but I didn't know how to get the money back. Suddenly I thought of your advice to your readers about never being discouraged. I got myself together, dried my eyes, and baked three cakes in a half hour. An hour and a half after that I had sold all three of them, and I had eleven orders for the next day. I made up my $6 and never said a word about it. And now it looks as though I had established a regular business."

A letter like that makes me very happy, because it is so full of the honest doing the best that you can in spite of obstacles.

Won't you write to me if you aren't sure what you would like to do?

I'll be awfully glad to send you a little booklet about the ways that 100 women made money at home.

It will surely help you.

Neck Ruche Easily Sold.

I know a woman who makes fancy neck ruches, the kind so much in vogue now, and made of net and lace. The double width net will make quite a few, and they are easily sold among one's friends, for every young miss wants one to "top off" her toilet, and they are sold at a good profit. L. HALSEY, 3456 West Thirty-eighth street.

Worn Under Thin Waists.

A young woman makes beautiful corset covers or underblouses of lace or net, to be worn under the thin waists. They are made of lace or net eighteen inches wide and one and one-half yards long. Beading is used on the top, and shoulder straps are made of satin ribbon two inches wide. More elaborate ones are handsomely trimmed with chiffon rose buds, which are fetching. These make adorable gifts. MINNA FRANCIS,

5151 Michigan avenue.

Throws for Baby Carriages.

A friend has added to her bank account by making throws for baby carriages and beds. These she makes by buying one yard of two yards wide fine net and binding net in a wash ribbon of a dainty color. A large bow of the ribbon is placed in the center. She sells these at quite a profit. They are indeed attractive when thrown over the carriage or bed, and keep the flies and insects off the little ones. MRS. S. B. SHLOSS,

Vincennes Hotel.

How to Make Grape Juice.

Take one basket of Concord grapes, stem and wash, put in porcelain pan, cover with cold water, and let them simmer, but not boil, until grapes are thoroughly cooked, then strain through a cheesecloth. For each quart of juice allow one full cup of granulated sugar, boiled to a heavy syrup, then add to the juice and seal after scalding both bottles and corks. By watching the market grapes can be purchased three baskets for a quarter. Each basket will make three quarts of grape juice, which can be sold for 50 cents a quart.

To make grape marmalade, pass the grape pulp through a collander. After making grape juice, add equal parts of fruit and sugar, boil down to a marmalade. This can be sold for from 15 to 20 cents a glass, according to size.

MRS. A. FEGAN,

1625 Benson avenue, Evanston, Ill.

Felt for Table Cover.

A friend makes dining room table covers out of billiard felt. She takes a fifty-eight and one-half inch piece of rounded felt for a fifty-four inch table and pulls a tape through. This cover fits the table tight and saves it when playing cards. These can be sold for $2.50.

REGINA EISEMAN,

CAUGHT BY SCORE OF SNAKES, ROLLS INTO FIRE AND ESCAPES.

Fisherman, with Reptiles Binding Arms and Legs, Sets Blaze to Clothing and Drives Them Away.

Piedmont, W. Va., June 17.—[Special.]—While trout fishing in a mountain stream near Mountaindale, George Ensor, a well known business man of this city, was attacked by snakes, and before he could beat them off the reptiles had entwined themselves about him, binding him arms, hands and feet. The snakes, over a dozen in number, measured from four to six feet in length. Ensor had the presence of mind to roll down the hill into a fire that he had built to warm his breakfast. His clothing caught fire and the snakes scorched and sizzling uncoiled from his body and escaped.

Ensor, although badly burned, ran to the cool stream and threw himself into the water extinguishing his burning clothing. His body, arms and face were severely burned.

ALL SMITHS AT THIS WEDDING.

Burt T. Smith Marries Miss Gertrude Smith—Maid of Honor and Best Man Bear Same Name.

A wedding in which all the participants bore the same surname, took place in the Centenway Methodist church, Evanston, last night, when Miss Gertrude Smith of Evanston was married to Burt T. Smith of Chicago.

The maid of honor was Miss Florence Lillian Smith, the bride's sister, and the best man was Alfred F. Smith, a brother of the groom.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Charles E. Smith, 631 Harmon avenue. The bridal pair will go for a trip through the east, and on their return will live in Evanston.

Hurt Alighting from Car.

An attempt to alight from a moving Thirty-first street car at Union avenue may prove fatal to Mrs. Elliott of 3607 Lowe avenue. He was taken to the county hospital with four ribs on his right side fractured.

C.M. WOOLLEY'S MOTHER TALKS; HARD TO ACCEPT DIVORCE STORY

Declares Daughter-In-Law Once Begged Husband Not to Divorce Her—Calls Her Extravagant.

Mrs. Smith R. Woolley, proud of the accomplishments of her son, Clarence M. Woolley, president of the American Radiator company, yesterday said she found it hard to believe the story cabled from Paris that her daughter-in-law has been granted a divorce secretly in the French capital.

"She knows better," said Mrs. Woolley, staying with her sister, Mrs. George H. McCune, 654 Grace street. "She's an extravagant, wasteful woman, and my boy has been indulgent. Five years ago, when her bills were very high, he talked with her and she begged him not to divorce her."

Mrs. Woolley said she thought it possible there had been an agreement for separate maintenance. She declared she would not believe even that until she had heard it from her son. Mr. Woolley, known in social, industrial and musical circles, is abroad at present.

The mother's opinion was shared by her sister, Mrs. McCune.

"Mrs. Woolley wouldn't get a divorce," she declared. "She is wasteful in everything. Perhaps I am prejudiced in favor of my nephew, but I think he's—well, about the finest man in the world."

Attempts to reach either Mr. Woolley or his former wife, who is living with her sister, wife of Giuseppe Mattlini, at Florence, Italy, were unsuccessful. The husband will be away for several weeks.

AGED MAN COMMITS SUICIDE.

Inmate of Swedish Old People's Home Cuts His Throat in Fit of Despondency.

SOUTH CHICAGO DRUGGIST SEIZED WITH WANDERLUST.

James Swope Visits Loop for First Time in Three Years—Tired of Calumet Landscapes.

Probably the most enthusiastic sightseer in the loop yesterday was a prosperous looking man who stared at the new buildings with keen interest. He said he was James Swope, a druggist at Ninety-second street and Houston avenue, and had not been in the loop for three years.

"I haven't traveled much," he added. "In that time I have not gone outside a space of three square blocks between my store and my house at 8901 Exchange avenue. On the way I can see the steel works, the police station, Bessemer park, and the railroad tracks. I thought today I needed a change of scene."

Mr. Swope has been the marvel of South Chicago. His regularity in walking up and down the street is such that people along the route set their watches by his movements.

Woman Barred from Court Asks Writ.

Mary Labriola, an interpreter of the Italian language, filed an injunction suit in the Circuit court yesterday against Capt. James O'Donnell Steven, in charge of the Maxwell street station. The bill charges the captain has barred her from the courtroom and station.

Heat Is Quick to Affect the Bowels

Well-Known Fact That Extreme Heat Conduces to Chronic Constipation.

So many people are in the habit of eating hot food in hot weather that constipation is very common during summer. It is best to vary the food and have some hot things, as for example, soups and hot fish and meats, if that is to be the diet. Iced water should be drunk sparingly.

In spite of all care people will become constipated, and if you find yourself in that condition you can get immediate relief by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. There is no time of the year when you should be more careful of constipation than in the summer, for many of the serious illnesses as well as the fatalities result from a clogging up of the bowels. You also need general good health to withstand the heat, and hence Syrup Pepsin is best to take because it contains tonic ingredients that help to build up the entire system.

Numerous users throughout the land will testify these facts, among them Mr. George W. Allen, 408 N. Main St., Reading, Mass., who recovered his health completely after using only two bottles; and Miss Anna Schoff, 28 W. Washington St., Baltimore, Md., who says it for constipation and how has her mother and friends also using it. They now avoid drastic remedies like cathartics, tablets, purgatives, salt waters, pills and such things. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is mild and pleasant, and children like it. You can obtain it of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a large bottle. Each bottle must do what is claimed or your money will be refunded.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it, postpaid, by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 418 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

Maj. Gen. Wood Sees War; Wants Every Boy to Train.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 17.—Asserting that war must come at some time and declaring that every young man should have a year's military training, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the United States army, today discussed "Our Military Policy to Preserve Peace" at the annual commencement exercises of the Carnegie Institute of Technology here.

"I do not wish to introduce a spirit of criticism against the peace policies which are being instituted by your founder, Mr. Carnegie," said Maj. Gen. Wood, "but I want to impress upon you that as much as we want to avoid war, we can't do it. Knowing that it is among us, we of the army are training men to handle it as skillfully as possible.

"We know that war is coming. We know that it is nonsense to say that the day of war is over. Wars are not made by individuals, but by the pressure of public events.

"If war were forced upon us tomorrow it would be necessary for this government to call out 600,000 men immediately. For this army we would need between 16,000 and 17,000 officers. Yet we have only 4,000 officers prepared to command.

"We would be obliged to send our troops to the front in a state of unpreparedness. The inevitable result would be that disease would cause more havoc than would actual warfare."

"Tradition Breaking" Harvard Plan.

Boston, Mass., June 17.—[Special.]—This was class day at Harvard, and the class of 1913 entertained its relatives and friends with as much splendor and gayety as any of its predecessors.

In Sanders the ceremonies included the delivery of the class oration by Daniel Sargent of Wellesley, the class ode by William Roger Burlingame of New York, and the reading of the class poem by Amos Philip McMahon of Mexico City.

The class oration, "The Rotten Bags of Memory," by Mr. Sargent, was an attack on the sameness and monotony of tradition and an appeal to the class to break away from the beaten path and set up new tasks for their future.

The spreads followed, and the afternoon scene in the yard as well as that this evening was one of brilliancy and mirth.

Holds Colleges "Lopsided."

Wellesley, Mass., June 17.—A class of 274 young women was graduated at the thirty-fifth annual commencement of Wellesley college today. Prof. Bliss Perry of Harvard was the principal speaker.

"The spirit of calculation," he said, "has stolen into the college world. We have too much college machinery in proportion to the power plant; too much organization. We offer courses in the theory of efficiency, but the efficient person is as rare as ever.

"Both the spirit of knowingness and the spirit of calculation are destructive of charms. Charm is a very precious thing to the individual or to a civilization. If college life is in any way destructive of natural charm one pays heavily for the diploma."

Centenarian Gets Degree.

New Brunswick, N. J., June 17.—Among the honorary degrees conferred by Rutgers college at its one hundred and forty-seventh commencement today was that of doctor of laws in absentia upon the Rev. John Fryer Mesick, a graduate of Rutgers, class of 1834, the oldest living college graduate in the United States.

Today was the hundredth anniversary of Mr. Mesick's birth. He is a resident of York, Pa.

President Demarest announced at the alumni luncheon today that the gifts to the institution this year were the largest in its history.

The chief bequest was $200,000 from Mrs. Mary B. Pell of New York. Mrs. Pell also left a one-third interest in a residuary estate estimated at $2,000,000.

Young Woman Chosen Orator of Her Class.

Madison, Wis., June 17.—For the first time in ten years a young woman was chosen to represent the outgoing class as commencement orator at the University of Wisconsin, which this morning sent forth its sixtieth class. She was Belle Fligelman, Helena, Mont. who recently was voted the most prominent "co-ed" in the university. For her commencement oration Miss Fligelman presented a plea for a better interpretation of the word "freedom."

"In this country," she said, "liberty means a freedom in industry that allows half a million lives to be sacrificed every year, a freedom of capital to take advantage of labor and of labor to take what it can from capital, a freedom to squander the nation's resources, and a freedom of men and women to look only to the present and refuse to look ahead and to conserve for the future."

Alumni Day at Beloit.

Beloit, Wis., June 17.—[Special.]—Alumni day at Beloit college brought back the largest number of graduates in many years, nearly 300 attending the annual luncheons. Notable class reunions were held. An alumni council was appointed to have general supervision of all alumni affairs. Members of the council for this year are: I. B. Davies, Delavan, Wis.; Robert Childs, Chicago; R. K. Welsh, Rockford; E. H. Light and C. D. Rosa, Beloit. Officers of the alumni association are W. S. Jeffris, president, Janesville, Wis.; R. L. Lyman, vice president, Chicago university; E. H. Light, secretary, Beloit. Resolutions of appreciation were adopted for Prof. T. A. Smith, who retires from active service this year on the Carnegie Foundation. The class of 1903 presented a silver cup to the association, to be given each year to the class having the largest percentage of surviving members at the annual luncheon and campus supper. "The Tempest," presented by the Shakspearian society of young ladies, ended the day's festivities.

Marshall Scores "Book Learning."

Washington, D. C., June 17.—In an address at a high school commencement here today Vice President Marshall warned the graduates not to look to book learning to guarantee the making of a career.

"Anybody," he declared, "who is willing to cast principles to the wind, who is willing to take advantage of the weak and to ride rough shod over his neighbors, can make a 'career'; but from the higher standpoint he gains nothing by that."

The vice president pleaded for the maintenance of the old common school and cultured education as against an overabundance of technical instruction.

Class Day at Rockford.

Rockford, Ill., June 17.—[Special.]—Rockford college seniors held their class day exercises today. In the morning there was a handsome pageant, "A Dream Out of the East." Miss Kathleen Hoole, Sioux City, Ia., was queen of the pageant. The ceremonial of the transfer of the class president's cap and gown and a flag raising were a part of the program. President Gulliver entertained the seniors at luncheon. The class of 1863 observed its fiftieth anniversary; Miss Jennie Blodgett Ramsey of Belvidere, Ill., was elected president of the alumnæ association.

Fraternity Gains Chapters.

Two new chapters, Eta chapter of Broadway High, Seattle, Wash., and Theta chapter of Stadium High and Puget Sound Preparatory school of Tacoma, Wash., were reported admitted into the Sigma Gamma Pi fraternity at the annual banquet of the Chicago Alumni association of the fraternity, which was held at the Hotel Sherman last night.

Give Al Fresco Play for Benefit of Art Students.

"A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM," on the lawn of the parish house of the Plymouth Congregational church, East Fiftieth street, near Drexel boulevard, last night was an artistic and financial success.

Miss Rosalia De Beck, in a boy's costume of black and gold, played Rosalind, and Harry H. Hindman took the double rôle of Duke Frederick and Adam. William Tait Barlow was Orlando, and Celia was played by Miss Gladys Hoerber. William Ziegler Nourse took the part of the banished duke.

The choir was composed of: Miss June Braben, Miss Genevieve Fletcher, Miss Ella Johanna Malmrose, Miss Laura Matthews, Miss Florence Peek, Miss May Peterson, Miss Evelyn Porter, and Arnold Boedecker, Adolph Dyer, Walter C. Dyer, George H. Gaston, Frank M. Jeffords, and Arthur Schultz.

The program, arranged by the Rev. Joseph Anthony Milburn, the pastor, was followed by a dance on the lawn—with no tangoing, however.

The fête was given under the direction of Miss M. Catherine Lyons by the Woman's club of the church to assist art students in their education. The receipts were over $200. The patronesses were: Mrs. Willis Wood, Mrs. William Cubbins, Mrs. John J. Abbott, and Miss Mary Riddle.

Woodlawn Motor Contest Ended.

Visions of owning a $2,000, 1913 automobile faded from the minds of 10,000 persons last night when it was announced that Mrs. John Conners of 816 East Sixty-fifth street had won the motor offered by the Woodlawn Business Men's association as an inducement to trade at Woodlawn stores affiliated with the organization.

A committee composed of Aldermen John Helwig and Charles E. Merriam, Judge John P. McGoorty, and John Hayes, president of the association, was in charge of the drawing of the winning number.

Mrs. Conners was offered $1,500 for the machine a few minutes after she had been told of her good luck. She refused it—temporarily. After the announcement she toured Woodlawn accompanied by the judges of the drawing.

Indiana Sunday School Convention.

Evansville, Ind., June 17.—[Special.]—About 1,000 delegates and visitors are here attending the annual Sunday school convention of Indiana, which convened this morning for a three days' session. Most of the delegates were entertained in private homes, but some were forced to sleep tonight on porches and in chairs on lawns owing to the torrid weather. The main address was made by Dr. M. H. Hamill of Nashville, Tenn. A banquet was given at the Walnut Street Presbyterian church to all the county and township officers. The election of officers will take place Thursday. The convention in 1914 will be held in Indianapolis, and it will be known as the "grand jubilee convention."

Calls Choral Society Meeting.

A call for a meeting of the Irish Choral society, to be held in the Hotel La Salle within the coming ten days for an election of officers, was ordered out by President Patrick H. O'Donnell of the club at a meeting held there last night.

Happenings in and About the Theaters.

ONE of the smartest sketches in vaudeville has been made out of George Ade's comedy, "Just Out of College," which had Joe Wheelock Jr. as its star several years ago, and it is to be seen at the Majestic this week played by Milton Pollock and his company under the title "Speaking to Father." Being a product of Mr. Ade, there are characters in it, of course, and rapid dialogue, and funny situations, with no sentimental buncombe to interfere with the frank fooling. Mr. Pollock is the brusque old preserver of pickles who is outwitted by the callow young candidate for his daughter's hand, and he is excellent. Miss Dorothy Hope, Charles Walton, and Clyde Tressel fill in satisfactorily, and the performance adds much to the joys of an afternoon or evening at the Majestic.

Miss Marie Dressler in fifteen minutes of good natured clowning sings "A Great Big Girl Like Me" and other wild burlesques, and then lifts her hand for silence while she indulges in pathos—one of those tearful things about "Baby." It is some achievement to shift precipitately from the grimaces and contortions of buffoonery to the sad stuff, but Miss Dressler accomplishes it and is rewarded by close attention and applause. The versatile lady later gives a travesty on emotional acting, making it easier, thus, for the audience to dry its tears.

There are three of the Hickey Brothers, nice looking young chaps, two of them, with nimble bodies, pleasant smiles, and some jokes. They dance and are acrobatic, and another of them in a grotesque makeup is funny in a hard way. Early in the bill is Miss Edna Munsey, of whom it is bulletined that she is 19, beautiful, a graduate from the National Park seminary, and the daughter of a prominent Elk in Duluth. Miss Munsey has a pretty face and figure, pretty clothes, and a pretty good voice, which she uses successfully to sing "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and other ballads.

Miss Dolly Castles has returned to the cast of "The Tik Tok Man," having on Tuesday evening replaced Miss Dorothy Brenner, who replaced her on Monday evening.

The players who will assist Miss Scheff in "Mlle. Modiste" at the Studebaker this evening are Claude Gillingwater, Henry Leoni, C. Morton Horne, Leo White, Karl Stall, Gilbert Clayton, Miss Bertha Holly, Mlle. Gaillard, Miss Peggy Wood, Miss Inez Bauer, and Miss Florence Martin.

Among the actors who have contributed their services for the benefit to be given at the Auditorium Sunday afternoon, June 29, are Miss Fritzi Scheff, Joseph Santley, Miss Marie Flynn, Gene Greene, Miss Sophie Tucker, Miss Belle Baker, and Morton and Moore. The proceeds of the benefit will be used in starting a fund for the erection of a hospital for people of the stage.

"How Much Is a Million?" is a farce, the scenes of which are laid in Washington square, New York. The leading characters are a young writer of fairy tales and a beautiful heiress, who marry each other in the last act. Among the players are C. R. Hopkins, the producer; Mrs. Hopkins, Miss Grace Griswold, Lionel Belmore, Robert Brandon, and Miss Dora Mavor. It is to be produced at the Fine Arts theater June 30.

Hauptmann's Play Forbidden.

BRESLAU, Prussia, June 17.—Further productions of Gerhart Hauptmann's "Centenary Festal Play," which has been running in connection with the centenary exposition here, have been forbidden by the theater committee, of which the burgomaster and councilmen are members.

This action follows numerous protests from war veterans and others who have asserted that the play unduly glorified Napoleon and failed to pay proper tribute to Prussia's liberators.

It was reported some time ago that Crown Prince Frederick William, who is the patron of the exposition and attended the first performance of the play, expressed indignation. This report was never confirmed nor denied, but is now credited.

Never a Thing Wasted.

My husband is a barber and averages about $18 a week after shop expenses are paid. I always do all the purchasing myself. I buy meat by the pound in summer, but in winter I buy a quarter of beef and whatever pork I need. I find it much cheaper that way. I also get my fat from farmers and render it into lard myself. I raise all my small vegetables and potatoes and have quite a lot to sell. I do all my own baking, but we don't care much for cake or pie, so I seldom make it. I also do all my sewing for myself and three children and do quite a little for my friends. I do my own washing and ironing and wash and iron for the shop. I also board the man my husband keeps in the shop.

I always watch for the sales and buy summer clothes in the fall at about half price, also winter clothing in the spring at a big discount. There is never a thing wasted and I teach the children to be neat and careful of their clothes. I find that I can run the house and have everything we like, also pay rent and electric light and city water, on $35.50 a month, so that we always put about $24 or $25 in the bank every month.

I can save enough out of my garden stuff, my sewing, and out of the $4 a week I receive from my boarder to buy us all our clothes and furnish us with spending money, and sometimes I get enough together so I can add a nice little sum to our other bank account. I keep a few chickens in summer, so that I don't have to buy eggs; but I always kill nearly all in the fall, as I find it expensive to keep chickens over winter. I never can fruit, because it is expensive, and we like fresh fruit much better, and besides it is only taking up a lot of valuable time fixing fruit that when canned isn't nearly as nice as fresh fruit.

I find that it pays to buy good goods when making clothes for children, as goods at 12 or 15 cents will wear twice as long as goods at 5 and 6 cents; besides, making up cheap goods is wasting time, for it keeps you busy mending the holes. I have found some of your hints valuable and I hope mine will be of interest to your readers and help them a little.

Finds Help in Farmers' Bulletins.

In order to serve good, nutritious meals to my family at moderate cost it has been necessary for me to study the food values of the different articles that must appear daily on our table. I have found the following free bulletins given by the agricultural department of great benefit. Any housewife may obtain them by writing to the department and asking for the book in which she is especially interested:

Farmers' Bulletin No. 249—Cereal Breakfast Foods.

Farmers' Bulletin No. 203—Canned Fruit, Preserves, and Jellies.

The last two booklets are particularly seasonable at this time of the year, as the amount saved by canning at home is not small, and the recipes given can be depended upon.

Chinese Nurse Women.

Chinese servants generally are regarded in Japan as more reliable than Japanese, and most efficient servants are the Chinese nurse women. It is the custom in Japan to place the young children in charge of Chinese nurses, and when they are older to employ Japanese women.

The reason given is because the Chinese women are so faithful in the care of babies. A Chinese nurse will hang her head with shame if the baby cries. She thinks it is all her fault. She hovers over her charge with anxious care.

Judge Mahoney Frees Nine Arrested on Charge and Rebukes Road for Not Furnishing All with Seats.

Municipal Judge Mahoney in the Desplaines street court yesterday rebuked the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated railroad company and discharged eight men who had been arrested for riding on the rear platforms of a train Monday evening.

The judge held that a passenger who paid a nickel was entitled to a seat, and inasmuch as the rule against riding on the rear platform is a company regulation and not prohibited by ordinance or law he discharged the defendants.

"I don't blame you fellows," declared the judge. "The railroad is inefficient and doesn't run enough cars. When you pay a nickel you are entitled to a seat."

Fifteen boys and men rode on the platform when they were unable to get seats or adequate standing room in the cars. At the Ashland avenue station a guard complained to Policeman F. W. Casey of the Lake street police. The policeman took the crowd to the police station. The boys were freed at once.

Value Disclosed in Inventory Filed by Executors of Will of Pioneer Chicago Druggist.

An estate of $200,000 was left by Edwin O. Gale, Chicago pioneer druggist, according to the inventory filed yesterday in Probate court. He was 81 years old at the time of his death, Jan. 23. The home at 347 Lake street, Oak Park, is occupied by his widow and is valued at $15,000. Mr. Gale founded the drug firm of Gale & Blocki. He came to Chicago on the same boat with the late Fernando Jones.

Superfluous Hair Truths

DeMiracle

The Cheapest in the End

If you use a simple toilet preparation and it proves to be worthless, you only lose money. When you use a questionable depilatory, however, it is a very serious matter because you not only lose money, but you take the grave risk of permanent disfigurement.

If You Value Your Face

use De Miracle, the one safe, perfected hair remover of proven merit. Remember, the injury caused by the use of doubtful hair removers will either result in permanent disfigurement or cost you many dollars because it will take months or possibly years to gain control of hair growths that have been stimulated by the use of such preparations.

TIOGA BOAT EXPLOSION CASE ENDS AFTER 23 YEARS' DELAY.

Judge Landis Signs Order Giving Damage Awards to Heirs of Men Killed in Steamer Disaster.

Judge Landis yesterday signed an order ending a $60,000 damage suit which has been dragging through the courts for twenty-three years. The case was that of the heirs of sixteen victims of the Tioga steamboat explosion in the Chicago river in 1890. The defendant was the Union Steamship company. The judgments range from $2,700 to $10,000.

After more than twenty years of litigation in the state and federal courts, the federal court entered a decree in August, 1911, fixing the amounts due the various claimants for damages. To these amounts have been added interest at 5 per cent from the date of the issuance of the decree, to June, 1913, as ordered by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals several days ago.

Fifteen of the sixteen victims were stevedores. The sixteenth victim was Clarence Le Valley, a petty officer. The steamboat, loaded with gasoline, blew up at its moorings near the Randolph street bridge.

FLED ROLE OF SNAKE CHARMER; RUNAWAY BOY'S COURT EXCUSE.

Wins Freedom When He Tells Judge He Tired of Being "Wild Woman" in Circus Cage.

A mild mannered youth of 18, who said he was Herbert Smith of Kansas City, yesterday told Judge Gemmill at Englewood that he was the original "wild woman in the den of snakes" with a New York circus. He said he had wearied of his playmates and his costume and run away. The court advised him to keep on running, and the "wild woman" moved on toward Kansas City.

Judge Mahoney, at Desplaines street, listened to the complaint against a scraggy looking party arraigned before him and inquired whether it was the bearded lady.

"It" was identified by Mrs. Helen Fried of 431 North Kedzie avenue as her brother, Leopold Wallach, who she said refused to bathe, shave, or have his hair cut. Judge Mahoney ordered a policeman to take him to a bathhouse. An hour later the court stared at a man before him.

"Oh, yes," he said with a grin at last. "I remember you, Wallach. You look four pounds lighter. Discharged."

The World's Cooks
By Jane Eddington

A Spanish Miscellany.

BRUSSELS.

THERE ought to be hereabouts some remnants of a Spanish influence, and the following Spanish recipes are found in one of the cookery books. How much Spanish the things are after a Flemish cook has his touch upon them may be questionable.

SPANISH STEW—Cut in pieces the size of small nut a pound of lean stewing beef and the same amount of pork. Clean from four to six potatoes, wash them, and cut them in thick slices. Melt a tablespoon of lard in the bottom of a stew pan and place in it a layer of potatoes, then one of meat. So continue until all the materials are used up. The whole should previously have been powdered with fine salt and some pepper (sweet pepper or paprika would be preferable). Add a large onion cut in fine dice, powdering each layer with it. Cover tightly and place on the stove or in the oven. After a quarter of an hour of cooking add a half a pint of sour cream. If you do not have the sour cream, use the same amount of sweet cream, into which press the juice of a lemon. Let it cook, still covered, from three-quarters of an hour to an hour, having care to add some liquid if, in the cooking, the meat is not at any time three-quarters covered. At the moment of serving, if the sauce around it is too thin, thicken it with a large teaspoon of flour wet in a little water or meat juice. It is necessary that this stew should be highly seasoned. When one has some fresh tomatoes thick slices, from which the seeds have been removed, may be added.

TOMATO SALAD OR GASPACHO—Skin and cut in slices some beautiful tomatoes. Cut in the same way one-fourth of their quantity of new onions, the largest to be found, and one cucumber. Powder with salt, pepper, chopped parsley, and chervil. Garlic is optional. Add twenty minutes afterward two handfuls of grated bread crumbs, and, when these have absorbed the liquid in the dish season with oil and vinegar and serve cold ten minutes later.

MONK'S FRITTERS—Put in a saucepan two tablespoons of good fresh lard, two-fifths of a pint of water, four tablespoons of sugar, and the grated peel of a lemon. Place on a hot fire. When at the boiling point add four large tablespoons of sifted flour. Work quickly with a spatula, or wooden spoon, until dry, on the side of the fire, and until the paste detaches itself from the bottom of the pan. Let it cool until tepid, then add, little by little, three eggs. Spread out on a greased baking dish, and when the paste is cold divide it into squares and fry. Roll them in a mixture of sugar and powdered cinnamon and serve.

There are a number of things called Spanish bread in Europe, but in general the term means a rather inexpensive cake, as it does not in the following, which, though bearing the name Spanish, did not originate in Spain seemingly:

SPANISH BREAD—This sweet dish is of Viennese origin, and is frequently served at luncheons. Cut in a round form twice the size of a silver dollar and a third of an inch thick some slices of a sweetened bread—a bread like coffee cake or the French brioche. Place them in a deep dish, turn over them a small amount of red wine, and add sugar and powdered cinnamon. Let them soak until soft, then dip them in a little flour, and then in a mixture of two eggs and the yolk of a third well beaten and lightly sugared. Drain on a fork and fry both sides in a frying pan containing two or three tablespoons of clarified butter. When the bread is well browned, drain on a cloth; keep it hot, and serve in a crown on a round plate. Powder with sugar and serve with a light covering of marmalade or of apricot conserve thinned with a light sirup.

This is not exactly like the arme ritter brod (poor knight bread), or pain perdu (lost bread), or what we call French toast, and it is probably called Spanish because of the cinnamon. The Spanish put cinnamon in many things, and especially in their chocolate preparations.

DRUNKEN BISCUITS OF GUADALAJARA—Guadalajara, capital of the province of this name, thirty or forty miles to the northeast of Madrid, is a little city of 9,000 inhabitants, which, although possessing nothing remarkable, except the beautiful palace of the dukes of "l'Infantando," is, however, known by all the Spanish gourmets for its drunken biscuits. The posado San Pablo is renowned for this dish. Beat in a basin six yolks of eggs with three-tenths of a pound of powdered sugar until the mass becomes frothy. Add, mixing lightly, half a pound of sifted flour and six whites of eggs, beaten to a firm snow. Have in a deep frying pan a scant pint of water and two tablespoons of sugar cooked to a caramel and one-half bottle of Malaga wine. Put the first prepared mixture in a pastry bag or a cornet of paper, from which you cut the point, leaving an opening the size of the forefinger. Press the paste from this into the boiling sirup while another person, holding the handle of the pan, gives the sirup a to and fro movement in order to wet the top of the paste. Cover an instant and put in oven. Drain on a sieve and powder with cinnamon. These are generally eaten hot.

The Cultivation of Grace.

[Copyright: 1913: By Lillian Russell.]

NOT long ago, when stage people of note first posed before the moving picture camera, they discovered, upon witnessing the reproduction of the pictures, many things which caused them in future to give closer attention to detail in their acting.

The moving picture made it possible for them to criticise their own acting. This means that observation has caused an improvement; it has brought about a development of gracefulness that is surprising, and in a short time.

It is not possible, of course, for all of us to see ourselves on the moving picture screen. But were it possible, there is no doubt there would be a beneficial result.

In the absence of the camera and the screen for the individual portraits in motion, the regular motion picture plays offer good opportunity for study grace.

It is astonishing how quickly defects in movement which would ordinarily be escaped were the living actor before one's vision are noticed in the motion picture. And it follows that where defects are so quickly recognized they must be turned to individual account.

I will venture to say if any woman, while walking, will in imagination place herself before a moving picture camera, she will instantly improve the carriage of her body.

The difficulty is we imagine there are times when we are not under inspection and we become careless. We save our efforts for those times when there are especial occasions, like receptions, dances, or house parties.

We should realize we are always under inspection. We should always cultivate gracefulness until it becomes a habit and no longer requires effort.

Imagine how we would like to see ourselves reproduced in motion by a camera under ordinary circumstances, when we are "not on inspection." Think what a picture would be like showing one rushing through crowds in the streets, shoulders sloping forward, arms swinging wildly, steps altogether too long, and general ungracefulness characterizing every movement.

Have you ever noticed the moving picture of a crowd—how people, when they realize they are in range of the camera, square their shoulders and try to act with grace?

As a matter of fact, we are always within range of a camera; of thousands of cameras, in truth. For every eye which beholds us is a camera, and the impression caused by our appearance is a film.

The cultivation of grace is, of course, a matter of constant thought. Every movement should be governed by a desire to be as natural and free from restriction as possible. The effort will soon disappear and gracefulness will be a habit—one which will attract attention and develop admiration everywhere.

Remember: There is nothing that gives one personality more readily than self-possession among people, and to be conscious and confident of graceful movement is the foundation of self-possession.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

R. E.: If your feet are sore after a walk, massage them with olive oil. They will respond quickly to careful treatment. If they swell from long standing, dissolve one ounce of alum, two ounces of rock salt, and two ounces of borax in a foot bath. I am sending you formula for foot balm.

B. R. T.: Lavender water is easily made at home and is deliciously refreshing. Digest one ounce of mitcham oil of lavender in half a pint of the strongest rectified spirits. After emerging from your morning bath spray the body with this toilet water. An atomizer is the best medium for this purpose, and it is well to buy a good one at the start, as cheap atomizers are more tantalizing than useful. Never make the mistake of using a heavy perfume, as it is in extremely poor taste.

MISS L.: Curly hair rarely grows to a great length. Massage is beneficial to the hair and will cause it to grow. I would suggest that you use a good hair tonic to help remove the dandruff. I have a good one that I shall be glad to send to you if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope. I shall also send you my treatment for blackheads and enlarged pores. The hair tonic will not turn your hair gray; in fact, it will go far toward preventing it from getting gray.

LAURA L.: You can either mix a quantity of the peroxide and ammonia or use a few drops of ammonia and enough peroxide to wet the hairs. I shall be glad to send you instructions if you care for them and will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

Marion Harland's Helping Hand.
By Marion Harland

Sour Roast.

LARD a five or six pound roast of beef with strips of fat salt pork and rub two scant teaspoons salt into the meat. Lay in a large crock or porcelain lined saucepan and cover with vinegar and water in equal parts. Add one large or two small onions cut fine, two or three bay leaves, and any other sweet herb you like, a few pepper corns and cloves, one-half lemon sliced thin, and leave the meat two or three days in this, turning it every day. When wanted place on range and bring to a boil, then stand on back of stove where it will just simmer and leave it closely covered until tender. This will be in three or four hours. Put a very little browned flour with the gravy, but do not make it too thick. Never use less than a five or six pound piece, as the meat must be thick to be good.—Kindness of "A German Hausfrau."

Potato Dumplings.

Boil six or eight potatoes; peel and mash while hot; add about half their bulk in flour, two eggs, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth grated nutmeg, one-half teaspoon pepper, butter size of an egg. Mix as you would bread dough. Cut stale bread into half inch cubes and toast light brown in oven. Flour the hands, flatten a piece of the potato mixture in the hand, place eight or nine pieces of the toast in the center, and make into a ball; drop into a kettle of furiously boiling water. By the time another dumpling is ready the water will have regained its boil. Cook the dumplings fifteen or twenty minutes and then remove from the water. They should be eaten at once. Break open and cover with gravy from the sour roast. If any dumplings are left out into half inch slices, fry in good fat, and eat with sirup.—Kindness of "A German Hausfrau."

In Need of White Cloths.

"I note in the Helping Hand Corner that Mrs. K. R. has white cloths to give away. I am very much in need of them. I have been an invalid with an abscess for the last year and a half. The Christian people of our town have been very kind to me and have given me bundle after bundle, but I still cannot get enough cloths. They must not be too small, as they are needed for bandages. Do not think me unreasonable, but my needs are sore and I have exhausted my supplies of what I cannot buy. I shall be glad to send for them at any time. "MRS. H. R. M."

Our own supply of the valuable odds and ends—the castoff and past worthy remnants of linen closet and bureau drawers—is so nearly exhausted that I issue an "emergency call" for all the odd linen and muslin our members can hunt up.

Do not send parcels of this or any other gifts to the office or to me personally. Write to me for the addresses of the afflicted ones and forward the much needed offerings direct to them.

Dress Form Offered.

"I have two things to offer to any one who can call for them immediately—a dress form, size 34, and, second, an ear instrument or 'phone.' This is a device that is of great benefit in some forms of deafness and has never been used by any one. I should like to give it preferably to an old person. MRS. L. J."

A thousand thanks! I earnestly hope that the impossibility of an "immediate" call for the valuable donations does not preclude the possibility of receiving either or both. I am inserting the offers as soon as I can. I hold your address.

Request for Sheet Music.

"I see in the Corner that a woman will give fifteen pieces of sheet music to any one who would like them. I should like to have them and would like to correspond with J. W. K. if you will give me her address. L. R."

I am sadly afraid that all of the fifteen pieces of music have been bestowed elsewhere. However, "nothing venture, nothing have." I am venturing a request for other music should this have passed out of our gift.

Would Appreciate Some Beads.

"If any one has some beads that I could have I should be very glad. Any color or size will do, or any shape. I wish I had something to give in return. I should also like to have some 'Job's tears' seed if any one has any to give me. E. I. E."

It is a long time since we have had a request for "Job's tears" (Coix lachryma), an ornamental grass bearing hard, glossy, beadlike seeds that may be wrought into pretty necklaces. If any member can help our fancy worker to obtain them and the glass beads she needs in her tasks the favor will be as if done directly to the Corner. The recipient will appreciate it gratefully.

Has Any One a Big Doll?

"Has any one a big doll who has no further use for it? If there is we will be glad to go and get it. Father is not well and there are seven children in our family. Mother does not feel able to buy dolls. There are five girls. "E. J. D."

Five girls, and never a doll between them! No other argument should be necessary to secure the big dolly one of our junior members has outgrown. I have the address of E. J. D. She is one of seven.

Ask for Cigaret Banners.

"I am an interested reader of your Corner, but have never before written to you or asked for a space in the Corner. My chum and I are very desirous of having some small satin banners that are inclosed in cigaret boxes. If any of your readers have any of these that are not of use to them, if they will kindly let us have them we will appreciate the same highly. "NETTIE H."

Your maiden effort is reasonable enough. I wish cigaret smokers would take the trouble to save their bands for our express benefit. Mark a box "H. H. C.," and when it is full let us know. I have a faint idea that the satin banners designated here are not identical with bands, but we have a lively market for both kinds of leftovers.

Magazines for a Shut-in.

"I thank you for much help and valuable information gleaned from your Corner. I will send magazines to any shut-in if you will supply me with the address. L. E. K."

Shut-ins who would be enriched by the offer of reading matter will please write to me for the address of her who puts forward the liberal proposal.

I do not like to assume the responsibility of selection.

Laura Jean Libbey's Advice
By Laura Jean Libbey

False Hearts and True Ones.

[Copyright: 1913: By Laura Jean Libbey.]

IF a girl finds that she has exchanged her own heart for one that is false it is actually unkind to her to hold out the hope that she can perform the miracle of changing it. If she makes the discovery before marriage the power is given into her own hands to make the future a happy or sorrowful one.

Where one finds that a heart is false she should realize that such a one never contained love for her. Even a ne'er do well will make strenuous efforts, aye, change the whole course of his life if need be, to make himself worthy of the woman whose affection he craves. There are women who cast prudence to the winds by clinging to these false hearts, shutting their eyes to the knowledge that their future holds no promise of change in them.

"Once false, always false" is a safe rule to be guided by. There is no way of clinging to a slippery, false heart; no way of holding it fast. Those who are mated with false hearts need the tenderest sympathy. Honor and conscience tie them fast. They cannot break away.

The noblest and best women have looked such situations in the face and made brave determination not to brood and wreck their own lives, but to find what happiness there might be outside of a loveless life. If home had no affection in it because of a false heart therein they sought pleasure outside—that of doing what good they could for their even less fortunate fellow creatures.

Occupation is the greatest balm in the world for a sick heart. Happy indeed is the maid or matron to whom heaven has granted that greatest of all boons, the love of one true heart. They may be called upon to endure the stings of poverty together, but if each is in sympathy with the other its inconvenience and distresses are borne lightly without repining.

The happiest woman on earth is she who can look forward to the home coming of a husband whose greatest contentment is being by her side. There is no distrust between them. The man whose heart is true finds his happiness in surrounding his wife with all the pleasure which his purse and prudence can afford. Her joyous laughter finds an echo in his heart. He is proud of the fact that she looks to him for all the comforts which she has.

True hearts mean happy homes. False hearts mean disaster from every viewpoint. The wife who is wedded to a false hearted husband does not have to turn to a dictionary to learn the definition of grief and loneliness.

The children in the home where true love reigns always have tender and beautiful recollections to carry through life with them. The children whose home is clouded by a false heart which beats in the breast of a husband and father usually make haphazard marriages quite as soon as they are old enough to fly from the uncomfortable nest.

The unfortunate part of it is that nine times out of ten they jump from the frying pan into the fire. True hearts and false ones make for the happiness and unhappiness of the world. The pity of it is that girls do not always know just which ones they are getting in the matrimonial market, owing to the fact that some men who have the basest hearts in their bosoms are the cleverest deceivers.

Shall She Marry?

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am 17, in love with a young man of 25. My parents are dead and I find it very hard to get along. I love him and I know he loves me, as he has asked me to marry him. I have no one to ask advice of, so I would like to ask you if you think I am too young to marry. My friends all like him and the people I board with think a good deal of him. I have known him for the last two years and have been keeping company with him for the last year. L."

While 17 is extremely young to marry, I think in your case, if the fellow is worthy and you love him, it might be advisable. I am sorry always to see girls marry too young.

She Treats Him Nice.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am 23 and have been going with a young girl of 19 for two years and have proposed, but with no result. She says she thinks more of me than any one else, but there are two more that are about to get ahead of me. She treats me nice and seems to think a lot of me. Tell me what to do. HARRY."

I think you had better stay in the race a bit longer, Harry. It looks to me as though you might win out with a little persistency. And after all, you know, the girls who are the hardest to get are generally the most desirable.

Afraid He Will Lose Her.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am in love with a girl just my age, and I intend going away and want to take her with me, for I am afraid some one will take her away from me, and she says she loves me and wants to go, but her parents are not willing to let her go. A."

Why don't the parents want the girl to marry you? There must be some good reason, for parents do not interfere with their daughters' happiness without a reason. You had better try to win their approval by irreproachable conduct rather than inviting their further censure by encouraging the girl to act against their wishes.

CITY DIN DROWNS ANTI-NOISE TALK

POINTS ECONOMIC LOSS.

Relates to Club Reason Why People Should Be Educated Against Clamor.

A heavy truck yesterday passed over the granite block pavement in front of the City club in Plymouth court. The windows on the third floor, where Dr. Willis O. Nance was speaking, were opened. Dr. Nance continued speaking, for his lips were seen to move. An interested member of the audience arose and closed the windows.

"Will you repeat that statement?" he was asked, as the noise of the vehicle subsided.

"I was saying," said Dr. Nance, "that one of the leading noise evils of the downtown section of Chicago is the granite block pavement. It seems to me it has no place in the modern city, and we ought not to be obliged to suffer further from its existence."

Says Noise Shortens Life.

Dr. Nance is chairman of the council committee on health and of the subcommittee for restriction of noises. He told members of the City club unnecessary noise in Chicago shortened the lives of citizens, sent many to the insane asylum and others to the hospital, impaired the hearing of hundreds, and decreased the general efficiency of the whole city—in some parts as high as 25 per cent.

"Chicago is one of the noisiest large cities in the world," said Dr. Nance, "and most persons who travel say it is the noisiest. The greater part of the noise is unnecessary. We are making entirely too much noise.

"Noise is a great factor in many nervous diseases, and the din and bedlam of Chicago has caused many a nervous wreck. There are in Chicago approximately 60,000 sick persons every day. They are entitled to protection from this awful din.

Economically Important.

"While noise should be eliminated from a health standpoint, the economic aspect of the question is an important one. It is impossible to get a high degree of efficiency in a constant din. I believe I am safe in estimating human efficiency is reduced in certain parts of Chicago at least 25 per cent.

"One of the things which has impressed the council committee is the apparent lack of consideration on the part of the public in general for those who complain against noises. In any number of cases where there have been complaints persons have refused even to minimize the noise, although it was in their power to do it. The public has to be educated up to the point where it will refuse to permit unnecessary noise."

Reads Letters of Complaint.

Dr. Nance read several letters in which complaints were made against noise nuisances. One woman said her next door neighbor arose at 3:45 a. m., chopped wood and shoveled coal until 4, then started a water motor washing machine.

"We have no rest after 3:30 o'clock," wrote the woman. "We spoke to this woman in a nice, kind way, but her son-in-law threatened to knock the head off my husband. My husband is a politician and would write to you, only he has rheumatism in his right arm."

The committee has found, according to Dr. Nance, that the greatest causes of complaint against noises are the elevated railroads, street cars, cobblestone pavements, train whistles and bells, boat whistles, automobiles, motorcycles, police whistles, factory whistles, hucksters, and milkmen.

Woman Hit by Car Dies.

WANTS RECORD SANE FOURTH

DEALERS MUST BE NOTIFIED.

Second Warning Urges Duty of Forbidding Sale of Fireworks.

"Follow-up" methods have been put into use by Chief of Police McWeeny in an effort to make the Fourth of July this year a record breaker for sanity of celebration.

His second order to commanding officers, repeating and emphasizing his instructions regarding the sale and use of fireworks and going more into detail on the necessity for a strict enforcement of the ordinances was issued yesterday. It will be followed by one or more of the same nature so that all possibility of the slightest misunderstanding will be avoided.

The second warning was directed almost entirely to the duty of notifying possible dealers of the trouble they will get into if they sell fireworks. The last of the series will be issued about July 1 and will recite specific instructions for the handling of offenders on the Fourth.

Some of Warnings.

After listing the sane Fourth ordinances with instructions that all members of the department must read them, the second order proceeded:

"No fireworks of any kind except colored lights may be sold or used in the city of Chicago unless a license to sell or display has first been issued.

"Storekeepers throughout the city must be notified to this effect. Advise them that any violation of any of the above sections will be severely dealt with and that the maximum fine, $100, will be insisted upon if any person sells firearms, toy pistols, or firearms to any minor.

"To obtain a safe and sane Fourth this year every officer in the department must be on the alert and he shall act promptly and vigorously whenever he finds any one violating any of the above sections of the ordinances.

Find Whoever Sells Minors.

"Wherever a minor is found violating any of these sections a particular effort shall be made to find the person who sold him the fireworks, toy pistol, sparkler, etc., and the dealer then shall be vigorously prosecuted.

"A strict enforcement of the ordinance regulating the sale and use of fireworks will undoubtedly save many lives, and members of the department cannot act too vigorously in the matter."

Chief McWeeny said his final order would deal emphatically with the use of revolvers and other firearms by adults as well as minors.

These Tungsten Electric Lamps will make your home three times brighter at no increase in cost

JUST imagine what a convenience three times as much light in your home would be. You could have three times as much illumination in one room; or, three times as many rooms lighted; or, three times as many hours of light. If you live in an electrically lighted home, you can now enjoy all the advantages of this improved lighting and increased economy, by using Tungsten Electric Lamps. For the same amount of electricity now consumed by a carbon filament lamp, one Tungsten Lamp gives three times as much light.

If your home is not already equipped for Electric Light, now is the time to have it wired—if you own it, and it is located on one of our distributing lines, we will wire it and allow you two years' time for payment—equal monthly installments—no interest.

For a small extra charge, we will exchange Tungsten Electric Lamps for used carbon lamps. The 40-watt Tungsten—obtainable in exchange for one carbon lamp and 26 cents—is especially recommended for home use.

SOX GET LONE RUN ON BODIE'S HOMER; MACKS VICTOR, 7-1

SCOTT HURLS IN GREAT FORM

HOUCK HOLDS HOSE TO THREE HITS

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 17.—[Special.]—One home run blow by P. Bodie, at right angles to another four base whack by F. Baker, kept the White Sox in the game with the Athletics for five innings today. Then Manager Mack tore off the southeast corner of his scorecard, which is the well known signal for "get busy," whereupon his men proceeded to walk away with the opening match of the set, 7 to 1.

In spite of the wide openness of the result the Athletics did not proceed merrily on their way to the pennant without considerable opposition. In fact, so good was the defense the White Sox made with the help of Jim Scott that they were actually within striking distance of victory as late as the eighth inning.

Opportunity to strike for home and triumph prompted Manager Callahan to rush out the reserves in the eighth, but all they got was a pair of passes.

Awful Session for Lange.

It was just as well so, for think of the blow to the ticker fans at home if the Callahans actually had done something in their last chance, only to have it wiped off the map in a jiffy. For the elimination of Scott brought Ald. Lange into the fray, and what the Mackmen did to Lange ain't no nice thing to talk about nohow.

The Athletics batted around on Lange and pasted the ball into every known corner of the lot, scoring four runs on five of the cleanest kind of swats, preceded by one free ticket.

That the White Sox with their little old last year's three hits were able to make a noise like actual competitors in a combat like today's was due wholly to Ping Bodie's pinging and to Scott's winging. Up to the ninth inning the only genuine swat made off Byron Houck was Bodie's four sacker. Rath had a scratch to his credit, but it produced nothing. In the ninth John Collins kept the game alive a few minutes by ringing up a clean single.

Houck Has Sox Hypnotized.

Lord Byron Houck, as he is coming to be known in the Lehigh avenue circles of Philadelphia, had the Callahans completely under the influence of his hypnotic seances. His hurling was a poem in nine stanzas and although he took poetic license with several of the visitors he had no trouble with his feet at any time. The only victim to escape the thrills and thraldom of Lord Byron's spell was the fence buster from Frisco, who never did care a helovalot for poetry anyway and has an abhorrence for all kinds of spells.

The Athletics were largely responsible for Houck's good pitching. They gave him the most pluperfect support imaginable. Nothing within reach of their arms or legs escaped them and they were the means of halving the number of hits made off their hurler at the lowest calculation. Eddie Murphy stole two hits from us and Eddie Collins burglared another pair.

The White Sox played an almost equally perfect fielding game. The only slip was made by Scott himself when he juggled the ball an instant taking a throw on first base from Hal Chase and gave Eddie Collins a life in the fourth inning. To get even for that act of involuntary generosity Scotty immediately caught Collins napping off the sack.

No Mistakes on Bases.

In one respect the Callahans played a remarkably improved game over those displayed in Washington. They did not make a mistake on the bases today. Part of that credit may be due to the fact they did not have a chance, except in one inning. Ping Bodie could not make any mistake on his home run into the bleachers. He was the only man to reach first base in seven innings, except Morris Rath, who scratched a single with two out in the sixth. Before Rath could do anything at all Lord flied out.

In the eighth a pair of passes failed to get any one to second, but it was not the fault of the base runners. Collins was the only other visitor to get on the first corner, and all he had to do was to stand still and pray for enough hits to make five runs besides his own, so as to tie the score.

There were five innings of decidedly interesting combating. With honors fairly even, the Athletics took the lead in the second with the aid of Baker's home run smash over the right field wall among the awnings on the flat building fronting the park. That opened the home half of the second, but Scott struck out McInnis. Strunk tried to qualify as a marksman by whaling a two bagger to left center, but his attempt to make three bases on it was disastrous. He overslid third base and was tagged out. Barry grounded.

Scott Redeems Himself.

There was a bit of wabbling by the Sox in the fourth when Scott's juggling feat gave E. Collins a toehold on first with one out, but a nap by Eddie resulted in his finish right afterward. Baker then scratched a single off Scott's mitt but was forced by McInnis.

While the Athletics were looking this good the White Sox were hitting almost as hard as a raindrop hits the ocean. Not a man of them came anywhere near getting on in four innings. John Collins was out in the fifth when Bodie caught the ball where he likes to and mauled it high in the air over Oldring's head into the left field stand, more than half way up. That tied the score and there would have been more chances if Eddie Collins had not pinched a Texas leaguer from Weaver's bat.

Scott showed a sign or two of weakening in the fifth. He got two out then let Lapp get him in the hole and sting the groove ball for a single. Scott walked Houck but he made Murphy force the side out.

The sixth was where Connie Mack hung out the busy signal and his athletes responded with two machine made runs. Oldring led with a double past Bodie. Eddie Collins was passed and Baker advanced them to third and second with a grounder. McInnis stepped to the pan and smashed the first thing that came up for a single to center, driving home the two runs needed to clinch the game. Strunk failed to beat out a bunt, but advanced McInnis to second. Stuffy tried to score on Lapp's single to center but Mattick easily cut him down at the plate.

Reserves Fail in Eighth.

The Athletics subsided in the seventh after having a double play perpetrated on them, and the White Sox had a fair opening in the eighth. Mattick, first up, walked. Weaver fouled out and Schalk forced Mattick. Fournier was sent to bat for Scott and walked. Then Easterly batted for Rath and skied the side out.

What happened to Lange when he attempted to finish Scott's job can best be expressed in dynamic terms. "Biff, sowie, bam," was the underlying motif. Five ringing hits, one of them for two bases, followed a pass and cleaned up four runs before the side could be retired.

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS.

BY R. W. LARDNER.

TEX RUSSELL.

He doesn't bat .300 in the League of Handsome Looks,
He knows not whether Bangor is in Maine or Tennessee,

So let us keep him 'though he boasts no college's degree,
For if we didn't have him, say, where would our White Sox be?

Martin Walsh's no hit performance against Stamford proves one thing conclusively—that it would be a waste of time for major league scouts to visit Stamford.

Those who went to the west side park on Monday for the purpose of seeing the Phillies were well satisfied. They saw nearly all of them.

Gate receipts for the two games of the international polo series amounted to a greater sum than has ever been taken in during two days of baseball in the world's series. But we'd hate to be in the crowds attempting to see world's series games if there were only two of them.

A young semi-professional catcher named Moffit has joined the Yanks. Being a semipro, he ought to feel right at home there; still more so if his name were Muffit.

Regarding the world's tour of the Sox and Giants, Mr. Hart says: "The deportment and conduct of the players on and off the field will be most important, as the people in the countries to be visited hardly would understand the quarreling with the umpires and some of the tricks which are regarded as legitimate here." Messrs. McGraw, Merkle, Doyle, and Snodgrass, please copy.

Of the thirty-eight men arrested for gambling at Shibe park those who were betting on the Athletics may get jail sentences. Matteawan is the proper place for the others.

To plan, cajole, conjure;
To separate the chaff from the seed;
To build so 'twill endure—
Through mountains' dark defiles;
Through shad'wy vales and darksome glen

Knights of Iron Heart renown,
Thus fight and win their way,
While weaklings cast their armor down
At least so teaches the blood writ page
Of history, but any old dub
Knows that Trouble, Worry, and Sprinting Age
Claim the builder of a baseball club.

Cicotte, Fournier, and Marquard will share the glory when the Sox and Giants visit Paris. Ping will have things pretty much to himself during the Italian exhibitions. But there'll be a free for all scrap for the limelight when Ireland is reached.

THE PENNANT PURSUIT.

Chapter 7—Four months past threw the wonderful work of Verne Dalton the Giants had won the pennant and the worlds series was to begin on the morrow with the Athletics as the Giants oponents Manager McGraw called Verne Dalton to his room in the hotel where they was stopping. We are depending on you for to win for us the highest honors in baseball if you do what I expect of you instead of giving you a share of the recipes which will not amount to more than $4,000 or $5,000 per player I will give you a check for $25,000. Make it $25,100 said Verne Dalton for he wanted a totle of $100,000 in his bankbook to show to Lillian Hazletons father and he alreddy had squanderd $100 of his $75,000 salary. All right said McGraw who is a jenerous man now go to bed and rest and remember to pitch nothing but your famous snake twist to Baker.

Frank Baker of the Macks is hitting only .285. Ed Collins is batting .372, Amos Strunk .360, Oldring .325, and McInnis .305. If Baker ever strikes his stride the Athletics ought to win a few games.

Columbia suggests a rule barring from the Poughkeepsie regatta any oarsman weighing over 160 pounds. If the measure is passed we may expect annual arguments as to whether the crews shall weigh in three hours before the contest or meet at riverside weight.

Mac wants to know why the Sox and Giants are going to skip Australia on their long jaunt. He says that C. C. Spink returned thence with glowing accounts of baseball on that great island. Isn't that reason enough, Mac?

Clark Griffith ordered his pitcher to groove one for Russell so the latter would have to run around the bases, Griff figuring that the heat would wear him out. Russell, having pitched a whole season in Texas, thought Washington was Alaska and refused to be worn.

The report of that Rochelle game said that Eckersall and Briggs acted as umpires. Rochelle advises these gents never to try to make a living as actors.

SOX SYDELIGHTS.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 17.—Two more games here will be plenty, thank you.

In the land of Geek the Sox would have won, as the team which makes the fewest runs is victor there.

The fans cheered Hal Chase the first time he came to bat, probably congratulating him on escaping from a tail end into a first division team.

With Bender and Plank up Connie Mack's sleeve the chances for the White Sox to finish this trip with an even break looks slenderer than the Indian pitcher himself. You never can prognosticate about baseball, however.

A delegation of Weaver's friends and fellow citizens from Pottstown came across the river and presented him with a gold watch and chain in token of their esteem. For some time, Stowe and Pottstown have disputed the honor of being the birthplace of the coming great shortstop. Last year Stowe had its inning during one of the series here. This year the rival town came through with a little publicity.

GILE PITCHES STEADY BALL

EX-PRESIDENT TAFT IN PARADE

Both teams played excellently, but there were no real thrills until the ninth inning, when Middlebrook, Yale's center fielder, made a sensational catch of Capt. Wingate's hard drive and threw to second, catching Hitchcock on a double play. That play ended the game, and the Yale reunion classes and undergraduates rushed on the field, carrying off the Yale players on their backs.

Preceding the game, the reunion classes, headed by bands, had their annual march around the field. Former President Taft headed the class of '78 and was greeted with cheers as he passed the stands.

Hitchcock Puzzle on Slab.

Frye, who started twirling for the Crimson, was found for eight hits in four and two-thirds innings. He was relieved by Hitchcock, who held Yale hitless for the remainder of the game.

Yale's runs came as the result of opportune hitting. In the fourth Reilly's single into right field sent Riddell home with a run. In the fifth Pitcher Gile cracked out a long hit to left that sent Cornish in from second with the second run. With two out and men on third and second Hitchcock was sent in to pitch and retired the side.

Gile Steady in Pinches.

Harvard twice got men on third, but Gile steadied and retired the side on each occasion. In the ninth Hitchcock of Harvard got a life on Blossom's error and took second when Alsop grounded out. Wingate then hit a drive that seemed good for a homer, but Middlebrook just barely reached the ball and made a quick return to Cornish, doubling Hitchcock and ending the game.

Both teams left tonight for Cambridge, where the second game will be played tomorrow. Score:

EDWARDS QUITS A. A. A. OFFICE.

Resigns as Chairman of Technical Committee to Go Into Automobile Selling Business.

F. E. Edwards, since Feb. 1, 1910, chairman of the technical committee of the American Automobile association, yesterday resigned his position to go into the automobile selling business. The passing of Mr. Edwards as a committee head is a severe loss to the A. A. A. and was deeply regretted by the officials of that body. He has been an efficient chairman and a great favorite with racing drivers and others he has been associated with. He will sell the new Edwards-Knight.

A. G. Batchelder, chairman of the executive committee of the American Automobile association, visited Chicago yesterday, en route to New York from Minneapolis, where he has been for a week arranging final preparations for the A. A. A. national reliability tour, which starts on July 11. Mr. Batchelder said that entries for the event are coming in rapidly and that by the date of the start fully thirty cars will face the starter.

The Minneapolis promoters are anxious for a Chicago team to enter the run as a contender for the Glidden trophy against the squads from Detroit, Boston, and Minneapolis.

SENATORS' RALLY BEATS NAPS, 6 TO 3

GRIFFS PULL TRIPLE PLAY

Washington, D. C., June 17.—Washington's batting rally in the sixth inning won the first game from Cleveland, 6 to 3. Hughes replaced Mullin in the fourth inning.

The feature was a triple play by Gandil and McBride. In the fourth, after Cleveland had scored one run and had men on first and second, O'Neill hit a sharp liner to Gandil, who ran over and touched first base, doubling Graney, and they hustled the ball to McBride before Ryan could scramble back to second.

The Boosters, a club organized to "root" for the Washington team, accompanied by a brass band, livened things up during the game and paraded around the field after Washington had won. The umpires wore their white serge uniforms for the first time on these grounds. Score:

REPORT LOCKE SERIOUSLY ILL.

Friends Show Considerable Anxiety Over Condition of President of Philadelphia Club.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 17.—[Special.]—Conflicting reports of the condition of President Locke of the Phillies tonight caused considerable anxiety among his friends. Mr. Locke is seriously ill. There is no question about that.

What caused the unrest was the announcement that the president's relatives had been summoned here because he was believed to be dying.

Mr. Locke's mother and brother are on their way from Pittsburgh to see him, but his relatives here say that it is only a friendly visit. They will not give out any statement as to his condition except to say that he is resting more easily tonight than he was earlier in the day.

SAM WELLERISMS.

One of the puzzles of baseball is to understand why players kick when no umpire ever changes his decision.

There's one little fellow on the Cubs who hasn't been put out of a game this year. He leads the team in batting and is first in the hearts of the fans.

Big Jeff Overall has been picked to pitch for the last four days, so we might as well pick him again for today. If he doesn't hurl, it will be Humphries, or Pierce, or Lavender, or Richie, or Reulbach.

It is with apologies to Mike Doolan that we correct ourselves for referring to F. Otto Knabe as captain of the Phillies. We always supposed F. Otto was captain because he has so much to say.

Frank Schulte had to hit eight fouls in succession in the fourth before he could get a base on balls from Moore. One of the fouls was a line drive into the right field bleacher that missed being a homer by about ten feet.

Mike Doolan would have possessed a triple or a home run in the second if Tommy Leach hadn't made a sparkling stop of his drive to left center. Tommy's skill held it to a single. Luderus was on first at the time and had to be stopped at third.

Mike Mitchell and Tommy Leach nearly had a collision while robbing Knabe of a long hit in the third. It was a drive to left center and both outfielders gave chase. Tommy captured the ball, yelling at Mike just in time to cause him to swerve to one side.

SLIP BY CAREY LOSES 1-0 GAME.

Error Followed by Sacrifice and Low Liner Gives Boston Braves Victory Over Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 17.—Marty O'Toole pitched one of the best games of his career this afternoon, but lost to Boston, 1 to 0. Carey's muff of Connolly's fly in the seventh inning lost the game. Connolly went to second, Sweeney sacrificed, and Carey missed a low liner by Titus, but the catch would have scored Connolly anyhow. Titus was credited with a hit, one of the three safeties allowed by O'Toole. Perdue held Pittsburgh to four scattered hits. Third Baseman McDonald was ordered off the field for disputing a decision in the fourth. Score:

TROJANS SHUT OUT LEADING PHILS, 4-0, IN SECOND BATTLE

BRENNAN DRIVEN OFF MOUND

ZIM CHASED FOR UMPTEENTH TIME

BY SAM WELLER.

Those star pitchers of the Phillies are not standing up. Following the trouncing given Alexander the Great on Monday, the Cubs came right back and drove another of Dooin's beauties to the coop yesterday. Brennan was the victim this time. The story of Brennan's downfall in figures is 4 to 0 in favor of Chicago.

The third inning wasn't even ended before Brennan had to be rescued. In a little more than two rounds he had yielded three runs as a result of six base hits and three bases on balls. He was succeeded by the Veteran Earle Moore, who has some speed and a corking curve ball. Earle went through to the finish without giving the Cubs a base hit. His wildness, coupled with two blunders, gave the Cubs one more tally, however, in the sixth.

Opposed to these slab stars was the tall, slim Charley Smith, who has never broken any records or gained any great fame in his life, and he is past 30 years. Just the same he seems about to launch forth on a career in spite of his age.

Smith's Curves Baffle Phils.

Smith didn't show any remarkable speed yesterday. Neither did he have a curve ball that was causing the spectators to gasp in wonder. He did have something better. He had a cool and level head, perfect control, and a knowledge of the batting power of every batsman who faced him. That was the reason the famed clouters, Magee, Cravath, Luderus, and others weren't slamming the ball to the fence. Smith was continually handing them something they didn't expect.

There weren't two players on the visiting club who had a chance to take a clout at one right over the middle of the plate and waist high. Smith didn't have to put the ball there for he could cut the outside corners, stick them over a bit high and on the inside, drop them over low and on the outside, and occasionally fool some anxious batter with a wafting slow ball. One fellow only drew a base on balls. Seven base hits were made and they were well scattered.

Two Visitors See Third.

Twice only did the visitors reach third base. A half dozen managed to get as far as second base, but no one got near the old home plate. Once in the second inning the Phillies were on second and third with only one out. In this pinch Smith brought out a bit of reserve power and made two batters pop out in succession.

In the eighth with Knabe on first and two out, Magee poled one to the left wing of the grand stand for a double, Knabe being stopped at third. Cravath, leading hitter of the league, then was retired on strikes. Smith first made Cravath bite at a teasing slow ball, a weak foul resulted. Smith stuck another over, high and inside, and Cravath fouled it over the stand. Then the batter took a couple of balls, and was finally called out when Smith dropped a curve over the outside corner for the third strike. It was pitching of that class that Smith handed out all through the game, the accurate, precise kind that proved better than tremendous speed and hook curves.

The glory of the shutout was not all Smith's, for he got swell support. All members of the Cubs were alert and full of pepper, and there were some sterling catches made by Leach, Mitchell, and Schulte. The infielders had little to do, for the ball was hit so often to the outfield, but every chance on the inner circle was handled accurately.

Good Crowd Sees Contest.

A good crowd took advantage of the swell weather and attended the combat. There must have been 7,500 there, and their chief delight was "booing" at Umpire Klem. The arbiter ordered the great Heine Zim out of the game before the third inning was over. The ousting of Heine is getting too common to suit the fans, who figure they are paying their money to see him play, but if Heine persists in saying unkind things to the umpire the public will have to get along without him.

It looked as if Klem put Heine out of the game for something Roger Bresnahan had said. The bases were filled in the third with only one out and Roger at bat. Earle Moore had just taken up the slab job, and Heine was on third base, waiting for an opening to come home.

Roger had the third strike called on a ball over the lower outside corner. Roger made quite a demonstration in his protest over the decision, but got away with it nicely. Then Klem was seen to charge toward third base and wave Heine Zim to the clubhouse. No one in the stand heard Heine say anything, but of course he must have said something. It probably was the same thing that Roger said, only put in less diplomatic language.

Umpire Klem Pulls Watch.

Heine continued to stand on third base and Klem waited patiently for him to go. Manager Evers walked out to third, carefully avoiding to look at Klem for fear of an explosion. There was a conference between the great Zim and the manager. Then Evers walked back mutteringly toward the bench. Finally Ump. Klem pulled out his watch and began counting off the seconds and the great Zim whirled and sprinted to the clubhouse in record time.

The Cubs belted in two runs off Brennan in the first inning. Leach began with a single, taking second on Paskert's fumble, and Evers sacrificed. Schulte got an infield single, scoring Leach. Zim got a hit on a bounce over the pitcher, then Saier lined one to center field, Schulte sprinting home. Mitchell and Bridwell fanned, closing the attack.

Schulte opened the third round with a one base slam to right and Heine Zim walked. Saier sacrificed and Mitchell was purposely walked, filling the bases. Brennan then lost control and walked Bridwell, forcing Schulte to score. Moore relieved Brennan and struck out Bresnahan, and Smith then boosted to Paskert.

The other run was handed the Cubs in the sixth. With one out Leach reached first on Luderus' error and Evers walked. Schulte forced Evers at second, Leach moving to third. Schulte and Leach then turned a double steal, Leach scoring. When Doolan made a bad peg to the plate Schulte skipped on to third, but he was left there when Phelan lifted to Cravath.

Cornell, 7; Penn, 3.

Ithaca, N. Y., June 17.—Cornell defeated Pennsylvania in the last game of the year today, 7 to 3, through the pitching of Acheson. The Cornell twirler allowed only three hits, although he passed nine. Sayre started for Pennsylvania, but a hot liner from Schirick's bat in the fifth injured his knee and he retired in favor of Minds. Cornell made ten hits and one error, while Pennsylvania got three safeties and ... errors.

Leads Field in Qualifying Round in Dental Golf Club Event.

TURNS IN NET SCORE OF 69

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Forty-seven members of the Chicago Dental Golf club competed in the qualifying round for the Reliance and Fair cups at the Ravisloe Country club yesterday. A number of minor events were included in the thirty-six holes of play.

E. H. Raeder led the field with a net score of 69, getting a gross of 89 over the remodeled course, which now measures 6,190 yards and is plentifully trapped. Lee K. Stewart, the big Skokie player, had low gross of 81, H. C. Dewey being second with 82. D. D. Bayless, who had a net of 75, handed in his score too late to qualify.

H. C. Dewey won the prize for low net score on the first nine holes in the morning, getting 34. Low gross went to W. G. Coffey with 41. A. E. De Riemer had low net of 34 on the second nine, Stewart having low gross of 39.

In the afternoon play B. A. Duffy won the low net prize on the first nine holes with a card of 35, F. D. Reed getting low gross of 42. On the second nine, Raedel had low net with 35, and E. A. Schmuck had low gross of 42. No player was allowed to take more than one prize.

W. Taylor won the driving contest with a score of 12, L. K. Stewart finishing second with 10, and E. A. Schmuck third with 8.

Mrs. F. W. Ellis won the nine hole medal play event at the Calumet Country club and Miss F. Wilkoff won the nine hole medal play putting score event.

Sperry "Pulls" Low Score.

Fred A. Sperry took the front and back pages of the monthly tournament of the Western Advertising Golfers' association, held at the Beverly Country club. He won the first flight honors by defeating Ray Maxwell, 3 and 2, had low gross score of 41 in the qualifying round, and his handicap of four strokes also gave him low net of 37.

Such monopolistic performances are "agin" the laws of the W. A. G. A., which prohibit a player taking more than one prize in the medal round. Mr. Sperry elected to take the low gross award and low net reverted to H. W. Rankin, 48—10—38, who will have his name inscribed on the R. T. Stanton cup.

E. D. Wheeler sprained his ankle in his match with G. C. Paterson in the third flight and had to default in the consolation event. Summary:

FIRST FLIGHT.

First round—F. A. Sperry [41—4—37] defeated J. Francis [45—4—41], 1 up; Lloyd R. Maxwell [46—3—43] defeated H. F. Miller [44—3—41, 3 and 2; Guy C. Pierce [44—3—41] deefated J. J. RACER OLYMPIAN IN CHICAGO

Annual Michigan City-St. Joseph-Chicago Event Starts Friday.

BY JOHN G. DE LONG.

Olympian, the new class P racer, built by a syndicate of Chicago Yacht club members, headed by Commodore James O. Heyworth, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon. The craft came from New York on two flat cars, which were switched on to the Illinois Central tracks near the river entrance. The boat will be unloaded and launched today and probably will be ready to compete in the triangular cruising race of the Chicago Yacht club starting on Friday.

Olympian, which is one of the two new class P boats built by Chicago Yacht club members to defend the Manhassett Bay trophy, did considerable racing on Long Island sound before being shipped here, and although not well tuned up, made a good showing against several eastern boats that will come to Chicago for the September races. Olympian was made from designs by William Gardner of New York, who designed Michicago of the same class.

South Shore, the racer built for a Chicago Yacht club syndicate headed by William Hale Thompson, is expected in the city within a few days. As soon as it arrives a series of races will be held.

Chairman William C. Thorne of the C. Y. C. regatta committee expects at least twelve boats to start in the triangular cruising race. The yachts leave Chicago Friday morning and go to Michigan City, where the fleet will remain over night. On Saturday the boats will race to St. Joseph and on Sunday will cover the final leg of the contest back to this city. The race has been thrown open to all clubs in the L. M. Y. A.

TROPHY GOES TO LOS ANGELES.

Reports received yesterday of teams competing on Monday in the annual competition for the Tom Morris Memorial trophy failed to upset the leaders and the trophy and medals will go again to the Los Angeles Country club, which finished 36 down to par.

Norman Macbeth, who won the individual medal last year, again leads the whole field with a score of 4 up. Other scores on the winning team were: Jack Jevne, 2 up; E. S. National Open Title Holder Covers English Course in 68 in Preparation for British Championship.

New York, June 17.—American golfers who are preparing to compete in the British open golf championship, beginning Thursday at Hoylake, have made an excellent showing since their arrival in England, according to reports received here.

John J. McDermott, national open title holder, has been in especially good form. Playing with Tom McNamara, the Metropolitan open champion, as a partner, he was arrayed against S. H. Fry and Michael J. Brady in a four ball match over the mid-Surrey links. The two Macks won by the comfortable margin of 6 and 5.

McDermott went round in 68, only two strokes higher than the course record, held by J. H. Taylor, the British player. McDermott's 31 for the outward course has been equaled only twice.

Bury L. W. McCallum Today.

L. W. McCallum, one of the veteran members of the Calumet Country club, who died Sunday night on an Illinois Central suburban train, will be buried today at Mount Hope cemetery. The funeral services will be held at Lanyon's rooms, 415 West Sixty-third street, at 2 o'clock, the services being Masonic. Mr. McCallum leaves a widow and two sons, the elder, William, being the champion of the Calumet club.

ISMAY ASKS FOR INJUNCTION.

Owner of Craganour, Disqualified in Recent English Derby, Seeks to Restrain the Jockey Club.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 17.—Another sensation is promised over the running of the Derby recently, when Craganour, the first horse past the post, was disqualified and the race given to Aboyeur, a 100 to 1 shot. It is announced that the High Court of Justice will be asked to issue an order restraining the Jockey club and the owners of the horse placed after Craganour was disqualified from parting with or receiving the stakes. It is assumed that Mr. Ismay, owner of Craganour, is promoter of the action. The stakes, which amount to $32,500, would under ordinary circumstances be paid in two weeks after the race. The Derby was run on June 4.

Leader of Beaten Team Holds Speed of American Experts Responsible for Victory.

New York, June 18.—On board the Campania, which left for Liverpool at 1 o'clock this morning, were Capt. R. G. Ritson, captain of the British polo team; Capt. Noel Edwards, who played in the first game, and F. M. Freake, who played in the second game. "They were the fastest games I ever played in," said Capt. Ritson. "Our men were taken off their feet. In the first game the American team started so fast and scored so quickly that before we could recover we were beaten."

KAVANAGH ALSO IN DEMAND

Visit of Local Team to League Office Causes Rumors.

BY HANDY ANDY.

Chicago's Federal leaguers lost a ball game to Covington at De Paul field yesterday, 10 to 6, and one, possibly two, players to the St. Louis Cardinals. Pitcher Tom Maguire, the heavy hitting pitcher and outfielder, will leave for St. Louis after Sunday's game here with Indianapolis.

Outfielder "Silk" Kavanagh, who has been hitting around the .400 mark in the Federal circuit also has been approached by the Cards, but Manager Bert Keeley stated last night he hoped to induce Kavanagh to remain in Chicago, at least for the present.

Instead of morning practice yesterday, the local players visited the downtown offices of the club in a body. Immediately the rumor was spread that their visit had something to do with payday. Manager Keeley stated emphatically last night that all obligations were being met and that all the players left the office satisfied.

By its vectory yesterday Covington took three of the five games in the series. Local defeat was due to the poor form of Pitcher Art Anderson, who made his first appearance in a Federal uniform. Ten men faced him in the sixth inning and scored six runs, which settled the contest, although the Keeleys rallied in the ninth. Score:

BY PREP.

Wendell Phillips clinched the Cook County High School Baseball league championship yesterday, defeating Oak Park High, 15 to 14, in one of the wooziest games played this season. Only one more game remains in the final series, but a defeat will not affect W. P.'s standing, as Englewood, second place team, has lost two games.

The victory was the thirteenth straight gained by the south siders in the "prep" league and came nearly being their first defeat. At one time Oak Park led 14 to 9, but a determined rally in the next session tied the count. With the score 9 all at the close of the first half of the seventh, the western suburbanites engaged in a swatfest, counting five times as the result of two singles, a triple, two walks, and three errors. Stiles' triple came with the bases loaded.

Victory Scored in Ninth.

Wendell Phillips came back in its eighth, tying the count with five tallies on three hits, two errors, and a walk. In the ninth the visiting team batted in the tally which proved the winner. Joyce started with a walk and rode home on Bixby's double. Score:

Englewood Winner, 9 to 8.

Englewood's 9 to 8 victory over Lane for second place at Gunther park almost duplicated the other game. A slugfest in the seventh inning, netting eight runs, was responsible for the victory. In this round seven loud hits, one walk, two errors, and two stolen bases produced the octet of counters. Olson entered the game in this round to stave off defeat, but an infield out with the bags filled permitted one run and a bit allowed two more. Thereafter Englewood was helpless. Hard hitting in the first two frames gave Lane seven runs. Score:

RELAY RECORD IS SHATTERED.

Easton, Pa., June 17.—A new world's record for a four mile relay race was made today by the team of the Boston Athletic association, which covered the distance in 17:51 1-5.

The best previous athletic club record was 18:08 4-5 by the Irish-American Athletic club of New York. The collegiate record is 17:55 held by Cornell.

Mahoney, the first runner, took his mile in 4:35, Marceau took the second in 4:28; James H. Powers, who beat Abel Kiviat in New York Sunday, took the third in 4:26 4-5 and Oscar Hedlund finished in 4:22.

Maurice Prevost, French Aviator, Breaks Record Set by Vedrines in Chicago Last Year.

Coast Athlete Coming for Meet.

SPORTING NEWS NOTES.

The Western Union messengers' baseball team defeated the operators' team at Grant park Sunday, 24 to 6. It was the sixth straight victory for the messengers.

The Whirlwinds would like to arrange a game for next Sunday with some 13 to 14 year old nine, Orioles preferred. Address E. A. Diegan, 1954 South Spaulding avenue.

Assistant Fire Marshal Edward J. Buckley is scouting among the members of the fire department for athletes to take part in the athletic carnival at Grant park from June 28 to July 6. The firemen will be matched against the postoffice employés and city policemen.

Albert Standen, St. Louis rider, who is leading the individuals in the race for the motorcycle league championship, will appear at Riverview motordrome tonight for the first time. He and his teammates will meet Capt. Joe Wolter and the local squad in seven events.

Marksmanship rivalry between the police of Oak Park, Forest Park, and River Forest is to be settled in the near future. The Oak Park police will engage in practice contests and their best shots will line up against the cracks of the River Forest and Forest Park forces.

Charles A. Comiskey, president of the White Sox, has consented to aid the Sisters of Mercy in their field day meet at De Paul field on June 28. Comiskey will hurl the first ball in the baseball game between the firemen and police of Chicago and also has promised to have some of his players present to enter some of the games.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS.

Claude Rossman, the former Detroit Tiger playing with the Minneapolis team, was born in Columbia county, New York, June 18, 1881. Rossman has the unique distinction of having been a member of seven pennant winning teams. The list of championship outfits consists of Holyoke (1903), Des Moines (1905), Detroit (1907-8), Minneapolis (1910-11-12). He began his career at Holyoke in 1903, and the next spring was tried out by Cleveland, but returned to Holyoke and finished the season of 1904 there. The following season he was with Des Moines. Rossman returned to Cleveland in 1906, and after a season with the Naps was traded to Detroit. He was with Detroit two years, and then was traded to the St. Louis Browns. He refused to report, and was out of the game during 1909. The next season he signed with Columbus. Later he was released to Minneapolis, where he changed his position to the out field. Rossman ranked fourth in the American association in batting last season.

HARVARD CREWS PRACTICE RACING STARTS AT RED TOP.

Red Top, Conn., June 17.—All the Harvard crews, with the exception of the freshman eight were out for short rows on the river tonight. The freshmen were given a rest, as Coach Wray feels that the men are in almost perfect form. Racing starts were practiced and the crews caught the water in fine form, at a high stroke.

Gales Ferry, Conn., June 17.—The Yale coaches sent the varsity eight on a five mile row down the Thames tonight. Denegre was in bow in place of Gore, but the boat moved smoothly. Tonight it was said that it was extremely doubtful whether Gore would be in his seat on race day. He has two sore fingers, and he has been sent to New Haven for special treatment. The freshman eight was given a short time row tonight over a half mile course, against the tide. The time was 2:30.

Johnson Beats Biddle at Net.

LONDON, June 17.—Wallace F. Johnson of Philadelphia beat Craig Biddle, also of Philadelphia, in the first round of the open singles in the London tennis championships today at Queens club. The score was 7—5, 7—5, 6—2.

COMMITTEE O. K.'S BADGER RING BILL

NOW UP TO SENATE BODY.

Senator La Follette's Course in Boxing Creates Sentiment for the Sport.

Madison, Wis., June 17.—[Special.]—The senate committee on judiciary recommended for concurrence the Hedding bill creating a state boxing commission and legalizing ten round, no decision bouts. Two of the seven members of the committee dissented from the recommendation.

The bill provides that the governor shall appoint a state commission of three members to supervise all boxing exhibitions and requires all clubs holding exhibitions to get permits from this commission.

The bill probably will come up for consideration in the senate tomorrow. It passed the assembly by an overwhelming vote. The fact that Senator La Follette is taking boxing lessons at Washington has created some sentiment in favor of it.

BLAMES LAWYERS FOR U. P. ATTACKS

REFUSALS BRING RUMORS.

Says Union Pacific Does Not Seek Control of B. & O. by Exchange of Stock.

New York, June 7.—Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the board of directors of the Union Pacific Railroad company, issued a lengthy statement this afternoon, saying in effect that the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific officials have been approached by various unnamed persons professing to have influence which they would bring to bear in the matter of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific dissolution proceedings, provided the railroad employed certain lawyers.

He added that these offers were invariably rejected, as the result of which, presumably, many rumors were circulated reflecting on the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific management and motives.

"Every time that we have had any plan connected with Union Pacific-Southern Pacific dissolution," said Mr. Lovett, "I think that without a single exception we have had calls from parties purporting to be able to exert great influence with congress and in other places.

Tells of Lawyers' Tactics.

"All sorts of emissaries have come to me with the story that they could accomplish all sorts of things for us if we would employ certain lawyers.

"I have refused to see any of these parties, and I do not believe a single word they have said about what they can accomplish for us. Following these communications there was generally some sort of a rumor appearing in the press which I could not help but connect with these parties."

With reference to the proposed deal with the Pennsylvania railroad, whereby the Union Pacific was to trade $38,000,000 of Southern Pacific stock in return for stock of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad of substantially the same value, Mr. Lovett explained that there was "no desire on the part of the Union Pacific to control the Baltimore and Ohio," adding that if such control resulted it would be "merely incidental." The exchange, if consummated, he said, would give the Union Pacific about 38 per cent of Baltimore and Ohio stock.

Flouts Banking Deal Report.

Mr. Lovett scouted the idea that the proposed deal with the Pennsylvania was a forerunner to bringing that road, the Union Pacific, the Southern Pacific, and the Baltimore and Ohio under the control of one banking house.

"So far as Union Pacific is concerned," he said, "Kuhn, Loeb & Co. are interested to a large degree, but I cannot imagine anything more preposterous than the story that this is a scheme to get all these roads under the control of one banking house."

He added that at present there were no negotiations under way for the disposal of any more Southern Pacific stock to any other railroad system, although he would not commit himself as to what might be done in the future. He had no recent communication from the attorney general, he said, as to whether he approved the exchange of Southern Pacific stock for Baltimore and Ohio.

Cabinet Discusses Dissolution Plans.

Washington, D. C., June 17.—Plans for dissolving the Union Pacific merger, as presented to the United States court at St. Paul, were discussed today at the cabinet meeting. The intimation came from cabinet officers that the proposed change of Southern Pacific and Baltimore and Ohio stocks between the Union Pacific and Pennsylvania was regarded as "a step in the right direction." No definite conclusion was reached.

HARVESTER PROOF NEAR END.

Testimony for Defense in Government's Anti-Trust Suit Will Close Today or Tomorrow.

Taking of testimony for the defense in the government's anti-trust suit against the International Harvester company probably will be ended today or tomorrow. George W. Perkins, New York financier and one of the three "voting trustees" of the Harvester company, as originally organized, is on the list as one of the last witnesses for the defense and may take the stand tomorrow. The hearing yesterday was given over to testimony of officials of competing harvester and implement manufacturing firms. More than 2,000 witnesses have testified for the defense. The government has taken the testimony of nearly 1,000 witnesses.

POTATOES AT LOW MARK.

Poultry on Higher Basis; Eggs and Butter Dull and Steady.

Supplies of watermelons and lemons at Chicago yesterday were not large enough to meet the requirements of an urgent, hot weather demand and prices took a sharp upward jump. Sales of watermelons were made at $600 per car, an advance of $75. Lemons sold up to $8.50 a case, showing a gain of $1.25@1.50 a case since the beginning of the hot spell.

Potato trade was liberally supplied, with receipts of 55 cars of new and 24 cars of old. The latter had no regular market, being offered at buyers' own prices. New crop potatoes were 5c a bushel lower and sold at 50c to 70c.

Live spring chickens sold at an upturn of 1c a pound, while fowls were advanced ½c. Receipts were late in getting in and the market was cleaned up of all express arrivals.

Butter and eggs sold at former prices, but there was little snap to the trade. Supply was ample, with receipts of 21,506 cases of eggs and 18,921 tubs of butter.

HOLDOVER HOGS PUT PRICES DOWN

CATTLE TRADE WEAKENS.

Depressed by a stale supply of 11,767 head, the hog market at Chicago yesterday declined 10@15c and was 20@30c lower than at the close last week. The concessions made in prices failed to stimulate buying to any great extent and the market closed in a congested condition, with many loads of hogs left unsold. A top of $8.75 was made, but the bulk of the sales held within a range of from $8.55 to $8.65, with the average 12c lower than on Monday at $8.59.

Cattle trade was weak to 10c lower, with buyers holding off because of expectations of liberal midweek receipts. Few prime beeves could be sold and $8.80 was the best price obtained. Calves received a severe setback, selling at a decline of 75c@$1.00 from the high level touched a week ago. A few prime vealers were taken by outsiders at $10.00@10.15, but packers secured their quota of stock at $9.50@9.75.

Heavy ewe sheep were discriminated against and sold at a decline of 10c, but fat wethers and lambs met with a more reliable demand than on Monday at firm prices. Spring lambs topped at $8.00 and prime wethers made $5.90.

ILLINOIS TO GET NOTHING FROM MODEL ROADS FUND.

Dunne and Deneen Were Unable to Agree with Federal Officials on Terms of Settlement.

Washington, D. C., June 17.—[Special.]—Illinois will receive none of the $500,000 appropriation by congress for the experimental construction of model roads. Neither former Gov. Deneen nor Gov. Dunne was able to reach an agreement with the department of agriculture on the proffered apportionment of $10,000 to the state.

A few days ago Representative Britten of Chicago wrote President McCormick of the Cook county board that $100,000 was available for the construction of roads in the ten congressional districts in the county. Mr. Britten understood that the federal appropriation allowed $10,000 to each district.

VIOLENT DECLINE IN WHEAT PRICES

CROP NEWS MUCH BETTER

Further rains in the northwest effectually squelched the bull market in wheat for the time being at least yesterday. At the opening there was a dearth of buying orders, and on the other hand nearly every commission house had wheat for sale. Initial quotations were sharply lower, and after rallying feebly the market again started downward in the last hour, closing with net losses of 1¼@1⅝c to 2c, the July leading in the decline.

The weather map showed cooler weather with rains in North Dakota and Canada, and when the private weather reports began to come in there was little room for doubt that the drought had been relieved for the present. Not all the spring wheat district has been favored with rains, but it is not believed any of the crop is actually suffering to any extent.

Hedging Soon to Be Factor.

With the weather conditions the traders had more time to consider the possibility of hedging sales of the new crop. The country will soon start selling freely, and it is expected now there will be free accumulations of wheat, as reports from many mills indicate they will be in no hurry to load up at the present level, unless there are more signs of a crop shortage than are visible at present. Many mills have adapted their plants to the use of hard wheat, and will not need so much red wheat as formerly.

Export bids are now considerably out of line, and while shipments from Chicago are liberal, receipts at all points are way in excess of a year ago. Reports from Oklahoma said thrashing returns were disappointing in many sections. Harvesting is now general over a large part of the winter wheat belt.

Cash Demand Is Moderate.

The cash demand is moderate and sales yesterday were only 40,000 bu. Nebraska has been selling wheat here freely on the recent upturn. Receipts were 177 cars, with 91 cars inspected yesterday, but shipments were posted at 295,000 bu. Receipts in the west were 489,000 bu and primary shipments were 902,000 bu. Clearances for the day were 344,000 bu wheat and flour. Northwest points had 246 cars, against 125 cars a year ago, and Winnipeg 413, against 521 cars.

Minneapolis wheat stocks increased 40,000 bu for three days. Liverpool was ⅛d up to ⅛d off. Paris closed unchanged to ¼c off; Berlin, ¼c up; Budapest, ½c higher, and Antwerp unchanged. World's stocks showed a decrease for the week of 6,123,000 bu, compared to 6,693,000 bu a year ago. Foreign crop conditions were reported as favorable by Broomhall.

Weather Dry in Corn Belt.

Weather conditions over the corn belt continued dry and hot, but there was a tendency to be cautious on the buying side, and realizing sales were heavy, especially after wheat started on the downgrade. Early the market showed considerable firmness, but closed weak, with net losses for the day of ⅝@¾c to ⅞c. Receipts continue heavy, and there is not much demand for corn for shipment east.

Arrivals here were 849 cars, with 526 cars inspected yesterday, and primary arrivals were 1,137,000 bu, compared to 883,000 bu a year ago. Cables were ⅛d off at the close. Cash prices were up with futures a little early, but closed about unchanged, and sales were made principally to elevator interests, who are putting the corn in store. Shipping sales were only 115,000 bu. Predictions were for continued warm and generally fair weather over most of the corn belt.

Oats Are Weak at Finish.

Oats were easy at the close, the result of free profit taking. Selling by cash houses was encountered on an early bulge following the opening, and many of the local longs unloaded. There was not much change in the character of the crop news, but there was a more bearish sentiment. Prices were ⅝@1c lower at the finish. Cash prices were not materially changed at the close, but the lower grades were heavy relative to the futures and the shipping demand was not at all urgent. Receipts were 610 cars, with 347 cars the estimate for today. Primary arrivals were 1,181,000 bu, compared to 404,000 bu a year ago. Shipping sales were 145,000 bu.

Hog Products Work Lower.

Hog products were under considerable pressure early. Offerings were heavy and for a time the buying demand was slack, some of the selling being the result of larger stocks reported than expected. On the decline the market ran into fair supporting orders, and declines at the close were not great. Receipts of hogs were 16,000, with 28,000 estimated for today, and prices at the yards were 10c off. Receipts at western points for the day were 118,900, against 73,000 a year ago. Liverpool prices were 6d higher for backs and 1s higher for hams. Receipts of products here were small at 18 cars and shipments were 146 cars. The inquiry for shipment was of moderate proportions.

Rye More Active and Firm.

Rye met with a better demand at firm prices. No. 2 sold at 61c; No. 3, 60c, and No. 4, 59c. Receipts were 4 cars.

Barley was steady, with malting 55@64c; feed, 50@55c, and screenings, 30@48c. Receipts, 51 cars.

Timothy seed advanced 25@30c and sold at $4.90 for September. Cash lots were $3.25@4.25. Cloverseed was higher at $14.25 asked for October.

Duluth flax closed ¾@1¼c lower, with cash on track $1.33⅝; July, $1.32⅝; September, $1.34⅝, and October, $1.34½. Receipts, 20 cars. Minneapolis was ⅞c lower at $1.30⅝@1.31⅝ for cash on track. Receipts, 8 cars. Winnipeg closed ⅝c lower, with July, $1.16¼, and October, $1.30⅝. Receipts, 128 cars.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

An amendment to the rules will be posted today covering trading in indemnities. The new form of insurance trading will be called "bids" for deferred acceptance and "offers" for deferred acceptance. The bids will correspond in a measure to the old fashioned "puts," and offers to "calls." The trading hours will be the same as at present, 1:45 to 2:30 p. m., daily, except Saturday, when the trading will be from 12:15 p. m. to 12:45. The present rule governing the trade in upward and downward indemnities will remain on the books, and any member preferring to trade in the present style of insurance contracts will be permitted to do so. The amendment will be posted ten days, after which there will be a ballot vote of the association, before there will be any change in the method of trading. It is expected the removal of the restrictions imposed by the old law against puts and calls will result in a broadening of trading, as it will place the Chicago market on the same basis practically as other markets which have never stopped trading in puts and calls.

Reports from the northwest were much more encouraging yesterday, the rains being quite general throughout North Dakota, while parts of Minnesota and South Dakota had quite a little precipitation. In western Canada the weather was cool and there were quite general rains. As a result of the precipitation there was a general unloading of wheat. On the decline commission houses were buyers, but there was not the aggressiveness displayed the last few sessions on the buying side. Reports as to the condition of the crops were much more optimistic although it is admitted generally that rains must be timely this summer to prevent serious damage. Le Count continued to find bullish conditions in South Dakota, but Lyle and Inglis did not find anything to become excited about.

Cash corn prices were higher early but later lost all the advance when futures turned weak. The demand was slow and elevator interests continued to take the bulk of the corn offered. The eastern demand was extremely slack. Buyers show no inclination to follow the advance in prices. Oats were weak relatively and No. 3 whites sold at substantial discounts under the July, indicating a weaker position. Country offerings are fairly good. Receivers look for good receipts of corn all through this month. Shipping sales were 115,000 bu corn and 145,000 bu oats.

The demand for cash wheat has not been stimulated much by the firmness in futures recently, and the slump yesterday further unsettled the market. Offerings of hard wheat from Nebraska increase every time the market shows any strength here, and it is understood purchases have been liberal the last few days. At the same time the wheat is being shipped out faster than it is received and present indications point to extremely light stocks here by the first of July. Local sales were only 40,000 bu. Outside markets were about steady relatively.

Wheat, east of Rockies	1,842,000	2,206,000
Wheat, west of Rockies	*316,000	286,000

*Increase.

"The acreage of corn will be about the same as last year" said the Iowa crop bulletin. "The cool, dry weather has been beneficial to small grain, most of which is heading nicely and is in fine condition. Considerable alfalfa was cut and put up without injury by rain and clover will soon be ready to harvest. Haying will begin in the southern counties during the coming week with every indication of heavy yields."

Lyle, the Chapin crop expert, threw cold water on the spring wheat scare, wiring his house from Fargo, N. D.: "Minneapolis to Fargo, 232 miles, except some dry pastures on sandy land near Minneapolis, is all vegetation, green and fresh to hilltops. Been no damage to any crops and wheat could not look better. No basis for compaint; can go many days without water."

John Inglis wired Logan-Bryan from Jamestown, N. D.: "Jamestown to Aberdeen good rains all along the line. Wheat late. Color good. Consider general condition unpromising; disked fields grassy and weedy. Will be some loss in acreage. Flax and barley just coming up. Weather favorable for the present. Too early to make any reliable forecast."

Buenos Aires cabled: "Wheat holds steady but with narrow fluctuations, the export demand continues with stocks light. The weather, however, is fine for new crop development and therefore offers are inclined lower. Corn was firm and higher, influenced by the strength abroad and the strong American cables."

Le Count wired from Redfield, S. D.: "All crops seen today deteriorating fast. Soil dry as powder and all early fields turning brown. Corn stubble and late sown fields in a little better condition. In all early wheat permanent loss is fully 30 per cent and without rain another week the crop will be nearly a total loss. Clear, windy. No sign of rain."

The directors yesterday declared regular for the storage of provisions until June 1, 1914, the Anglo-American provisions warehouses C-1, first, second, and third floors, and C-2, first, second, and third floors.

Baltimore wired that bids from abroad for old wheat were lower than last week, when wheat started to advance. Ocean freight room was said to be pressing in all directions.

John Bert Pierce and John Albert Todd have made application for membership on the board of trade, while Walter Stern has posted a membership for transfer.

Hog packing for the week was estimated by the Drovers' Journal at 550,000, against 610,000 last week and 625,000 a year ago.

Bids on the call for wheat to arrive were 1⅝@2½c lower; corn, unchanged to ⅝c lower; oats, ½@1c lower; rye, ½c lower.

New members elected yesterday were Fred D. Ludlow and Gordon B. Biel.

A campaign for the enactment of laws requiring public auctioneers to pass an examination before a state board of examiners before being allowed to practice that calling, will be asked of every state legislature, according to delegates attending the ninth annual convention of the International Association of Auctioneers at the Hotel Sherman.

The society was founded in Illinois in 1899 and the international body was instituted in 1904, fourteen states and three countries now holding a membership that numbers more than 25,000, according to reports of officers at the opening session yesterday morning.

The call for legislation that would place the auctioneer under state supervision was made by J. Wilbur Read of Peoria, Ill., secretary of the association, and his suggestions were referred to the committee on resolutions with power to draft a suitable petition to state legislatures for action.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 17.—Fruit of the Loom 4-4 bleached cottons were advanced ⅛c a yard to 8⅝c today. Trade continued steady in cotton goods. Yarns were steadier with prices somewhat firmer. Duplicate orders on dress goods such as eponge, bayaderes, poplins, and velours are much better from the cutting trades. Raw silk markets here are very quiet. Foreign raw silk markets are firm.

WEST SIDE CORNER SELLS FOR $300,000

Property at Desplaines and Adams Streets Averages $2,013 Front Foot.

IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED.

New Owner Will Erect $200,000 Structure for Use of Western Newspaper Union.

A notable west side deal involving an important improvement has been closed in the purchase by Mrs. Adeline Freer Sharpe from Bradner Smith & Co. of the property at the southwest corner of Adams and Desplaines streets. It fronts 149 feet on Adams street and 165 feet on Desplaines, with old frame and brick improvements of no value.

The consideration was $300,000, which is at the rate of a little over $2,013 a front foot and $12 a square foot. Mrs. Sharpe has had plans prepared by Architect J. C. Llewellyn for a five story and basement building to be occupied by the Western Newspaper union and to cost about $200,000.

Kimbark Avenue Residence Sold.

Edwin A. Graff, president of the Columbia Malting company, has sold his residence at the southeast corner of Kimbark avenue and Forty-ninth street to Mrs. Jennie B. Moore. The lot fronts 60 feet on Kimbark with a depth of 130 feet on Forty-ninth street and is improved with a twelve room colonial brick residence, built about six years ago. The consideration is withheld, but is understood to have been about $30,000. J. Grafton Parker & Co. were the brokers.

They also have sold for Ernest J. Magerstadt, Miss Anna Nall Ettinger, daughter of Charles I. Ettinger, eighty feet of frontage on the east side of Kimbark avenue between Forty-ninth and Fiftieth streets. The consideration is not given, but it is understood to have been about $16,000. It is stated the purchaser plans to improve at once with a modern residence.

The property at the northwest corner of West Van Buren and Mozart streets, 50x125 feet, with store and flat improvements, has been sold by Henry E. Quindel to Fred C. Ehmair. Consideration withheld and sale subject to an incumbrance of $25,000.

John S. Stromberg has sold to Leopold A. Heine the three flat building, with 39x122 feet of ground, west front, at 816 Sheridan road, lying 141 feet west of Halsted street, for $18,000 subject to an incumbrance of $10,500. In part payment the purchaser conveyed the residence at 3721 Waveland court at a valuation of $5,000, subject to an incumbrance of $1,500. R. G. Ludwig & Co. were the brokers.

Charles Bonner has sold to Wolfram Von Obstfelder the triangular tract bounded by Sunnyside avenue, North Forty-ninth avenue and the Chicago and Northwestern tracks, comprising twenty-four lots, a consideration of $10 being given.

Disposes of 265 Lots.

In a transaction under the Torrens system, M. Cobe has quitclaimed to Frederick W. McKinney a tract of 265 lots in Argo's fourth addition, consideration nominal.

Clara M. Bennett has sold to Elizabeth Hackel an undivided half interest in the apartment house property in Kimbark avenue, 200 feet south of Sixty-fourth street, with 50x165 feet of ground, east front. Consideration nominal, subject to an incumbrance of $20,000.

Charles A. Koipke has purchased from Niels Kjeldsen the property in Gordon avenue, 54 feet west of Southport avenue, 66 2-3x125 feet, north front, with improvements, for $17,000, subject to an incumbrance of $12,000.

The Union Trust company is trustee in a loan of $50,000, seven years, at 6 per cent, to James S. Knight, secured by the property at the southwest corner of Winthrop and Ardmore avenues, 99x150 feet, with new flat improvements.

The same trust company is also trustee in another loan of $50,000, seven years, at 6 per cent, to Mr. Knight on the property at the northeast corner of North Forty-first avenue and Washington boulevard, 76x180 feet.

Mark Levy & Bro. have leased for Adolph Linick to Aarons & Aarons, the corner store in building at southwest corner of Van Buren and Dearborn streets, for short term rent of $11,000; for same to Sims McGuire for lunch club part of second floor in same building at term rent of $18,450.

LOOSE-WILES CO. CHANGES CONTROL

ALSO BACK OF NATIONAL.

But Companies Probably Will Remain Independent; Loose to Remain.

It is reported that control of the $15,000,000 Loose-Wiles Biscuit company has been sold to interests in the First National bank of New York and Norman B. Ream. The reported purchasers of control are friendly to the National Biscuit company, though it is asserted the Loose-Wiles concern will be operated as an independent company. Mr. Loose will continue with the company for a period. There can be no reason for saying that it has been purchased by the National Biscuit company.

The Loose-Wiles is the second largest biscuit manufacturing corporation in the country. J. L. Loose, the president, has been an aggressive fighter against the National company. He thought he had reason to believe he would be president of the National when it was organized. He found later that A. W. Green, who acted as attorney for the company which Mr. Loose sold to the National Biscuit, had gained the ascendency in the new organization, first as chairman of the board of directors and next as president of the company.

Common Stock Practically Controls.

The Loose-Wiles concern has $15,000,000 of capital, control of which is practically lodged in $8,000,000 of common stock. The other $7,000,000 consists of $5,000,000 first preferred and $2,000,000 second preferred, on each of which issue the company is paying dividends at the rate of 7 per cent per annum.

But the $8,000,000 common is controlled by a voting trust and against the actual stock there have been issued trust certificates. The trust agreement is a five year one, running from May 8, 1912, to May 8, 1917. The voting trustees are Jacob L. Loose, William Salomon, and Joseph S. Loose.

In the personnel of this voting trusteeship lies what is thought to have been a determining factor in the disposition of control. William Salomon & Co. financed the refinancing of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit company, which latter was first known as the United States Biscuit company and later as the North American Biscuit company. William Salomon & Co. were the bankers in the last deal. It is assumed they were willing to dispose of whatever interest they might control.

Bank Interests Consider Purchase.

The First National bank crowd is the banking home of the National Biscuit company. While at first the National people made assertions such as competitors usually do, that the new company in its field did not interest them, still the Loose-Wiles, having been organized by high class and aggressive biscuit people, continued to grow until it has factories in Kansas City, St. Louis, Omaha, Chicago, Minneapolis, Boston, and Cambridge, and finally arranged a few months ago for a plant at Long Island City involving an expenditure of $3,000,000. This was about the last straw, and when William Salomon & Co. were ready to consider a change in control the report is that interests in the First National bank were willing to finally consider the matter.

It is known that as far back as two years ago the National Biscuit people considered it inexpedient to dicker for the Loose-Wiles company. The Loose-Wiles people, however, were on their part willing to negotiate.

In 1912 Loose-Wiles common sold as high as 47⅛, against a price a few days ago of 24. The second preferred sold at 92⅞, against a recent price of 90. The first preferred sold at 105⅜, against a current quotation around 98. In view of general market conditions the stocks have held exceedingly well and seem to indicate ownership of control in the company can be made profitable.

Currency Committee Meeting.

George M. Reynolds left yesterday for Atlantic City to attend a meeting of the currency committee of the American Bankers' association. J. B. Forgan, president of the First National bank, who is vice chairman of the committee, left last week. Sessions will be held at Atlantic City. A. Barton Hepburn of New York is chairman of the committee. It is proposed at the Atlantic City gathering to answer a list of thirty questions submitted by Washington to bankers of the country.

Dividends Declared.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 3½ per cent, payable Aug. 9. Books closed July 18 and reopen Aug. 11.

The St. Louis, Rocky Mountain and Pacific railroad declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent on preferred, payable June 30 to stock of record June 20.

The Standard Gaslight company declared the regular semi-annual dividends of 3 per cent on its preferred and one-half of 1 per cent on its common stock, payable June 30 to holders of record June 19.

The Chicago City and Connecting Railways collateral trust have declared a semi-annual dividend of 2½ per cent on the preferred stock payable July 1 to stock of record June 16. The dividend of $1 on the common stock was passed.

Railroad Earnings.

CHICAGO GREAT WESTERN.

Gross earnings of the Chicago Great Western indicate a total for the full fiscal year about $1,060,-000 in excess of the previous year. To the end of the first week of June the gross was $13,024,451. The net results for the year are expected to be between 3.65 and 4 per cent on $41,021,402 preferred stock.

The monthly statements have shown that the greatest saving was effected in the transportation department. The ratio was 39.8 per cent as compared with 43.6 per cent with the previous year. The cost of upkeep increased about 5 per cent.

Financial News Notes.

It is announced the Southern Pacific company has sold $20,000,000 one year 5 per cent notes to a syndicate headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

At the annual meeting of the Philadelphia company the retiring directors were reëlected. The proposition to increase the capital stock from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 was approved.

It is announced the National Tube company has closed a contract which has been under negotiations for two years for line pipe to the amount of between 400 and 500 miles. The pipe will go to Roumania.

It is announced that the city of Baltimore has completed the sale of $5,500,000 city stock, most of which was disposed of over the counter.

Advices from New York yesterday were that the declaration of a dividend on the common stock of the Pacific Gas and Electric would depend upon the ability of the company to dispose of $5,000,000 debentures. The board is scheduled to meet on June 30 to act on the dividend.

LATEST WALL STREET GOSSIP.

New York, June 17.—The most marked feature of the session today was the irregularity displayed by prices. This was true both as regards the main trend of the market and the movement of individual stocks. Throughout there were numerous cross-currents, and no general tendency could be observed. The market opened lower, there was a noon, or, as it is dubbed, "cocktail" rally, which took quotations to about the high of the day. A period of weakness followed in the afternoon, and there was another recovery before the close.

As regards individual movements there was a curious lack of uniformity. Reading, Lehigh Valley, Northern Pacific, New Haven, and Interborough-Metropolitan preferred all moved to new high points on the present recovery from last week's low, while Steel went to a new level since the first brisk uprush from the low of last Wednesday. Amalgamated Copper is now classed with Steel common as the lagging members of the active group. Amalgamated at today's prices showed a rally of four points, after a drop of nearly fifteen. Reading has moved up seven after a fall of about twelve.

Although there was an entire absence of excitement, quotations for the active stocks covered a lot of ground. Fluctuations were frequently one-quarter of a point or even more between sales. Union Pacific was particularly prominent in this regard, indicating a good deal of nervousness.

"Who is buying New Haven?" That is a question which many people have been asking themselves lately. The question does not refer particularly to today's abrupt upturn. New Haven in the loan crowd commanded a premium of 1-16, ⅛, and even ¼ of 1 per cent, which indicates an extraordinary borrowing demand, even in the case of a stock like New Haven. But the selling of New Haven during the last few months has been enormous. All the way down to below par there has been persistent liquidation by investors.

The stock has been supplied steadily, but the decline has gone on in an orderly manner. There has always been a good market for it, even when the pressure was heavy, which is taken to indicate a demand from some other source than that merely derived from operations by shorts.

For generations New Haven has been the favorite New England investment stock. But the revelations that have been made concerning the company's condition and the great depreciation in price have undoubtedly given it a black eye with a great many of its former friends. People who have means of knowing say that the New England investor has been so thoroughly frightened by what has happened that it is unlikely that the private investor in that section of the country would consider New Haven even at present prices. If this is the case, the New Haven stock sold must be finding a strange resting place.

The problem is, to whom is the stock most likely to appeal? Persons who think the recent buying a little too consistent to proceed simply from private investors are exercising their imagination to find a logical resting place for the stock. It is suggested that it might not be altogether surprising to hear some fine day that Pennsylvania had turned up with control of the system. The Pennsylvania already owns $4,062,000 of the common stock of the New Haven. An interesting question would be then what price New Haven should sell at plus Pennsylvania management.

The chief result of a big break in stock prices is a tremendous cancellation of long and short contracts and a remaking of more contracts lower down. Many large holdings are split up into smaller parcels and new large holdings are accumulated lower down. The net effect upon the floating supply of stocks may be small. The actual consumption of stock by investors who remove their purchases from the street may reduce the supply. But the volume of outside liquidation may greatly if not entirely nullify this influence.

It will take fresh liquidation, either local or outside, at this point to put the stock market down much further. A continuance of investment buying or a making of fresh contracts for the advance will put it up. The large borrowing demand prevailing at the present time is not considered much of a factor as regards the technical condition of the market. This particular development is accounted for on the theory that commission houses who have liquidated large blocks of stock for their customers which have been financed with time loans are obliged to borrow the stock sold pending the maturity of these loans.

The attitude of the speculator for the rise toward the stock market has changed considerably during the last few days. Theoretically, at least, that of the investor has not. The speculator has seen several days of a violent rise in prices and then a period when quotations fluctuated back and forth just underneath the top. What he has seen has been the normal behavior of a stock market after the shock of a sensational collapse in quotations.

Developments have, in other words, been entirely according to precedent. Just at present he does not think that the market looks attractive from a speculative standpoint. He wants definite signs of what its immediate future course is likely to be. As concerns the attitude of the investor pure and simple, it is pointed out that if stocks were a good purchase last week they ought to be a good purchase now, when they are only a few points higher, and a better purchase still on every point of reaction.

Few persons can expect to get in on the ground floor, and the investor who buys now has the advantage of having his orders executed in a quiet market.

NEW YORK STOCKS HIGHER AT CLOSE

Market Has Uncertain Course, but Representative Issues Advance Generally.

MUCH OF TRADING DULL.

Foreign Selling Well Absorbed and Late Rally Drives Bears to Cover.

New York, June 17.—An uncertain course was followed today by the stock market, which was dull to the point of stagnation much of the time. The close of the day found prices of many representative stocks well above yesterday's final figures, although below the highest quotations of the session.

The slump of the market yesterday apparently was discouraging to foreign holders of American securities, who sold freely in this market today. Foreign selling was a large factor in the decline of the market at the opening and London disposed of about 20,000 shares here on balance.

In spite of pressure from abroad and renewed selling by traders, who sought to extend yesterday's decline, the market quickly rallied from the opening break, rising with an ease which suggested that the short interest had been largely extended.

Bears Driven to Cover.

The decline induced no further liquidation, and bear traders, finding the market moving against them, covered. Reading was in especially good demand, displaying most strength of the leaders. The Harriman shares were helped by reports that a dissolution plan had been worked out to the satisfaction of all the parties at interest. Interborough Metropolitan preferred, which has developed marked strength recently, rose nearly four points, to the accompaniment of gossip concerning prospects of a dividend payment.

One reason ascribed for the increasing dullness of the market was the disposition of traders to hold off until President Wilson's message regarding currency legislation is read and some definite word is received regarding the attitude of the courts toward the latest plans for segregation of the Harriman roads.

Bond Market Shows Firmness.

Bonds were firm, totals sales, par value, $1,441,-000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Money on call steady, 2@2¼ per cent; ruling rate, 2¼, closing bid 2¼, offered at 2½. Time loans, easier; 60 days, 4@4¼ per cent; 90 days, 4½@4¾; 6 months, 5¼@5½. Prime mercantile paper, 6 per cent. Sterling exchange, firm with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.8320 for 60 day bills and at 4.87 for demand. Commercial bills, 4.8⅝. Bar silver, 59½c. Mexican dollars, 48c. Government bonds, steady; railroad bonds, firm.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, June 17.—The stock market was depressed today. The setback in New York and the marketing of some of the recent settlement wreckage started an easy tendency, which was accentuated later by continental selling and dearer discount. The closing was irregular and near the lowest with vague rumors circulating of more trouble, both here and in Paris. Consols lost three-sixteenths. American securities fluctuated irregularly during the forenoon. The rates decision upset the market and the undertone was weak until late in the session, when New York buying caused a slight recovery and a steadier closing. Money was easier, but discount rates were advanced 1-16@⅛.

Employment Agencies.

MR. HIGH GRADE MAN—NEVER have we been so busy. The good jobs are simply pouring in, regardless of the weather. Now, why don't you get out of that rut. We have nothing in the world to gain unless we absolutely place you in a position you are willing to accept. Come in and talk it over. See for yourself. Think of it, we placed 12,000 people last year through our organization, dealing with about 12,000 of the best concerns on the North American continent. They know who and what we are, because of their ten years' dealing with us.

We could fill this entire column listing the positions we absolutely have open, but what we need mostly is good Office, Sales, Factory, Advertising, and General Managers, Head Bkkprs., Accts., Asst. Bkkprs., Ledgermen, Cost Men, Corres., 7 Sales Managers, Traveling Auditors and over 45 good openings for General Office Clerks, paying $10-$20 per week such as Cost, Ledger, Shipping, Receiving, Bill, Bank, Insurance, R. R., and neat appearing young fellows with or without experience.

NO REGISTRATION FEE
on positions paying less than $12.00 per week for a limited period, in order to clean up the small positions. It don't cost any young fellow one cent unless we actually place him in a position.

OUR ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT.
We have such a fine list of openings for Supts. and Foremen, paying up to $7,500 per year, also Designers, Draftsmen, Engineers, and College men. We have over 129 positions in this department alone.

Now if you are a technical man of any kind, Don't waste another minute; come in for a show down. We are not spending money advertising for our health. We absolutely have the positions open. Your case is not an exception.

DO YOU KNOW we have ten private offices and four of these offices are devoted to the Engineering Department alone? You need us and we need you, therefore it is up to you to get us together. If you cannot call, write us. Call us up and make an appointment. We are open until 6:30 every day.

EXCEPTIONAL Business Opportunity.

An old established manufacturing and wholesale mercantile house in Chicago—one of the largest and most successful in their line of business—has decided to retire and has commissioned us to offer for sale their entire business. It is an Illinois corporation with a record of uninterrupted success for the last 30 years. The net profits during the 13 years since 1900 on a capitalization of $200,000 have aggregated about $850,000, and the business never was in a more prosperous condition than at the present time.

This is an opportunity seldom offered to parties with capital to secure an established business on a basis which will insure large returns on the money invested.
